ITALY AND ALLIES ORDER HALT IN FASCIST PURGE

Graziani Reported Shot; Duce's Body in Wood Coffin

MILAN, Italy, April 30 (AP)—The beaten, misshapen body of Benito Mussolini lay tonight in a crude wooden coffin in the Milan morgue while still vengeful Italian Partisans, moving against other former fascist leaders, were reported already to have tried and executed Marshal Rodolfo Graziani.

Marshal Rodolfo Graziani

Headquarters of the national liberation committee received an unofficial report that the captured Graziani, former chief of staff of the Italian army and loser of the first Libyan campaign, had been tried and sentenced today and the execution carried out immediately, but there was no immediate official confirmation.

Demonstrations continued in Milan during the day as funerals were held for patriots who were killed in the revolt last week.

Orders End to Executions

The prefect of the Milan region, acting upon instructions by the Italian government and allied military authorities, issued a proclamation ordering immediate cessation of summary judgments and arbitrary executions. Violators of the order were warned that "Italian and AMG authorities will adopt extremely severe measures."

The national liberation committee issued a statement, published in the Milan press, saying it had ordered the execution of Mussolini and his companions.

"The Italian people could not have begun a free and normal life if the committee had not tempestuously demonstrated the firm decision to execute the judgment already handed down by history," said the statement. "Only by this clear break with the shameful and criminal past could the Italian people have been assured the committee is resolved to follow a straight course for the democratic rebirth of the nation."

Lies Near Mistress

The bodies of Mussolini, 61, former dictator and Fascist leader, his beautiful young mistress, Claretta Petacci, and 17 of his Fascist followers were removed to the morgue today reportedly at the request of Cardinal Schuster, who had appealed to the people when Milan was liberated to suspend all cruelty and leave justice to regular tribunals.

After Mussolini and his companions had been shot by Partisans near Como Saturday, the bodies were first thrown on the ground of the Piazza Quindici Martiri [square of the 15 martyrs, formerly the

Chicagoans Freed

Chicago Tribune reporter Hal Foust yesterday visited the prison camp at Moolsburg, Germany, where 30,000 allied prisoners have been freed, and obtained the names of many Chicagoans who asked him to notify their relatives of their liberation. Turn to page 4 for Mr. Foust's story and the names together with pictures of 54. Under new government rules war correspondents are permitted to give families first notification of the release of prisoners from enemy camps.

Yanks' Attack Surprises SS; 32,000 Freed

DACHAU, Germany, April 30 (AP)—Dachau prison, Germany's most dreaded extermination camp, has been captured and its surviving 32,000 tortured inmates freed by outrageo American doughboys who killed or captured its garrison in battle.

Dashing to the camp atop tanks, bulldozers, self-propelled guns—anything with wheels—the Yanks of the 42d and 45th divisions hit the notorious prison northwest of Munich shortly after the lunch hour yesterday. Scores of Nazi guards were captured and dozens slain in the surprise attack.

The American troops were joined by trusty prisoners working outside the barbed wire enclosures. Frenchmen and Russians, grabbing up weapons dropped by the slain SS guards, acted swiftly on their own to exact full revenge from their tormentors.

Report Famous Men Moved

Officials said the Nazis recently moved several distinguished inmates, including Marshal Stalin's son, Jacob Djugashvili, captured on the Russian front in 1941; the former Austrian chancellor, Kurt Schuschnigg, and his wife, and Pastor Martin Niemoeller, the German anti-Nazi Protestant leader.

[Prisoners at another liberated German camp reported Schuschnigg had been executed earlier this month.]

Three princes also were reported moved, among them Frederick Leopold and Xavier de Bourbon de Parme.

One of the prisoners remaining claimed to be the son of Leon Blum, former French premier.

Prisoners who said they had had access to the records and inner workings of the camp said 9,000 internees died of hunger or disease or

Reds Ride to Power in North Italy

CHIASSO, Switzerland, April 30—A wave of communism is sweeping northern Italy in the wake of its liberation, it is reported here. In Como, the Committee of National Liberation appointed as mayor a Signor Nulli of the Action party, and as provisional prefect, Enrico Rosasco, a Liberal. They could not take possession of their offices, finding them already occupied by Signor Mani, a Communist leader.

At Milan, Mayor Lombardi of the Partito Dazione already is replaced by a Socialist. At Turin, the new mayor is Signor Roveda, a Communist, who had escaped from Verona prison, reached Switzerland, and returned only last Thursday to Piedmont.

Ordered by Communist

The grewsome exhibition of the bodies of Mussolini and his accomplices reportedly was ordered by a powerful Communist Partisan leader, identified as Moscatelli, from Valle d' Ossola, who took Novara Wednesday. Moscatelli was reported in Milan Saturday.

Mussolini and company's execution is believed to have political significance. The Partisans apparently feared, if the duce were delivered to the Anglo-Americans, that his trial would be delayed and he would take advantage of any procrastination to find loopholes to escape capital punishment. The Gazette de Lausanne said further the executions tend to frighten democracy's enemies.

Can't Be Quizzed

Italian moderates point out, however, that Mussolini and his neo-Fascist accomplishments now cannot be questioned to ascertain Hitler's plans and that many historical questions will be buried with him.

The occupation of Trieste by the Yugoslavs on the day following the exhibition of the bodies also seems to find significance in Italian imaginations.

Italy Demands Allied Control Over Trieste

ROME, April 30 (AP)—The Italian government demanded tonight that Trieste and all of the Venezia Giulia province, ceded to Italy after World War I, and now being occupied by Marshal Tito's Yugoslav troops, be governed by allied military authorities "under terms of the armistice."

Premier Ivanoe Bonomi conferred with allied leaders on whether the Yugoslavs should be permitted to occupy the territory at the head of the Adriatic sea. Trieste, an important port, has been a bone of contention between the two countries for years.

An Italian government bulletin said a solution to the controversy could not be reached until both Italy and Yugoslavia have governments duly chosen by a majority of their peoples.

Report Called Alarming

News that Marshal Tito's forces had entered Trieste was headlined "an alarming report" in one newspaper and provoked shouts of "Long live Italian Trieste!" at a student demonstration.

The government press office released a resolution by the Messina National Liberation committee expressing hope that "all attempts made by any one planned and aimed at taking away from Italy Trieste and other Italian territories be decisively prevented."

At the same time the independent Rome newspaper Il Tempo asked why French troops were crossing into northwestern Italian territory which already had been mostly cleared of German resistance by Partisan action.

NEW TURN IN HISTORY

Reports that Marshal Tito's Yugoslav troops had entered the Italian city of Trieste marked a new turn of the wheel of history for the strategic port at the head of the Adriatic sea.

Before World War I. Trieste belonged to Austria, and was the principal port of the Austro-Hungarian empire.

After the war, Trieste was ceded to Italy, which promptly set out to Italianize it by closing Slav schools, expelling Slav priests, and deporting Slav patriots. This was a change from the toleration practiced when Austria ruled the city.

Trieste lost the goodwill of the Slavic hinterland, and went into a decline as a greater port city.

When Germany emerged as the top dog in Europe, Italy submitted to an agreement which virtually gave the Reich control of Trieste, and made Germany a Mediterranean power.

Allies Invade Borneo East Coast: Tokyo

San Francisco, Cal., May 1 [Tuesday]—(AP)—Tokyo radio today reported allied assault forces have landed on Borneo.

The broadcast, recorded by the federal communications commission, said troops hit the east coast in the Tarakan area last night and were engaged by defending garrisons in "fierce combat."

As usual in reporting such landings the Japanese broadcaster claimed that the assaults were repulsed.

Island Bombed Daily

American troops reconquering the Philippines have been steadily closing in on Borneo, and bombed the oil rich island every day of April.

Tarakan is a small island off the northeast coast of Borneo, an easy jump from American held Tawitawi in the Sulu archipelago.

The Japanese broadcast said:

"In the Tarakan area on the east coast of Borneo Japanese garrisons are engaged in fierce combat with enemy forces that landed late last night under cover of off-shore bombardment. Previously at noon yesterday a landing attempt was repulsed."

Report Entirely Unconfirmed.

The report was entirely without American confirmation, but all recent invasions of Pacific islands have been first announced by Tokyo radio.

Borneo, rich in oil, is the most sparsely settled island of the Southwest Pacific. Only two people live in each square mile of the mountainous, jungle covered area.

FINAL BERLIN ASSAULT ON, STALIN SAYS

Possible Hideout of Hitler Besieged

LONDON, May 1 [Tuesday] (AP)—Red army troops captured the wrecked shell of the German reichstag yesterday in a drive into the administrative heart of blazing Berlin.

Sweeping across barricades in wide Koenigsplatz, the Russians broke into the Reichstag and "hoisted the banner of victory," Moscow said.

The fall of the entire city appeared imminent. The Russian sweep, stepped up to unprecedented fury in a possible bid to win the Nazi capital today while Moscow celebrates May day, threatened to split the city into two isolated pockets, each less than nine miles square.

Germans Admit Defeat

German broadcasts admitted that the 10 day battle for the city was as good as lost. Premier Stalin in a special May day order of the day issued "during the victorious completion of the war" left little doubt that the city's end—and the end of the war—were close at hand. "The last assault is on," he said.

An early morning supplement to the regular Moscow bulletin said, however, that the Germans were stubbornly keeping street crossings and houses under heavy fire, "killing in the process the civilian population of the city."

At Triumphal Arch

The Russians were at Berlin's triumphal arch, the Brandenburg gate, and were across the Spree river from Berlin's cathedral.

From the Brandenburg gate, across the street from the American embassy, they battered their way into the eastern end of the Tiergarten and laid siege to the underground fortress, where Hitler and Propaganda Minister Goebbels have been reported directing the city's defense.

The reichstag and the ministry of the interior fell to Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st White Russian army street fighters after they had stormed over the Moike river bridge from Moabit, and seized the ministry of the interior.

Zhukov's troops also captured 200 blocks in the heart of the city. The Central postoffice on the east bank of the Spree opposite the dom [cathedral] also was seized by troops battling into the center from Alexander platz. The fall of these buildings placed Red army assault forces at either end of mile long Unter den Linden.

Mile Between Two Prongs

Only a mile separated Zhukov's troops at the reichstag from those who, advancing under the central district from the south, captured Anhalter rail station Sunday. A junction in the center of Berlin would split the fanatical German defenders into a nine square mile pocket to the north—in the area of Wedding, Gesundbrunnen, and Humboldhain—and another pocket southwest of the Tiergarten.

In the latter area, Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 1st Ukrainian troops captured several blocks of buildings in the city district of Wilmersdoff and won the Westkreuz railway switching yards, four miles southwest of the reichstag.

The mile-long area between Zhukov's two prongs is packed with all Germany's major administrative buildings, including Hitler's own great reichschancellery.

Administrative Center

As 9,000 more Nazi troops surrendered in Berlin, raising to 65,500 the toll of enemy dead and captured in four days, north of Berlin Red army troops, rolling out mile an hour gains across Mecklenburg province, seized the Baltic port of Greifswald and smashed within 42 miles of Rostock.

Far to the south, Gen. Andrei I. Yeremenko's 4th Ukrainian army captured Moravska-Ostrava, the "Pittsburgh of Czechoslovakia," while cavalrymen of the 2d Ukrainian army plunged thru the Morava river valley.

Sugar Ration Is Cut to Help Feed Europe

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP)—A 25 per cent cut in sugar rations was announced tonight by the office of war information, which said sugar reserves are at "rock bottom."

The new sugar stamp, number 36, good for five pounds and valid tomorrow, must last four months instead of three, OWI announced in behalf of the office of price administration and the war food administration.

Home canning allotments also were slashed. Only 70 per cent as much sugar will be available for rationing as in 1944, and the maximum 1945 canning allotment will drop to 15 pounds, compared with 20 pounds last year. No family, however large, may receive more than 120 pounds of canning sugar, as against the 1944 limit of 160 pounds.

Institutions Are Cut

Restaurants, hotels, schools, and other institutional users were cut considerably, and such industrial users as bakers and canners also may expect a reduction on July 1.

"No increase in total sugar supply can be expected for more than a year," said OWI.

The move was attributed to "a sharp reduction in sugar supplies, tremendously increased requirements for liberated Europe, and a rate of civilian consumption exceeding allocations."

"Consumers this year for the first time in two decades must depend entirely on current production," the announcement said.

Americans used sugar in the first three months of this year at a rate which threatened to exhaust all supplies by this fall, WFA reported. The 1,340,000 tons rationed to civilians before April 1 amounted to more than one-fourth of the total supply available for the year. Normally the first three months are the low consumption period.

World Production Down

First-of-the-year rations were based on an anticipated volume of world production which failed to materialize, it was explained.

A report of the inter-agency committee on foreign shipments by Leo T. Crowley, which was released tonight, described the reduction as "a real sacrifice on the part of the people of the United States."

"But the sacrifice will be small in comparison with the contribution it will make to the undernourished, if not actually starving, peoples of the liberated countries," the Crowley committee said.

OWI said total American sugar consumption is still the highest in the world and that Americans, despite all cuts, "hold the lion's share of the world sugar supply."

BRITISH DISCUSS REPORTED PEACE PLEA OF HIMMLER

BY E. R. NODERER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, April 30—Prime Minister Churchill called members of the British war cabinet together late tonight for a second time within a few hours. The cabinet, it was reported, discussed the latest note covering Gestapo Chief Himmler's capitulation offer which Stockholm dispatches asserted had been addressed to Russia as well as to America and Britain. Count Folke Bernadotte of Sweden is reported to be the emissary in the negotiations.

Count F. Bernadotte

The prime minister, according to information here, spoke to President Truman and Marshal Stalin by telephone this evening and also had a long conversation with Foreign Secretary Eden at San Francisco. There was a suggestion in political quarters that Eden and Deputy Prime Minister Attlee may return to Britain shortly, leaving Ambassador Halifax and others to represent Britain in San Francisco.

Stage Set for Windup

Mindful of Churchill's earlier discouragement of V-E day talk, some observers believed the prime minister tomorrow would likely repeat the warning to the public not to accept capitulation reports until an official announcement is made by Big Three powers.

There were ample indications, however, that the allies have the stage set for the finale. An "instrument of surrender" already has been drawn up by allied military and political leaders, it was reported. The document, which will be handed to Himmler or whoever makes the formal move on behalf of the Germans, contains thousands of words setting out in detail the orders which must be given to German forces, industry, and national and local government officials to make the surrender effective.

Couple of Days' Delay Seen

Despite the fever of excitement stirred up by ministerial discussions, London diplomats believe a couple of days may be needed before exchanges between Himmler and Count Bernadotte reach a conclusion.

Another meeting of the British war cabinet is scheduled tomorrow before parliament assembles at which it is expected the final decision will be taken as to what, if anything, Churchill will reveal in the house of commons regarding peace moves.

Nazi Answer Forwarded

STOCKHOLM, May 1 [Tuesday] (AP)—The newspaper Dagens Nyheter said today Count Bernadotte, Swedish emissary who reportedly has been acting as a go-between for peace between the allies and Germany, had forwarded the German answer to capitulation demands to an allied legation in Stockholm yesterday.

RED OBJECTIONS TO ARGENTINE SEAT IGNORED

Russian Satellite States Admitted

ARGENTINE DEBATE

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., April 30—In the first public battle of the international conference to abolish war, Russia today went down to defeat, overwhelmed by the United States, Great Britain, and the Latin American countries.

Over the vigorous opposition of V. M. Molotov, Russian commissar for foreign affairs, the conference admitted Argentina by an overwhelming majority.

The action followed an impassioned address to the 46 delegations in the Opera house by Molotov, who pleaded that the Polish puppet government set up by Russia at Warsaw is more entitled to representation in the conference and in the proposed peace league than is Argentina, the late sympathizer with the axis powers.

Progress of Battle

Here are the stages of the battle:

1. The seating of the White Russian and Ukrainian soviet republics, giving Russia three votes in the conference and the league, was unanimously approved by the executive committee, the steering committee, and finally the conference in the fifth plenary session, late this afternoon.

2. The executive committee voted 9 to 3 in favor of seating Argentina, Molotov, in opposition, being supported by the Russian satellite states, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia.

3. The steering committee voted 41 to 5 to admit Argentina, the opposition consisting of Russia, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Greece, and Belgium.

Pleaded for Delay

4. In the plenary session of the conference that followed, Molotov moved a delay of a few days for investigation of the qualifications of Argentina for membership in the league. This motion was defeated, 7 to 28, Molotov's support consisting of Norway, New Zealand, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, and Iran, with France and 10 others not voting.

5. On the ensuing motion to seat Argentina the vote was 31 in favor, 4 against. The opposition consisted of Russia, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, and Greece, 11 nations not voting.

6. Molotov made no motion to invite the Russian sponsored Polish government in the face of the evident attitude of the conference that such action should await the reorganization and broadening of the Warsaw government by inclusion of noncommunist democratic elements, in accord with the Big Three agreement at Yalta.

Other Set Speeches Given

Altho Molotov and his fellow Russian delegates walked out of the meeting immediately after his defeat the incident lacked significance for scores of other delegates departed also as the session was given over to the remaining set speeches inaugurating the conference.

Belgian Foreign Minister Spaak was the only speaker to support Molotov's motion for delay in the plenary session. Colombia, Mexico, and Peru opposed the Russian and championed the admission of Argentina on the ground the Buenos Aires government had complied with the recent Mexico City conference by signing the act of Chapultepec for inter-American defense and by declaring war on the axis. The British took no hand in the argument.

State Secretary Stettinius clinched the case for Argentina, proclaiming the United States in accord with its sister American republics on this question.

Hurdles Cleared—Stettinius

"The most difficult hurdles are now out of the way," said Stettinius after the meeting, and we can now sail ahead."

The Polish government in exile in London, which is recognized by Great Britain and the United States but not by Russia as the lawful government of Poland, pending fulfillment of the Yalta agreement to reorganized the Russian sponsored Warsaw government, sent a communication to the conference thru the Polish consul at San Francisco proposing amendments of the Dumbarton Oaks plan.

One of them would eliminate the power of one of the Big Five nations in the security council to veto action against itself or another country accused of aggression or other breach of the peace.

Another one proposes the adoption of the definition of aggression which appears in the treaties Russia made with Poland, Estonia, Latvia, Romania, Turkey, Persia, and Afghanistan in 1933. These treaties define an aggressor as a nation that declares war against another state, or invades another state without a declaration of war, or attacks, even without a declaration, the territory, naval vessels, or aircraft of another state with land, sea, or air forces; or exercises a naval blockade of the coasts or ports of another state; or gives aid to armed bands formed on the territory of one state and sent into the territory of another state, or refuses to deprive such bands of aid and protections.

'LIGHT' ON POLAND

BY EUGENE GRIFFIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., April 30—Leo Krzycki of New York, vice president of Sidney Hillman's CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, was disclosed as a man in the dark on Polish questions today after he asked reporters at a press conference to "spread truth and light" about the Communist sponsored Warsaw [Lublin] government.

"I have cablegrams asking me to attend the conference of allied nations as the unofficial eyes and voice of the workers of Poland," Krzycki said. "I also bring greetings from the premier of Poland in Warsaw. Of course I can't say I represent him. I couldn't. I'm American."

Krzycki said that "messages we receive indicate that the Polish people more and more accept the Warsaw regime."

"When were you in Poland?" he was asked.

New Cables from Poland

"In 1930," he said. "But I have fresh cablegrams from Poland. I want to tell you people about the Polish situation so you will go out of here knowing more about the problem than the delegates at the conference."

"Who sends you this information?" he was asked.

"The workers."

"What workers?"

"The workers inside Russia."

Krzycki whispered with his secretary, then announced: "I have been invited to appear in behalf of the Polish council of trade unions of liberated Poland."

Reporters for Polish language newspapers hopped on Krzycki with questions.

A woman representing Zgoda demanded: "How many people does this labor council represent?"

"The cablegrams say half a million Poles."

Can't Vouch for Them

"Can you vouch for the people who sent the cablegrams?"

"I don't know them," Krzycki said.

"You don't know them," a Polish language correspondent exclaimed. "You never met these people, yet they selected you to be their mouthpiece. Why?"

"I don't know. I wasn't there."

"Why are the Red Cross and American correspondents barred from Poland?"

"I have these cablegrams," Krzycki said, "and they don't say."

"Why was Bierut, a soviet citizen, named as president of Poland?"

"There is nothing in the cablegrams giving information on that point."

The press conference broke up in a clamorous demonstration, with one of Krzycki's friends shouting: "Why don't you ask the Russians these questions?"

Last night's program at the United Nations theater, which is operated exclusively for persons accredited to the international conference was changed at the last minute at the request of the Russians. A Walt Disney cartoon and a South American motion picture short were replaced by the soviet film, "From the Vistula to the Oder," a 37 minute Russian language newsreel showing the power of the Red army.

Foreign Commissar Molotov sat at the rear of the theater, protected by a corps of secret service men. The full length picture was "The Rainbow," produced in Russia and based on a Stalin prize novel. English captions explained some of the dialog, but Russians in the audience laughed at some dialog that was not interpreted. The picture was not cleared thru Will Hays' censorship office.

RUSSIA LINES UP MORE VOTES FOR GLOBAL CONTROL

Satellites Increase Stalin's Power

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., April 30—Despite its overwhelming defeat on the Argentina seating proposal, Soviet Russia's widening sphere of world influence was demonstrated in today's roll call vote of 46 nations in conference here.

Dictator Stalin has nine satellite nations under his control, but only two of them, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia, have votes in this assembly.

The mustering of seven votes in favor of delaying action on the Argentine question against 28 in the negative was therefore considered a demonstration of strength presaging a large bloc of soviet dominated ballots in a world organization to which some of the satellite countries are expected to be admitted.

Others Join with Reds

Soviet Commissar Molotov garnered the votes of Iran, Norway, Belgium, and New Zealand for his delay motion, in addition to the ballots cast by himself for Russia and those of Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia. On the 31 to 4 vote to seat Argentine, Greece joined Russia and its two satellites.

When the White Russian and Ukraine republics are admitted to the conference Russia will have two more votes. It can look forward eventually also to the support of seven other countries where puppet governments have been set up under rigid communist control.

The countries are Poland, Finland, Romania, Bulgaria, Latvia, Lithuania, and Estonia.

Russia is also bidding for control of France, Norway, Iran, and Belgium and its success with the last three nations was evidenced in today's vote. France refrained from voting. Russia's future role in two other countries, Sweden, and Turkey, remain a question mark but it is unmistakably moving to extend its power in their direction.

Votes May Multiply

The soviets may command as many as 16 votes in the world assembly to be set up here, it was indicated. And Molotov has hinted that he will demand for the 13 other Russian republics the same voting privileges extended to White Russia and the Ukraine. If these were to be granted, 29 votes would be lined up for soviet proposals.

By contrast the United States will have only on vote and Great Britain six.

Molotov's trading position, it has been noted, is unusually strong because it is well known that Stalin reposes little faith in a collective security organization and is intent upon insuring Russian security by erecting a barrier of satellite nations against any revival of the German menace.

He has gone ahead, extending Russian hegemony in eastern Europe thru puppet governments in Poland and the Baltic and Balkan countries and thru bilateral defense treaties with the French and other governments.

Not Relying on Parley

Thus, from the Russian point of view, no tears would be shed if the San Francisco conference was a failure. Stalin has proceeded with such moves as the recent forced resignation of the anti-soviet premier of Iran and the denunciation of the pact with Turkey which fit into his program for Russia's future safety.

Russia's domination of the Czechoslovakian delegation was clearly demonstrated when Foreign Affairs Minister Jan Masaryk brought up the question of Polish representation. As if at a signal, Molotov then arose to demand recognition of the Lublin Poles.

SUPREME COURT SETS ADJOURNMENT DATE FOR TERM AS MAY 28

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP)—The Supreme court today set May 28 for adjournment of its present term, "unless otherwise ordered." Three opinion days are scheduled before then. A half dozen cases of national interest are among those awaiting decision.

The court at term's end clears its calendar of all cases which have been argued, tho an actual opinion is not always entered. Reargument at the next term sometimes is ordered. Some cases may be sent back to lower courts for further proceedings. Cases accepted for review and not argued before adjournment will await the next term which begins in October.

The remaining opinion days are May 7, 21, and 28. In the past the court often has postponed adjournment a week or two. Final arguments will be heard this week.

Appeals pending include the Associated Press case; a civil anti-trust suit in which a federal District court decreed that the AP alter membership requirements.

MOLOTOV GIVES GALLERY THRILL AT CONFERENCE

Turns Routine Session into Wide Open Debate

BY FRANK HUGHES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco Cal., April 30—Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov today turned what promised to be a routine plenary session of the allied nations security conference into a wide open, no-holds-barred public debate on the explosive questions of seating Poland and Argentina in the assembly.

Eager galleries, who had looked for nothing more exciting than a close-up of the diplomats were given the treat of their lives as the vital problems which heretofore have been discussed only behind sentry guarded doors were debated. The orchestra circle of the San Francisco opera house, where the delegates sit, filled up as if by magic when word got around that Molotov was taking the floor.

Anthony Eden British foreign minister, and third of the four conference presidents to act as moderator of the plenary sessions, opened the fifth full session only 10 minutes late at 3:40 p. m. [5:40 Chicago time]. He gave only two taps, instead of the customary three with the big, redwood gavel.

Satellites Approved

Eden declared that the first item on the agenda was the report by the committee raporteur [secretary-reporter] on the meeting of heads of delegations to the conference, and called Mr. Dr. Guillerma Belt of Cuba. Proceedings started off in orderly routine fashion and the scurry for seats brought about by Eden's gavel, found the delegates' chairs more than two-thirds empty.

Dr. Belt reported it was the consensus of the steering committee that the Ukraine and White Russian soviet republics should be invited to be initial members of the security conference, and that their representatives should take seats immediately as requested by the soviet union. Eden asked for "observations," and hearing none, announced the motion approved. Thus, one knotty problem was peacefully disposed of.

The second motion of the steering committee that Argentina's invitation to take part in the conference be referred to the conference plenary sessions with the recommendation that the Argentinians be permitted to takes their seats in the conference immediately was then read. Eden asked again for "observations."

Molotov Takes Floor.

The visitors in the higher seats strained forward as Molotov, who was sitting quietly at the left center aisle in the eighth row, got to his feet. There were vacant seats all around him, but they soon began to fill as Molotov and his interpreter, V. Pavlov, walked down the aisle toward the blue and gold conference stage set and mounted the delegate's rostrum.

Paper rustled in the hands of the hundreds of reporters packed in the big theater. Photographers ran forward excitedly, and delegation aids scurried up the aisles to warn their officials to hurry to the opera house. Mootov looked up at the brilliant movie lights on each side of the auditorium, and took a sip from the water glass beside the microphones. Then he began to speak, in rapid Russian. He paused every few sentences, to let Pavlov, who was taking shorthand notes, step forward and translate into English.

Asks for Delay

"The question of inviting Argentina was raised only today," Molotov said. "It has not yet been discussed up to now by the four sponsoring powers. It is natural that the soviet delegation desires to get acquainted and to allow other delegations to do the same, and therefore has asked that this question be postponed for a few days."

The audience, except for the tardy delegates who were filing clumsily into their assigned seats, was galvanized to silent attention when the import of this statement reached them. State Secretary Stettinius, who held the ninth row aisle seat, left, at the head of the American delegation, leaned over and whispered in the ear of Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], who sat next to him. Sen. Connally [D., Tex.], who sat on Vandenberg's other side, edged forward and rested his hand on the seat in front. Movie cameras ground noisily.

"Anybody knows that Argentina held a special position in this war against a common foe, and that Argentina's foreign and domestic policies not always have been popular," Molotov continued.

Quotes F. D. R. and Hull

"In support of my position, I would like to cite authoritative statements."

Molotov then read a statement which he said former State Secretary Hull issued on Sept. 7, 1944, branding Argentina "headquarters for the Fascist movement in this hemisphere," and a "festering source of fascism," and another by the late President Roosevelt, Oct. 1, 1944, which deplored the "growth of Nazi Fascist influence in this hemisphere," and said he had been following the situation in Argentina "with increasing concern."

"I think the other delegates should be enabled and given time to acquaint themselves with the fact that the situation in Argentina has changed, but that, of course will take some time.

"What will happen if we, without reflecting seriously on this question, were to invite Argentina and were not to invite Poland to an allied conference? It is well known in this war that Poland was one of the most active participants in this struggle, and it is known that Poland has not been invited.

Fears for Prestige

"If we invite Argentina, which has not fought in this war, and do not invite the Polish provisional government, which is functioning in liberated Poland and enjoys great prestige among the people of Poland, we will prejudice the prestige of the conference. That would mean that we have taken a part that would affect the prestige of the conference.

"No one can deny that the Polish provisional government, functioning in liberated Poland is a democratic government.

"We also remember that the three governments—Britain, America, and Russia—have undertaken to reorganize the Polish provisional government on a broader democratic basis, also in harmony with the wishes of the people of Poland themselves and the firm belief that this problem will be settled in an short a time as possible.

"I understand that this question of reorganizing the Polish provisional government is not a matter for this conference but for the three governments and for the Poles themselves, who are anxious to have the Polish provisional government and reëstablish relations with other nations.

"If we cannot undertake the solution of the Polish problem here, it does not mean that we can leave out of account the fact that Poland is absent from this conference.

Urges Seat for Poland

"We should at any rate provide a seat at the conference for Poland not later than for Argentina which has had a part in this war on the side of our common foe. Some will say that Argentina has committed certain sins and that they will be forgotten.

"I wonder why we should forget the sins committed by Argentina, and on the other hand, forget the services committed by Poland to our common cause?"

"We have here among us," Molotov continued, "an Indian delegation. As is well known, India is not an independent country. It is a dependent country. We all understand that the time will come when the voice of an independent India will be heard."

A burst of applause swept thru the big theater when Pavlov read the translation of this statement.

"But we comply with the request of the British government to invite India to this conference, even under the present circumstances," Molotov added. Chuckles broke out in the audience as this point drove home.

"Up to now, all invitations to this conference have been accepted unanimously by the four sponsoring governments. We consider it to be a very good rule and we do not think we should depart from it.

Doesn't Want to Hurry

"I feel that we, all of us, value our unanimity and should make a serious effort to view all propositions which have not been studied up to now. Therefore, we should not like the question of Argentina to be settled in a hurry."

"The discussion of this question should be postponed for a few days so we all could study it, and this is the only request by the soviet delegation."

Sharp applause thruout the whole opera house followed Molotov, with Pavlov at his heels, down the grey-blue steps of the conference stage, and down the red carpeted aisle to his eighth row seat. Eden then rapped for order and announced that the Colombian minister for foreign affairs, Alberto Lleras Camargo, desired to be heard.

A tall, stenographer-interpreter, with curly red hair and a build like a football player's, stepped up to the rostrum with Camargo from the reporter's box below. Camargo spoke in Spanish.

Question of Principle

Camargo said the Latin American delegations believe "there is involved here a question of principle not to judge a nation on the basis of domestic policy but on the basis of international policy and conduct." He told the delegates they were not dealing with a neutral nation, but a nation which had declared war on the Axis powers—" a war which has not yet ended."

"Argentina," he said, "while it is true did not declare war until a late hour, is a nation which adhered to th declaration of war and the responsibilities involved in that declaration. If it did not contribute in the armed conflict, it certainly is in a position to contribute to the rehabilitation of the people of a world torn by war.

"The United States and other American governments have had strong words of reproof for Argentina. The words used by the delegate of the soviet union are true, but, nevertheless, we are dealing with a conduct in the past.

F. D. R. Didn't Object

"The government of the United States, under President Roosevelt did not object at Mexico City to indorse the action of inviting Argentina, setting forth certain conditions to be met. Argentina has met those conditions. The word of honor of Latin American nations as to this point is here affirmed."

Camargo said the soviet delegate had raised the question of "unjustice" if Poland did not have a voice in the peace, but that there had been no effort to avoid an invitation to Poland.

"It is a question of internal organization and which government will represent Poland. Fortunately for Poland, her cause is in very good hands—the hands of the three nations.

Calls Case Different

"Argentina's case is different. We are dealing with a nation that has declared war. We are not interested in analyzing the qualities of her government. We shall consider Argentina as now a belligerent nation."

Eden, who had sat thru all the debate wearing eye glasses with tortoise shell rims, took them off as he announced the next speaker, Ezequiel Padilla, chairman of the Mexican delegation.

Padilla also spoke in Spanish and pointed his finger sharply at the red headed interpreter when it was time for him to step forward. Padilla supported Colombia's claim that Poland and Argentina are "indeed constrasting cases," and said Poland's presence at the conference still was pending because it related to the Yalta agreement. The Latin American nations agreed to coöperate on the Yalta agreement, he said, and they ask that the great powers do the same on the decisions of Chapultepec.

Government Changed

He argued that "when the Fascist government of Argentina still existed" the remarks of the late President Roosevelt read by Molotov, were "right," but that the government in some unexplained fashion, had changed.

When Padilla had finished, Eden promptly recognized Chairman Paul Henri Spaak of Belgium. He spoke in French and the same red headed interpreter translated him to the delegates, with never a hitch.

Spaak said the Russians merely asked for postponement of the Argentine question for a few days to allow them to confer with the governments of the other three powers and that it was "wise for the assembly to grant this request."

The request was "reasonable and legitimate," he maintained, and to accede to it would help to maintain complete unanimity between the four sponsoring nations at this conference.

When Spaak had finished, Eden next recognized the Peruvian ambassador to Washington, Pedro Beltran. The Belgian proposition to postpone decision on admission of Argentina to the world parley was "entirely useless," Beltran said. He also pleaded for recognition of the action taken by Latin American nations at Chapultepec in recommending the invitation of Argentina as a "question of faith" on the part of the other powers.

Stettinius Is Next

Eden then recognized Secretary Stettinius, who told the delegates the Argentine question had been settled when action was taken by the committees. He pleaded for a decision on the motion to seat Argentina before the assembly.

Eden put the question and asked the delegates if they were ready to vote. There were a few "ays" and no "noes." He then asked the heads of the delegations which wanted to postpone action on Argentina's seating to stand. Seven stood. When he asked those who did not want to defer action to stand, 28 stood up.

On the question of admitting Argentina, the vote was 31 to 4 in favor.

The meeting was adjourned at 6:40 p. m. [8:45 p. m. Chicago time], three hours and 10 minutes after it was convened. Eden announced that the 6th plenary session of the conference would convene at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow [5:30 p. m. Chicago time].

AIRMAN LANDS HELICOPTER ON CAPITOL PLAZA

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP)—A coast guard helicopter surprised early arrivals at the Capitol today by landing on the plaza fronting the east side of the structure.

The ship, piloted by Lt. Stewart R. Graham, came from Brooklyn in connection with a 7th war loan bond drive opened today by the 115 students of the Capitol's school for page boys.

The helicopter's value in picking up marooned or wounded service personnel was demonstrated by Lt. Graham and an enlisted man.

YANKS IN TURIN; BATTLE OF ITALY IS OVER: CLARK

Clean Up of Scattered Nazis Under Way

ROME, April 30 (AP)—German armies in Italy have been "virtually eliminated as a military force" by the shattering onslaught of the allies, Gen. Clark announced tonight as American 5th army troops marched into the great arsenal city of Turin and found it already in the hands of Italian patriots.

Gen. Clark, commander of the 15th army group, said the long, bitter campaign which began on the shell swept beaches at Salerno in Sept., 1943, had ended except for mopping up shattered Nazi resistance.

More than 120,000 German prisoners and tremendous quantities of arms and equipment have been swept up in the maelstrom set off by the British 8th army 22 days ago and joined by the American 5th a week later. Twenty-five Nazi divisions, some of the best in the German army, have been ripped to shreds.

Clark Issues Statement

"The military power of Germany in Italy has practically ceased, even tho scattered fighting may continue as remnants of the German armies are mopped up," said Gen. Clark in a statement to correspondents at his command post.

"Troops of the 15th army group have so smashed the German armies in Italy that they have been virtually eliminated as a military force."

British 8th army forces, sweeping beyond captured Venice, drove across the Piave river at a point only 74 miles by highway from Trieste around the head of the Adriatic sea.

Elements of the American 91st division and South African armored forces captured Treviso, north of Venice, and British troops seized an important bridge across the Piave near Nervesa.

Units of the American 10th mountain division, leading the pursuit of enemy remnants thru the Alps toward the Brenner Pass, crossed Lake Garda in storm boats and captured Benito Mussolini's former villa on the west shore at Garganano.

Cut Escape Road

They then cut one of the few escape roads left to Brenner Pass. The only report of German resistance was in that area.

Turin, industrial city of 629,115 population and the last important Italian metropolis to be yielded by the Nazis, was occupied by infantry of the 442d regiment, composed of Americans of Japanese ancestry.

The American troops in Turin were only 28 miles from the French frontier, and their linkup with French forces striking eastward from the riviera appeared to be imminent.

The German garrison of Chioggia, south of Venice, surrendered in a body and the important industrial port of Mestre on the mainland opposite Venice also was in allied hands.

American troops of the 85th infantry division cleared Vicenza, 20 miles northwest of Padua, and pushed on north across the Astico river.

REPATRIATE RED TROOPS FREED FROM GERMANS

LONDON, April 30 (AP)—Several thousand Russian prisoners of war liberated from German camps by allied armies already have been sent back to Russia from Britain on ships made available by the British government, an official source said tonight. Other thousands of Russians were sent home from the Mediterranean area in British transports, the source said.

The disclosure followed Russian complaints that liberated Red army soldiers have been held in allied camps behind barbed wire in "absolutely intolerable conditions."

The Russian assertion was made in a Moscow broadcast quoting Col. Gen. S. I. Golikov, commissar for the repatriation of soviet prisoners of war, who cited specifically an American controled camp in Britain and a British camp in Egypt.

BARE RED ACTION TO MAKE SURE F. D. R. WAS DEAD

Demand to See Body Told by Officials

BY WALTER TROHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 30—A strange incident in connection with the death of President Roosevelt, with a precedent rooted in the musty pages of Russian history, was brought to light in the state department today.

After the casket containing the body of the late chief executive was placed against a bank of flowers in the stately East room of the White House following the trip from Warm Springs, Ga., where Mr. Roosevelt died April 12, Soviet Ambassador Andrei Gromyko called at the state department.

Demands to See Body

With his face composed in solemn lines the envoy, according to a high official, asked that the copper lined mahogany coffin be opened so that he might be permitted to gaze on the dead.

The strange request staggered State Secretary Stettinius. The ambassador explained that he was not making his request thru morbid curiosity, but had received specific instructions to do so from his government.

At length Stettinius was prevailed upon to relay the request to the White House. There it was firmly but politely refused with the explanation that it was the wish of the family that funeral services be as simple as possible and that there should be no lying in state.

Refusal Is Signed

When this information was relayed to the stony faced envoy he insisted that Stettinius sign the message requesting a viewing of the President's body so that Gromyko could give his government proof of delivery of the request.

After some hesitation Stettinius affixed his signature. The ambassador bowed his thanks and went out as solemn visaged as he had entered.

The strange request excited waves of speculation in the highest ranks of the state department, where for a time it remained a closely guarded secret.

At length the historical section came across some precedent in Russian history for the unusual action. One of the early czars became weary of his troubles in reigning and had it given out that he was dead.

Burial Is Faked

An unopened coffin was buried with all the saddened pomp and pageantry befitting royalty. Then the czar retired to the cloistered comforts of a monastery, leaving the troubles of state to his successor.

As a result of this successful ruse it was thereafter required that competent persons view the body of a deceased czar so that no future monarch could escape his responsibilities, according to the historical researchers.

In making the request to determine the certainty of the death of President Roosevelt, Dictator Stalin was seen as seeking assurance that Mr. Roosevelt was not employing a dodge to escape commitments made at the Yalta and Tehran conferences.

While such a request might seem shocking and in bad taste to the western world, state department sources said, it would not seem so to the Russian mind with its infusion of oriental callousness to death.

FIRST V-2 ROCKET GIVEN BRITAIN WITH COMPLIMENTS OF U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, April 30—A German V-2 rocket which fell in Sweden without exploding was flown to Britain last August by the United States army air transport command, it was disclosed today.

British scientists thus had the opportunity of examining the weapon before the first one plunged to earth in this country the following month. The rocket dropped near Kalmar, in southeastern Sweden, in June, but considerable diplomatic dickering ensued before the Swedes agreed to permit it to be brought here.

Removal of the rocket was one of the most hazardous tasks ever undertaken by the A. T. C. The only plane available was an ancient Dakota [DC-3] named The Bug. The plane was suitable for short hops, but was not equipped for the long flight over the North sea and German-occupied Norway.

With its radio compass inoperative and an unreliable magnetic compass, the plane took off with a crew consisting of Lt. Col. Keith Allen of Washington, D. C., later killed in action, Capt. Robert C. Durham, New York, N. Y., Lt. Robert C. Withrow, Lompoc, Cal., and a Norwegian radio operator.

Flying almost blind and not knowing where they were most of the time the crew was able to receive only one message—from the Swedish air port, which advised them to get down quickly as the field was "closing in." The plane landed with scarcely enough fuel to taxi to the hangar.

After picking up the crated parts of the battered V-2, the heavily laden Bug dodged a storm of flak thrown up by the Germans over Norway, but made the return trip safely.

RETAILERS ASK CONGRESS DENY FUNDS FOR OPA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 30—Members of the Illinois congressional delegation were urged tonight by representatives of the Illinois Federation of Retail associations to withhold additional funds for enforcement purposes from the office of price administration until the price control act is "adequately amended to protect the honest merchant from over-zealous enforcement and financial ruin."

The entire Illinois congressional group were guests of the retail organization at its annual dinner in Washington. Joseph T. Meek, executive secretary of the retail federation, said in an address that if certain fair and equitable changes ever are to be made in pricing and OPA enforcement, "they must be made when the OPA asks for more money." Only then, he said, could congress have an effective weapon to represent the best interests of its constituents.

U. S. REFUSES TO RECOGNIZE AUSTRIA REGIME

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP)—The United States government does not recognize the provisional government reported to have been established in Austria under Dr. Karl Renner, the state department said today.

At the department, Acting Secretary Joseph C. Grew said the whole question is being taken up with the government of soviet Russia, whose troops now occupy Vienna.

A Moscow dispatch today quoted Tass, the Russian news agency, as saying in a story from Vienna that the 75 year old Dr. Renner had formed a provisional government representing a coalition of Social Democrat, Christian Social, and Communist parties.

Grew Answers Inquiries

Grew stated that on April 27 notification was received from the soviet government that the formation of a provisional Austrian government had been proposed by Dr. Renner, and that the soviet government was not disposed to hinder this development.

Grew asserted that he had noted the press reports from Moscow on the provisional government but that the United States government has not yet had official confirmation on this matter.

British Resent Move

LONDON, April 30 (AP)—Resentment was apparent in British diplomatic circles today that Russia had failed to consult other allied powers about the formation of the provisional Austrian government announced yesterday.

A spokesman was cautiously noncommittal, however, about the official attitude of the British government toward the regime of 75 year old Dr. Karl Renner.

The spokesman pointed out that the question of recognition had not yet arisen and that the British government had had scant time to study the situation.

One spokesman conceded that the Renner cabinet "doesn't look bad on paper."

Alexander May Go to Vienna

LONDON, April 30 [Reuters]—Field Marshal Alexander, Mediterranean commander in chief, is reported in well informed diplomatic circles to be going to Vienna to discuss issues arising from the formation of the Austrian provisional government with the soviet authorities.

The British and American governments feel that agreement is necessary on the highest level to facilitate the rather complicated occupation plans for Austria.

Field Marshal Alexander's mission, it is believed, is aimed to clear the way for the joint operation of the Austrian control commission. The British and American sections of this body have been waiting more than two weeks to leave for Vienna but difficulties from Russian quarters apparently have prevented their departure.

There appears, however, no conflict on the actual composition of the Austrian government, which is generally recognized as broadly representative of the democratic forces in Austria.

Report Agreement Made

Some changes have, however, to be made in the earlier agreement for the occupation of Austria by the allied powers. Agreement has been reached, according to usually reliable quarters, that French forces should join the three powers in the occupation of the country.

The French, it is reported, will therefore occupy part of the Tyrol and the Vorarlberg along the Swiss frontier; the British, Syria and Carinthia; the Russians, lower Austria, and the Americans, the Linz and Salzburg districts.

Third Australian War Loan Oversubscribed

CANBERRA, Australia, April 30 [Reuters] — The third Australian victory loan of 100,000,000 Australian pounds [about $500,000,000] has been oversubscribed, Commonwealth Treasurer Joseph Chiffey, who is acting as Australian prime minister, announced today.

FRENCH USHER IN THEIR GREATEST MAY DAY TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, April 30—Labor and resistance organizations are preparing to make the celebration of the first liberation May day tomorrow the biggest in French history. Additional zest is given by the left wingers' conviction that during the day announcement will be made that the Europeon war is over or at least that the soviets have completed the capture of Berlin.

Despite the fact that the war presumably is still on, the labor holiday will be more generally observed than ever before. Even banks, cafes, theaters, and movie houses will be closed. Public services will be maintained and civil servants will work as usual, altho the latter acquiesced only grudgingly to the government's order to stay at their jobs.

The national council of resistance has called on the public to demonstrate against Marshal Petain. A feature of Labor day, which is sponsored by the powerful Confederation Generale de Travail, will be an afternoon parade from the Place de la Bastille, site of the old prison which the revolutionaries demolished in 1789, to the Place de la Nation on the eastern border of the capital.

MARS TO SERVE AS SCHOOL FOR NEW SEA FLYERS

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP)—The Mars, biggest airplane in the world, has come back from the war to serve as a flying schoolhouse.

The giant flying boat landed yesterday at the naval air station at Patuxent River, Md., where she took off 17 months ago on her first war assignment — a 4,375 mile flight to Natal, Brazil.

The Mars has made 136 regular trips between San Francisco and Hawaii, flying 300,000 miles.

Plenty of new Mars-type flying boats soon will begin to roll off the assembly lines at the Glen L. Martin company plant in Baltimore.

FRENCH ENVOYS TO VIENNA EYE MOVE BY RUSSIA

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

PARIS, April 30—The departure for Vienna of a French delegation drew the attention of official circles here today to the outlook in central Europe as an independent Austria seems about to reappear.

Information received here in informed circles is that the Americans oppose detaching Klagenfurt from Austria and Trieste from Italy and giving both to Yugoslavia. Marshal Tito's regime appears to desire the two cities. The Americans are understood to feel that Klagenfurt is Austrian and that Trieste should become an international seaport at Austria's disposal.

The question asked here is how far Marshal Tito will have Russian support for his claims, after having allied Yugoslavia with Russia.

Reds Fear Catholic Bloc

Meanwhile, it is understood that the Russian government is increasingly apprehensive lest Austria become a part of a Catholic central European bloc which the Russians believe the Vatican is seeking. This is regarded as the latest form of a western cordon sanitaire against Russia which Moscow has feared for a quarter of a century and upon which Marshal Stalin has put his veto within the last few months, notably in the form of an inquiry sent to Gen. De Gaulle after a speech by De Gaulle hinting at a western "grouping of nations."

With the Russian apprehensions are associated in French minds the news today that an ecclesiastical mission of the Russian Orthodox church, headed by the metropolitan of Moscow, is expected to reach Jerusalem May 6 on a visit to patriarchs of the middle east, notably Antioch, Alexandria, and Jerusalem.

The mission to Christian centers in the middle east is believed intended to show that Russia's opposition to the Vatican is not on religious grounds, and to extend Russian influence in the middle east and the Balkans.

French See a Sign

The French see in the recent repudiation of Ilya Ehrenbourg, writer in the Red Star, by Alexandrov, representing the Communist party, a sign that as the war nears an end Stalin is preparing to insure the supremacy of the party for both domestic and foreign uses in a time when Russian prestige thruout the world has enormously increased.

The party's keen interest in the internal affairs of other countries was shown Saturday when the Moscow radio criticized Gen. De Gaulle for letting Marshal Petain be brought to Paris "not in handcuffs but in a comfortable special train."

...we CROSSED our fingers

We don't mind telling you that when we put in our stock of gadgets for making cigarettes—we crossed our fingers. We figured that the "roll-your-own" art was a well nigh lost talent.

But necessity, apparently, is everything that is said about it. While Chicagoans probably aren't too adept at rolling a cigarette with one hand while handling a six shooter with the other, in the old William Hart manner, they are natural born gadgeteers.

So we're doing a brisk business in cigarette makers. It appears that a goodly number of us spend some of our spare time rolling 'em. A good natured rivalry has sprung up concerning the comparative skill in turning out a well tailored result.

How many sleepless nights the cigarette tycoons are having in the fear of this rapidly developing home industry, we do not know. But we doubt that there is any serious insomnia.

300 CHICAGOANS LISTED AS FREED FROM MOOSBURG

Among 14,891 Americans at Captured Prison

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MOOSBURG, Germany, April 30—Nearly 30,000 allied prisoners of war, including 14,891 Americans, were enjoying GI food this afternoon while awaiting transportation toward their homes. They were liberated yesterday by the United States 14th armored division.

At the camp there were almost 300 from Chicago and many of them asked the CHICAGO TRIBUNE to notify their wives and mothers before the roster can be compiled for the war department's formal notification of next of kin. The Chicago club among the prisoners had a roster of 88 names.

All those we saw were in good spirits and appeared to be in good health. They had little complaint against the treatment they had received from the Germans, they were so happy to be freed.

110,000 Freed by 3d Army

The 3d army announced that approximately 110,000 allied prisoners had been liberated in 36 hours in Lt. Gen. Patton's drive south from the Danube river.

In this one camp an incomplete roster tallied, in addition to the Americans, 8,092 British, 1,643 French, 436 Serbs, 460 Poles, 233 Italians, 2,208 Russians, 171 Greeks, 207 Romanians, 13 Bulgars, 20 Dutch, and 40 Brazilians.

Five Chicagoans, members of a bomber shot down over Dresden in January, were Lt. Wesley J. Isaacson, 2219 Thome av., Lt. Richard M. Styslo, 2932 77th court, Lt. A. L. Kopitzki, 5519 S. California av., 2d Lt. Edward Franczak, and Lt. Alex Wilczak, no street addresses given.

Second Lt. C. W. Shanley, 3546 Bosworth av., on leave from THE TRIBUNE's advertising department, who was shot down 22 months ago over St. Nazaire, helped round up other Chicagoland residents among the liberated. All had stories to tell of their capture and vicissitudes thereafter, but first they wanted to tell the folks at home that they were safe.

REDS WIN 25% OF VOTE IN LOCAL FRENCH RACES

BY DAVID DARRAH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, April 30—French local municipal elections, contrary to what was expected, appear to have given distinct indications of political trends in this country seven months after its liberation from German occupation.

Nearly complete results today disclosed the Communists had polled 25 per cent of an estimated vote of 18,000,000 for a sweeping victory. They will control all important French municipalities, and particularly the large towns, such as Paris, Marseille, Toulouse, Lyon, Bordeaux, and Rennes.

The Socialists, who in many places were allied with the Communists on voting lists, have barely maintained their strength, and in some places have had setbacks at the expense of the Communists.

New Centrist Party

The old Radical party, which was the backbone of the Third Republic, has been thrown back into an insignificant position.

A new group, known as the Popular Republican Movement, which includes the Christian Democrats and has Catholic support, showed considerable strength in the voting and seems likely to head what will be the centrist or middle movement in French democratic politics, if and when this really gets going. Many observers still maintain yesterday's voting is not entirely conclusive.

Women voters turned out heavily, it was indicated today, and so far as can be determined they did not vote in any particular way. They were expected to vote conservatively. A large percentage must have voted Communist.

The Paris municipal council will be as follows: Out of 90 votes, the conservatives will have 24, the center 19, and the left 47, of which the Communists control 27 votes and the Socialists 12.

Tells Old Figures

In the last Paris municipal council, the corresponding figures were: right, 46; center, 19, and left, 25, with the Communists having only eight seats.

It is significant also that Resistance groups made a fairly good showing in the rural and provincial districts. Resistance candidates often were included on the lists of old parties.

According to political observers tonight, the local elections have provided a useful experience for the government in organizing the general elections a few months hence, at which the country will be called on to pronounce definitely whom and what it is for and against.

EX-CHICAGOAN, FAMILY FOUND IN HANNOVER

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

HANNOVER, Germany, April 30—Rudolf Richter, who was employed for many years by the Albert Pick Co., Chicago hotel supplies firm, and his wife and son, Rudolph, 18, were the only American civilians residing in Hannover.

Richter was living in Leipzig, Germany, when Christine Schelbach of Cambridge, Mass., went there to study music after World War I. They were married and went to Chicago, where they lived on Dakin st. When Richter's parents died he returned to Germany to take over the estate, including an enamel factory, and the Nazis never permitted him to return to America. His son was imprisoned in a concentration camp when he refused to join Hitler's army, claiming exemption as an American citizen.

YANKS RELEASED BY NAZIS WILL BE SENT HOME

PARIS, April 30 (AP)—Every American soldier liberated from German prison camps will go home "as fast as the army can get him there," supreme headquarters announced today.

"In return for the German promise to leave the prisoners in the camps in the path of the allied advance, rather than take them along on forced marches, United States authorities agreed that all liberated military personnel would be prohibited from taking further part in the war against Germany, either as combat or service troops, and they are sticking by their part of the agreement," supreme headquarters declared.

The sick and wounded will be given preference and evacuated home thru normal medical channels as soon as their condition permits. On arrival in America each released soldier will get a 21 day furlough.

London Labor to Boycott Trades Council's May Day

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, April 30—The London Labor party has decided to boycott the May day demonstration scheduled in Trafalgar square next Sunday because one of the speakers is to be a Communist, it was announced tonight. The demonstration was arranged by the London Trades council. The speaker to whom the Laborites object is J. Jacobs, the council's own secretary.

CHILDREN VIEW MOSCOW LIGHTS FOR FIRST TIME

MOSCOW, April 30 (AP)—Moscow children less than 4 years old tonight will see for the first time in their lives the illuminated streets and the lighted windows of their native city. The black-out will officially end. Today the city of Moscow had its greatest preparation for May day since the beginning of the war. The celebration will continue thru a two day holiday starting tomorrow. A parade will take place in the Red square for the first time since the outbreak of the war.

DEMANDS SALES OF WAR SURPLUS GOODS TO VETS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 30—The veterans of foreign wars today charged the surplus property board is "derelict in its duty" in delaying issuance of regulations which would give war veterans preference in buying surplus war materials.

A letter written to Col. E. C. Kavanagh of the surplus property administration's veterans division by R. K. Christenberry of New York City, chairman of the VFW national legislative committee voiced protests from "hundreds of letters demanding they be given opportunity to bid on goods offered for public sale." Included were such goods as light planes, jeeps, and cars.

CHICAGOAN SETS 800 REDS FREE, NABS 132 NAZIS

Mrs. Mildred Del Medico, 3453 N. Opal av., needs only to read the April 1 issue of the 26th infantry publication, Grapevine, to be impressed with one fact—that her husband, Pvt. John Del Medico, 23, hasn't been goldbricking as a military policeman in Germany.

According to the Grapevine story, which she just received, Pvt. Del Medico and another military patrolman, Sgt. James F. Walsh of Northampton, Mass., turned a casual stop in a German village into liberation for 800 Russian prisoners and the capture of 126 Nazi soldiers and six officers, including the garrison commander.

The two M. P.s, the Grapevine relates, entered the village and shot at three German soldiers. The soldiers disappeared into a house. Soon a nazi major came out calling that he wanted to surrender. Del Medico said: "Where's the rest of your outfit? They'll want to surrender, too."

His statement was confirmed. As the civilian population watched the procedure, white flags began fluttering from windows. The surrender freed the Russian prisoners.

REPORT PARLEY ON TO SET FREE BELGIAN KING

SAINT MARGARETHEN, Swiss frontier, April 30 [Reuters]—Reports are circulating here that diplomatic negotiations have been taking place in the principality of Liechtenstein.

It is believed they are connected with attempts to rescue King Leopold of the Belgians, which have been in progress for some weeks.

It is reported from Bregenz, on the northern shore of Lake Constance, that a revolt has broken out against SS troops, who returned to defend the town after it had been declared a hospital town. Field Marshal Albert von Kesselring is reported to have ordered the town to be defended after representatives of the Red Cross had endeavored to have it declared an open city, as it is filled with refugees, war prisoners, and wounded Germans.

Advance on Port

PARIS, April 30 (AP)—French troops, including marine Commandos, landed today on Ile d'Oleron, north of the Gironde estuary, with the support of American bombers and French naval units.

The troops began clearing the island of German gun batteries which are holding up the opening of the port of Bordeaux.

The island, 19 miles long and seven miles wide at its widest point, is 14 miles southwest of La Rochelle and 74 miles northwest of Bordeaux.

Attack Nazi Pocket

New York, April 30 (AP)—The federal communications commission said today French broadcasts announced French troops, commanded by Gen. Edouard de Laminat, have attacked the La Rochelle pocket. The broadcast credited the announcement to the French general staff. La Rochelle is one of the Atlantic coast ports still held by the Germans.

Pvt. William Koban, who lived at 610 Grove st., Aliquippa, Pa., escaped thru German lines into American positions across the Elbe river. He was captured at Cassino, Italy, in 1943, and was sent to Germany as a prisoner of war.

MUNICH, NAZI CRADLE, HAILS YANK VICTORS

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MUNICH, Germany, April 30—Munich, which so often had hailed Hitler, was applauding the Americans today with a fervor not experienced by the 7th army since it was liberating the cities of southern France last autumn.

As our infantry and armor moved thru the streets of the capital of Bavaria, where nazism had its birth a quarter of a century ago, the Germans were shouting their versions of welcome and tossing flowers and offering wine and beer to the conquerors.

There was one important variance, however, from the municipal parades in France—the Americans went on grim faced, for in Munich as in all Germany, fraternization is not permitted.

U. S. 7TH ARMY MOPPING UP ON MUNICH SNIPERS

Tanks, Infantry Plunge Into Bavarian Alps

PARIS, May 1 [Tuesday]—(AP)—Munich, birthplace of the Nazi movement and the third greatest city of Germany, fell last night to the United States 7th army after a savage one-day battle.

Gen. Devers, commander of the 6th army group, hailed the fall of Munich as the accomplishment of one principal objective of his army group and declared "it may well affect the final stages of the war second only to the fall of Berlin."

All organized resistance was crushed in the three-quarters of Munich lying west of the Isar river and today doughboys were crossing the stream to clear out snipers from the final quarter.

More than 50 miles south of this reputed northern citadel of the Nazis' last stand fortress in the Alps other 7th army tanks and infantry plunged into the Bavarian Alps 12 miles northwest of Innsbruck at the northern end of the Brenner pass, imperiling the entire German position in the west third of the redoubt.

Two New Linkups

Amid reports that the Germans were trying to negotiate final surrender, Gen. Eisenhower's armies hammered ahead in both the north and south.

The United States 1st and 9th armies made two new junctions with the Russians on the Elbe southwest of Berlin and were about to snap shut a trap on large numbers of the capital's defenders farther north.

The United States 82d air borne division, fighting as part of the British 2d army, forced a second crossing of the Elbe river in the Hamburg sector and drove north about two miles.

The British in their own bridgehead 20 miles east of Hamburg were at least six miles beyond the river and were 25 miles south of Luebeck, whose fall would seal off the north German province of Schleswig-Holstein as well as Denmark.

[An unconfirmed Stockholm report said German marines mutinied at the Kiel naval base rather than go to the front.]

In the south, the United States 3d army seized control of 60 miles of the Isar river northeast of Munich, crossed at three points, and armored columns fought 65 miles north of Salzburg, eastern anchor of the redoubt.

Tank Battle Looms

On the east flank, two more crossings were made into Czechoslovakia and armored columns were heading south for what may be a big tank battle in Austria with German tanks moving north.

[The Luxemburg radio said the 3d army and the Russians were about to meet at Linz, Austrian communications city, but there was no hint in field dispatches of any big American movement inside Austria on that sector.]

Plugging at the western end of the redoubt, the French 1st army captured the aircraft center of Friedrichshafen on the north shore of Lake Constance and at the east end of the lake plowed three miles into Austria and captured Bregenz.

The 7th army was pounding two steel wedges into the formidable Alpine country east of Lake Constance where, if any where, the Germans should be able to put up a stern defense.

Report Surrender Plea

But a dispatch from the field said that a large force of Germans standing guard on the northern approaches to Innsbruck was unofficially reported to be negotiating for surrender.

It was on this sector that the Americans were a dozen miles from Innsbruck, which controls all east-west roads thru the Alpine redoubt, after capturing the Alpine town of Mittenwald.

Twenty-six miles to the west, a second wedge had been driven 10 miles into Austria, and forking out along the Alpine highways two columns both were about 15 miles from the main east-west highway leading into Innsbruck.

Free 177,500 Prisoners

Gen. Eisenhower's armies in the last 24 hours reported the liberation of 177,500 prisoners of war and political prisoners.

The infamous concentration camp at Dachau northwest of Munich was overrun by the United States 7th army, which mowed down resisting Nazi guards with tommyguns and freed 32,000 political prisoners.

It was revealed that the United States 3d army had freed 110,000 allied prisoners of war, including 11,000 Americans, at the biggest German prison camp at Moosburg, instead of 27,000 as previously reported.

The Canadians west of Bremen freed camps at Strucklingen and Saldbostel where 25,000 political and war prisoners had been caged.

The 7th army liberated 6,500 British and French prisoners at Murnau, 30 miles southwest of Munich, along with the Polish governor of Warsaw and several Polish generals. Four thousand women were freed from a camp at Aichach, north of Munich.

German Prisoners to Tell Homeland About Britain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, April 30 — Selected German war prisoners soon will return to Germany with the British army of occupation, it was reported tonight. They will be attached to the allied control commission and will have the job of telling the German people about Britain. The prisoners, chosen because of their friendliness to this country, have been touring Britain for months first under escort.

Berlin's May Day: Victory for Stalin; for Germans a Dirge

Strange Flag Over City

LONDON May 1 [Tuesday]—(AP)—Premier Stalin said today in a May day order that Red army troops had "hoisted the banner of victory over Berlin" and that soviet Russia was celebrating May 1 "under conditions of the victorious termination of the great patriotic war."

Stalin's order, broadcast from Moscow, said that "The united nations will destroy fascism and German militarism" and "will severely punish war criminals and will compel the Germans to compensate for the damage caused to other countries."

"Flirting with Allies"

Apparently in reference to the Heinrich Himmler peace offer to Britain and America but not to Russia, Stalin said: "In searching for a way out of their hopeless plight, the Hitlerite adventurers resort to all kinds of tricks, down to flirting with the allies in an effort to cause dissension in the allied camps.

"These knavish tricks of the Hitlerites are doomed to utter failure. They can only accelerate the disintegration of German troops."

Stalin asserted that "mendacious Fascist propaganda" was seeking to intimidate the German people with statements that allied armies all desired to exterminate the German people.

The allies, he said, "Do not molest and will not molest Germany's peaceful population if it honestly fulfills the demands of the allied military authorities."

Stalin said that the Germans had lost 1,000,000 men killed and 800,000 captured on the eastern front in the last three or four months and had also lost 6,000 airplanes, 12,000 tanks, and more than 23,000 cannon.

"By Joint Blows"

"By joint blows," he said, "the enemy troops were cut in two and the allies have joined in one front.

"The industry remaining in her hands cannot supply the German armies sufficiently. German man power reserves are exhausted. Germany is isolated and alone except for Japan."

The May day order directed that 20 artillery salvoes be fired in the capital of each republic of the soviet union and in the cities of Leningrad, Stalingrad, Sevastopol, and Odessa.

Lost Glories Recalled

LONDON, April 30 [Reuters]—The German radio, over its only remaining powerful transmitter, Hamburg, tonight broadcast a program entitled "What Was Berlin?" which amounted to an obituary of the reich capital. Against a background of recorded music, a speaker said:

"Now that our glorious, gay Berlin is tumbling into ruins and ashes, let us recall Berlin as we knew and loved her in happier years and as she will always linger in our memory. Let us remember Berlin, shining metropolis with her breathtaking hustle of buses and cars, her ringbahn and underground, her busy Potsdamer platz and her fashionable Kurfuerstendamm.

"City of Culture"

"There was Berlin with her theaters, her Philharmonic orchestra, her famous museums. There was Berlin, the hub of industry with her great factories, Berlin the city of culture and science.

"Let us remember Berlin at her best during the Olympic games in 1936 when the world had an opportunity of seeing her true face.

"And now Berlin is a heap of ruined houses and smoking debris.

"More recent memories of Berlin which haunt us are the countless nights we spent in our cellars during the terror raids, not knowing if we would see the light of day again.

"And now they are only memories of Berlin—memories gay and painful. Berlin will remain forever the home of millions of memories."

RED FLAG OVER BUILDING USED IN RISE OF NAZIS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

The Red flag flew yesterday over the Reichstag in Berlin, the building whose burning in February, 1933, enabled the Nazi party to win an election and sweep on to its orgy of conquest. The Nazis, themselves, in capitalizing 12 years ago on the incendiary blaze—blamed it all on a Communist plot.

Hitler had just come precariously to the chancellery and announced a Reichstag election for March 5, 1933. His followers centered their attack on the Communist party. Then on the night of Feb. 27 the central part of the Reichstag building was destroyed by fire.

The Nazis made the fire a pretext for wholesale arrests of Communists and suppression of their newspapers. With the chief opposition throttled, the Nationalist Socialist party won the election. The new Reichstag set aside the Weimar constitution and on March 23 Hitler became dictator. The Nazis staged a great trial. Marinus Van der Lubbe, a Dutch brick mason and one time member of the Communist party, confessed, was convicted of arson, and hanged. Four others were acquitted. An international legal commission at London found that grave grounds existed for suspecting that agents of Reichstag President Hermann Goering had fired the building for political reasons.

YANKS SEEKING REDS ON ELBE MEET DISASTER

BY HENRY WALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH U. S. 9TH ARMY AT THE ELBE RIVER, April 30—The confused situation along the American Elbe river front produces tragic as well as comic situations. Yesterday it resulted in an entire American infantry company being smashed by a German SS [elite guard] detachment. Four Americans were killed, 17 badly wounded, and the rest of the company captured.

This company was ostensibly pursuing the favorite pastime of the last couple of weeks—seeking contact with the elusive or uncommunicative Russians.

They marched inland following radio signals they believed to have emanated from Red army tanks and then disappeared. Some hours later a German captain led the 17 wounded Americans to the Elbe river bank and turned them over to the Americans with the explanation they had encountered them in a fair fight. He said the rest of the company was captured and four Americans interred with military honors.

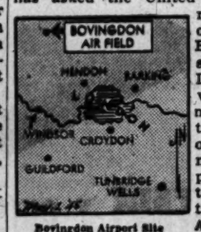
BRITAIN SEEKS QUICK RELEASE OF U. S. AIRPORT

LONDON, April 30 (AP)—Britain has asked the United States for repossession of the big Bovingdon airport, near London, within three months after the victory over Germany in a potential test case on the future of American installations here, it was learned today. The United States authorities have refused as yet to agree to the request on the ground that Bovingdon, first developed as an American project, has an important role to play in the reemployment of men, machines, and materials for the Pacific war. They say it may be needed for a year.



Bovingdon Airport Site

It was understood that the British proposal was based upon the arrangement whereby the rent for the land would be canceled in return for the developed facilities, such as the administrative building and repair shops. For the last eight months Bovingdon has been used by the air transport command and has been developed to a point where it is considered one of London's best.

CAUTIOUS REDS FIRE ON YANKS WHO JOIN THEM

APOLLENSDORF, Germany, April 30 (AP)—The United States 9th army made a junction with the Russians here this afternoon at 1:30 p. m. after a deep stab eastward.

This second joining of the two armies was achieved only after the Russians, suspicious of a German trick, failed to recognize the Americans and blazed away at them with mortars and machine guns and two Americans lost their lives when their jeep hit a mine.

But once the Russians were convinced, they gave the Yanks a warm reception, the bottle was passed around in celebration, and the Americans and Russians posed happily together for snapshot takers.

It was the 12th cavalry squadron, attached to the 83d "Thunderbolt" division, led by Lt. Col. Anthony Kleitz of Denver, Colo., which made the two day penetration from the Elbe bridgehead. Ramrodding the two pronged attack was Col. William S. Biddle from Portland, Ore.

Have to Take Prisoners

C troop, commanded by Capt. Adolf Ploehm of Battle Creek, Mich., was the first to make contact with the soviet troops after a day and a half of winding thru mine fields, past road blockades and pillboxes.

In addition to the battle hazards, the cavalry squadron had been constantly harried by the necessity of taking hundreds of prisoners. Tonight the officers estimated they had taken 6,000 Germans in less than two days.

Thruout the hunt for the Russians Lt. Timothy Theo of Kriev, Russia, liaison officer, kept attempting to contact his countrymen by radio. He heard them talking constantly, but they remained dubious of strange voices over the air—how dubious he had yet to learn.

Run Into Machine Guns

Moving down the road the Yanks spotted a fortified hilltop position ahead with uniformed figures moving around it. The column halted while a few went forward to check—and were greeted by machine gun fire. Lt. Matthew S. Nichol of Des Moines, Ia., grabbed a fistful of flares of the color designated for a junction signal. He went up to within eyesight of the fortified position and fired the flares.

The result was a prompt and efficient mortar barrage which put an end to that sort of dickering. A couple of pocketed German field artillery outfits also opened up.

However, the cavalrymen kept moving in the direction of the Russian lines and reached the junction point a short time later. Clad in uniforms as varied and motley as those of American GI's, the soviet soldiers said they had been waiting in that sector for some time.

BOMBS DAMAGE BUSINESS MORE THAN ROCKETS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, April 30—Flying bombs had a worse effect on London's hotel trade than rockets, Ruppert D. Carte, chairman of Savoy Hotel, Ltd., revealed tonight.

"The prolonged noisy approach of the V-1 and the sirens accompanying it kept people away, whereas with the absence of warning and the sudden appearance of the V-2 rockets the people decided there was nothing to be done about it and carried on as if conditions were normal," he said.

Carte announced that compared to 1943 the company's trading profit last year dropped $102,128 to $1,024,077.40.

GENERALS TRADE TROPHIES; MARK U. S., RED LINKUP

Hodges Guest at Big Russian Feast

WITH U. S. AND RUSSIAN TROOPS ON THE ELBE, April 30 (AP)—The battle stained flag of the United States 1st army was exchanged today for the plaque with which Premier Stalin rewarded the soviet victors at Stalingrad, as the commanders of the United States 1st and Ukrainian 5th armies celebrated their historic junction on the Elbe.

The Russians were the hosts, and it was like a pageant as Georgia-born Gen. Hodges rode thru lanes of saluting American and Russian infantrymen to greet Gen. Alexei Zhadov, commanding the Russian 5th guards army.

Wears 4th Star

Hodges wore for the first time in public the fourth star congress awarded him last week.

A Russian band greeted him with the American national anthem as he reached the meeting place at a flag-decked German chateau, the banquet room of which was hung with red bunting and signs proclaiming in English and Russian:

"Long live the victory of freedom loving peoples over Germany," and "long live the inviolable American, Russian, and British friendship."

Great Feast Held

As the staff of officers and official correspondents for two armies settled into luxurious German chairs, Russian women soldiers brought in great trays heaped with sausage, suckling pig, ham, spiced fish, and other delicacies, plus cognac, champagne, and vodka.

Smiling past four gold teeth, Gen. Zhadov paid tribute to the prowess of the American army and toasted future friendship between the American and Russian nations.

The retiring, soft-voiced Hodges responded with eloquent praise of the victories of Zhadov's troops. He climaxed his address by presenting to Zhadov the 1st army flag, the banner which has flown over Yank troops who have marched all the way from Normandy to the Elbe and captured more than 800,000 troops in less than 11 months.

Presents Plaque to Hodges

Stirred by this presentation, the Russian commander, a pleasant-featured man in early middle age, picked up the plaque awarded to his army by Stalin at Stalingrad, and presented it to Hodges.

Both Hodges and Zhadov—censorship restricted textual presentation of their remarks—expressed a hope that Russian and American friendship would endure in peace as well as in war.

LINKUP LEAVES YANKS FREE FOR NEW CAMPAIGNS

WITH THE U. S. 9TH ARMY, Germany, April 30 (AP)—The linkup of the 9th army and the Russians today foreshadowed the freeing of two American armies for new duties.

The Russians now are established along a 25 mile front of the Elbe river and gradually are widening out both north and south of the original meeting places with the 1st army at Torgau and Riesa. They may eventually be facing the Americans along the Elbe on the whole wide front of the 1st and 9th armies.

It follows that operationally the 1st and 9th armies will be pinched out, except for occupation duties. This will free some of the best divisions the United States has produced for jobs which Gen. Eisenhower or the war department may direct. Several corps and the staffs of two armies also are freed.

Supply Routes Shortened

The allied corridor now is too wide for any German escape south into Czechoslovakia or the Alpine redoubt.

A secure traffic lane had been established for movement of supplies to the Red armies directly across Europe, cutting off thousands of miles from present routes.

Militarily, the junctions leave little to be done by American forces on the north German front.

Denmark and Norway may be the last Nazi strongholds. A British and Russian meeting west of Berlin and east of Hamburg would complete the job of chopping up the northern redoubt.

Road Across Europe

If the Germans resist in those countries, Gen. Eisenhower has plenty of forces available to deal with them, altho the campaigns probably would mean new amphibious expeditions, particularly in the case of Copenhagen and Norway. The Germans could make very expensive a fight up the narrow Danish peninsula.

With a bridge across the Elbe, it now is possible to drive an automobile from Paris to Moscow.

A great many operations problems still have to be straightened out between the Americans and Russians, such as fixing occupation boundaries, liaison, and the like.

FARM DOLLARS WILL PRIME PROSPERITY'S PUMP

Farmers' spending money, over 23 billions annually, is ready to buy the things that manufacturers sell. This huge growing back-log of cash will start America on the way to peacetime prosperity. Every company that has anything to sell the farmer for his home or farm will be well repaid for selling farmers intensively.

Advertisers often ask us why FARM JOURNAL sells so much more goods for them than any other rural magazine. Two and a half million subscribers, is one of the reasons. Half a million more farm families read FARM JOURNAL each month, than receive any other farm magazine. Obviously, the more calls you make on farm people who want to buy and have the money to spend, the more goods you'll sell. Dollar for dollar you'll make more sales to farmers through FARM JOURNAL.

G.I.s FREE 32,000 IN CAMP; FIND 39 CARS OF BODIES

Yank Attack Surprises Dachau Nazis

were shot in the last three months and that 14,000 more had perished last winter.

Typhus cases were scattered thruout the camp. The water supply of the city was reported contaminated from 6,000 graves on high ground which drains into the Amper river.

A French general was slain last week as he walked toward a truck believing he was to be evacuated, prisoners reported. They said SS guards shot him in the back.

Yank Fury Hits Camp

The G. I.s stormed thru the camp with tornadic fury. Not a stone's throw from a trainload of corpses lay the bleeding bodies of 16 SS men shot as they fled the Yanks.

In the mess hall of the SS barracks food still was cooking in the kitchen. One SS officer was slumped over in a plate of beans, a bullet thru his head. Nearby was a telephone with the receiver down.

Outside the power house were the bodies of two SS men slain by a Czech and a Pole working in the engine room.

Correspondents and infantry men found 39 open type railroad cars on a siding that ran thru the walls of the camp.

At first glance the cars seemed loaded with dirty clothing. Then one saw feet, heads, and bony fingers. More than half the cars were full of bodies, hundreds of bodies.

One Man Still Alive

One man's neck was so small and shrunken it scarcely seemed capable of holding a head, but he was alive. An officer put the man in his jeep and carried him to a hospital, where plasma was keeping him alive.

The best information available was that this trainload of prisoners, mostly Poles, had stood on the tracks several days and most of the prisoners had been starved. Others had been shot thru the head. Clothing had been torn from some and their wasted bodies bore livid bruises. Some had tried to escape; their bodies lay along the tracks five or six steps away. One, shot thru the head, was astride a bicycle.

This spectacle was outside the walls of the camp, along a widely traveled road inside the city of Dachau where Bavarians passed daily.

Civilian Minds on Looting

The civilians were looting an SS warehouse near-by, passing the death train with no more than curious glances at the American soldiers. Children pedalled past the bodies on bicycles and never interrupted their excited chatter. Looted clothing hung from their handlebars.

Seven thousand prisoners of the camp were marched away on foot in the last few days, it was reported.

The main part of the camp, where 32,000 skinny men and women were jammed into wooden barracks, is surrounded by a 15 foot wide moat thru which a torrent of water circulates. Atop a 10 foot fence is electrified barbed wire.

When Lt. Col. Will Cowling of Leavenworth, Kas., slipped the lock in the main gate, there still was no sign of life inside this area. He looked around for a few seconds and then a tremendous human cry rose. A flood of humanity poured across the flat yard, which would hold half a dozen baseball diamonds, and Cowling was all but mobbed.

Hoisted to Their Shoulders

He was hoisted to the shoulders of the seething crowd of Russians, Poles, French, Czechs, and Austrians, cheering the Americans in their native tongues. Soldiers rescued him, but the din kept up.

Flags appeared and waved from the barracks. There was even an American flag, altho only one American was held there. He is a major from Chicago who was captured behind German lines when he was on special assignment for the office of strategic services.

The joyous crowd pressed the weight of thousands of frail bodies against the wire and it gave way at one point. The prisoners rushed out, altho still penned up by the moat. Three tried to climb over the fence, but were burned to death on the top wires, for the current still was on.

Two SS guards fired into the mass from a tower, betraying their presence. American infantrymen instantly riddled the Germans. Their bodies were hurled down into the moat amidst a roar unlike anything ever heard from human throats.

URGES U. S. SEND NAZI PRISONERS BACK TO EUROPE

Bender Says They Should Rebuild Cities

BY LAURENCE BURD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 30—A demand that German prisoners held in this country be returned immediately to Europe to help rebuild Nazi-devastated countries was made by Rep. Bender [R., O.] today on the house floor.

The proposal was made shortly after the house military committee was told the army plans to bring 150,000 German prisoners to this country in addition to the 305,000 already here. Brig. Gen. B. M. Bryan, assistant to the provost marshal general, told the house group the prisoners are needed to alleviate the labor shortage, particularly on farms.

Bryan also disclosed that the army has just recently forbidden captured Nazis to give the Nazi salute, and required the American salute instead.

Danger in Idleness

Bender proposed they be assigned to work under authority of Poland, Russia, Czechoslovakia, France, Belgium, and Holland. "This procedure," he continued, "would not violate the principles of international law, and it would remove from idleness a group of dangerous arrogant men who might otherwise one day form the nucleus of a new menace to the world.

"To continue the policy of maintaining German prisoners in American camps here in the United States on a level of American conceptions of decency in the face of the German record is to defeat one of the purposes for which the war is being fought. The thousands of German prisoners who are being well fed, clothed, and housed in our country will go back to Germany with contempt for our American 'softness' rather than respect for our American 'decency.'"

Leads to Surrender

Gen. Bryan read a cablegram from Gen. Eisenhower stating that Nazi soldiers' confidence they will receive good treatment from Americans has lead "a considerable number" to surrender. The message said German belief in American kindness has "seriously undermined" Nazi willingness to resist.

Maurice Pate, director of the American Red Cross War Prisoners' Relief, told the committee that American fair treatment of German prisoners has aided the lot of United States soldiers taken prisoners by the Nazis. Prior to last fall when transportation was disrupted by the allies sweep into France, Pate said, the lot of American prisoners held by the Nazis was "tolerable."

Bombings Ended, London Dismantles Its Shelters

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, April 30 — Convinced there is no longer any danger of enemy bombing of Britain, hundreds of Londoners spent the weekend dismantling their indoor and outdoor air raid shelters. In some suburban areas, almost every back yard has a pile of shelter parts awaiting collection by local authorities. Some shelters are being turned into chicken houses and garden sheds.

Philippine Action

MANILA, May 1 [Tuesday] (AP)—Twenty-fourth division doughboys swept up the western coast of Davao gulf Sunday to within 17 miles of Davao, one of the best ports of the Philippines, Gen. MacArthur reported today.

Resistance on this southern approaches to the big Mindanao harbor was described as "disorganized." The yanks overran an elaborate system of anti-aircraft positions and coastal defense installations with guns intact.

Guerrillas seized Talicud Island, a five-mile-long island in Davao gulf 15 miles southwest of the harbor. P.T. boats, again shelled shore positions.

On northern Luzon, the 37th division, which helped take Baguio Friday, pushed five miles north to seize La Trinidad, where the Japanese once had a large concentration camp for Americans.

NAZI ENVOY'S WIFE AND SON FLEE TO LISBON

MADRID, Spain, April 30 (AP)—The wife and son of the German minister to Portugal, Adolf von Hallen, who landed in Barcelona after a flight from Milan, arrived here today en route to Lisbon.

They were accompanied by the Italian actress, Miria de Sanservolo, whose sister, Claretta Petacchi, was executed along with Mussolini; her father, Dr. Ricardo Petacchi; his wife, and her husband Luigi Mancini, who was for several years a member of Mussolini's unofficial delegation to Spain.

Croatian Count Eugenio Dimonte di Valmassina, two collaborationist Frenchmen, and four Italian crew members of the plane were confined to Barcelona's Ritz hotel.

Piazza Loreta] where they were kicked and mutilated. Later, to make the macabre sight visible to more of the crowds milling constantly in the square, the bodies were hung by the heels from the girder of a filling station.

At the morgue tonight Mussolini's pasty white, grotesque body was in a white wooden coffin to which was affixed a small scrap of white paper bearing in a pencilled scrawl "Mussolini, Benito."

A Horrible Caricature

The top half of the coffin was open, showing the former dictator's battered head and chest. He appeared strangely small, like a hideous wax doll, except for his head which was more massive in death than in life. His jaw, apparently broken, jutted out in a horrible caricature of Il Duce's most characteristic pose.

In similar coffins scattered around the room were the remains of Claretta Petacci and others killed by the Partisans. The coffins of the men were labeled "unknown."

[A Reuters dispatch said the Swiss radio reported last night that Mussolini's wife and her two youngest children, Romano and Anna Maria, had been arrested at Como. It said they had been taken to a convent.]

Roberto Farinacci, former fascist minister and party secretary, already had been reported executed.

Reports in Milan today still were conflicting concerning whether Mussolini was seized by Partisans as he attempted to flee to Switzerland or was returned to the Como vicinity after being denied entrance to the neutral country.

Tell of Shooting Mussolini

The Milan newspaper L'Unita, in an interview with Mussolini's executioner, quoted him as saying the former dictator in a last melodramatic gesture, offered to buy his life "with an empire."

The executioner, identified only as a member of the Communist Garibaldi brigade No. 52, was quoted as saying that Mussolini, as he emerged from a house where he and Claretta, the last of his mistresses, had been held after their capture, turned toward him and said, "I'll offer you an empire."

Instead of answering him, the executioner was quoted as saying, "I told Petacci to come ahead and I pulled her by an arm."

The executioner said they walked down a mule path toward a highway where an automobile was parked.

"On the way," he continued, "Mussolini looked at me only once. He looked as tho he was grateful. At this point I whispered to him, 'I also have liberated your son Vittorio.' I wanted to give the impression I was taking him to Vittorio. "'Thanks from the bottom of my heart,' Mussolini said. When we reached the car, Mussolini appeared convinced he was a free man. He made a motion to have Petacci precede him. But I told him to go first and suggested that he remove his Fascist cap, which he did.

"I had planned to carry out the execution at a place not far away.

"When we reached the spot I jumped off the mudguard and walked to the end of a curve. Then I returned and said, 'Hurry, get over in that corner.'

Fires Five Bursts

"Mussolini, even tho obeying swiftly, did not appear very convinced any longer. He was obedient just the same and placed himself with his back to the wall at a spot I indicated. Petacci was at his right. There was silence.

"Suddenly I pronounced the death sentence against the war criminal.

"'By the order of the general command of the liberty volunteer corps I am entrusted with rendering justice to the Italian people.'

"Mussolini seemed terrorized. Petacci threw her arms around his shoulders and screamed, 'He must not die.'

"'Get back in your place,' I shouted to Claretta.

"The woman jumped back and from a distance of three paces I shot five bursts into Mussolini, who slumped on his knees with his head slightly bent on his chest. Then it was Petacci's turn.

"Justice had been done."

Another eyewitness to the executions said the patriots "renounced all judicial procedure and went directly to the final act."

Mussolini, according to this version, was shot in the back of the head in the Italian tradition for those executed without honor.

Claretta was shot separately, this account said.

Mussolini and his party were recognized at Nusso by a customs guard as they sped toward the Swiss border in German military cars. Partisans were notified and erected a barricade across the road at Dongo. The duce offered no resistance and spent last Friday night in cell No. 6 at the San Domino prison in Como. He tried to talk to his guards and appeared greatly agitated. "Why is no one here to defend me?" he was quoted as asking.

From Como the party was divided into three groups and taken to the little town of Guilano da Mezzergere, and Mussolini and his mistress were placed in a small windowless cottage from which they were led to their death.

TODAY IS 47TH ANNIVERSARY OF DEWEY VICTORY

Forty-seven years ago today, on May 1, 1898, Adm. Dewey sailed into Manila bay and destroyed a Spanish fleet of seven ships in what was, up to that time, the nation's greatest naval engagement.

Dewey commanded the Asiatic fleet, which had been ordered out of the harbor at Hong Kong by the British governor at the outbreak of the war. With his flagship, Olympia, in the lead, Dewey steamed into Manila bay the night of April 30, 1898, sighted the Spanish ships drawn up off Cavite early on the morning of May 1, and opened fire at 5:41 a. m. He steamed past the Spanish fleet at 5,000 yards to fire a port broadside, and reduced the distance to 2,000 yards for a starboard broadside.

He disengaged at 7:35 a. m. and returned to battle at 11:16 a. m., silencing shore batteries and occupying Cavite.

"Necessity"!

The late Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, noted General Electric Company scientist, made the statement, "Cooperation is not a sentiment. It is an economic necessity." What a world of realism there is in that statement. And it comes alive today—when all the affiliates of this Schenley company are making every possible effort to elicit cooperation from their wholesalers and retailers in salvaging cartons in which our merchandise is shipped from our various plants—so that new material can be used for more important wartime work.

A great word—COOPERATION! Comes from the Latin "co," meaning together, and "opus," meaning work—co-opus—to work together. Really, it is one of the most important words in our language—in anybody's language.

Well, the following big figures might interest some of our readers, since they are accustomed to astronomical figures these days: We saved, last year, by cooperative salvaging—nearly 21 million pounds of cartons. In one three-month period, ended February 1st, this year, our Schenley, Pennsylvania plant alone salvaged more than 1,300,000 pounds, and also handled an additional 650,000 pounds of unusable carton material, which was routed to scrap dealers and paper mills, as a part of the company's nation-wide conservation drive. It is estimated that the quarterly total of salvaged paper at this one plant represented the replacement of sufficient paperboard for the manufacture of 7,150,000 Army "K" ration packages.

There, indeed, is a "NECESSITY"!

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic aches, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

TRIBUNE WRITER TAKES YOU INTO WAR FRONT SEAT

How It Looks from an Observation Post

BY HAROLD SMITH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH U. S. 7TH INFANTRY DIVISION, Okinawa, April 28 [Delayed]—Feeling their way carefully forward another 200 yards today, infantry men of the 24th army corps came into general contact with what appears to be the edge of the second ring of Jap defenses in the battle for Okinawa. All three divisions in our line encountered stiffening resistance, then paused to let our massed artillery soften up the formidable ridges and hilltops just ahead.

From an observation point close to the 7th division's front line I watched the softening process. Naval and marine corps planes, shuttling between their bases and Jap territory, wheeled above by the dozen to drop their bomb loads on targets designated by the infantry and by artillery observers, then tilted sharply forward to make strafing runs low over the enemy's head.

Naval guns from ships on both sides of the island spurted projectiles at Jap gun positions both to the rear and on the two peninsulas which flare out at Naha and Yonabaru like the barbs on an arrowhead.

Shells Rustle Overhead

Shells from our land artillery rustled mightily just over our heads close on the heels of sharp muzzle blasts to pick up dusty geysers on the slops only a few hundred yards out ahead and in the invisible territory just beyond. An observer near us was calling the shots on several yawning tunnel mouths on the near hillsides and appeared to be enjoying himself immensely.

Up near the destination of your own shells it is a neat trick to distinguish which whistles are friendly and which are hostile. A shell about to land sounds far different from one leaving a gun barrel. Several times the whine of our projectiles caused us to dive for cover, for we were well within the range of Jap mortar fire.

A tense drama took place in the valley below just ahead of our front line markers. A lone Jap soldier for some unaccountable reason stepped from behind a knoll and started to the right across a rice paddy several hundred feet across. One of our machine gunners discovered him and opened up.

Yanks Watch Him Escape

He halted during the firing, then wallowed slowly on thru the clay bottomed paddy, halted again and again as the burst appeared almost to be stitching him to the ground. It seemed incredible that any one could escape such a fury of bullets, but this soldier did as we watched him with dry mouths and pounding hearts. Deliberately he gained the far edge of the paddy, then walked unhurriedly into the lengthening shadows of a rocky point, and we breather more easily. Even the enemy can command compassion when he is the underdog.

A forward observation post is an eerie spot. It is usually in a sort of no man's land, for the assault troops are in the line ahead and the rear echelons are several hundred yards behind. An occasional supply truck waddles forward now and then thru the shell tortured ruts, too frequently a litter jeep crawls back thru the burned out tanks and ruined buildings with its pathetic freight of wounded.

As you jeep back to your comparatively safe quarters you are reminded poignantly and often of the magnificence of the men who populate the frontal edge of a war.

Americans Seize Okinawa Air Field

SULU'S SULTANS STIR MORE FUSS THAN JOLO JAPS

BY WALTER SIMMONS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

JOLO CITY, Jolo, P. I., April 28 [Delayed]—When American troops landed on this island April 9, they walked into a political mess which makes Chicago ward politics look like an old ladies' knitting bee.

Col. William J. Moroney of Tupelo, Miss., commander of the regiment which is still fighting the Japs on Jolo, has divided his time about equally between fighting and brushing politicians off his neck.

Grim faced delegations of Moros, bearing lengthy petitions, have waited on him in his tent. He has been waylaid in the field by datus [headmen of tribes]. Here are some of the characters in the political battle of Jolo:

Mohammed Jainal Abirin, aged sultan of Sulu, spiritual ruler of his people, who has been recognized as the leader in negotiations with American authorities.

Moro Is Acting Governor

Arolos Tulawie, rich Moro, serving as acting government during the emergency period.

Lt. Col. Alejandro Suarez, fierce looking but soft spoken guerrilla leader, son of a Moro mother and Spanish father, who appointed Gov. Tulawie under his emergency powers.

Lt. Col. Calixto de Leon, former governor of Jolo under the Quezon government—a Filipino and currently an 8th army liaison officer.

Princess Tarhata Kiram, educated at the University of Illinois, a shrewd and politically ambitious woman, who had much influence with the old sultan.

Yanks Upset Sultan

Princess Dayang Dayang, ageing wife of Sultan Mohammed Amiral Ombra. The latter, tho not of royal blood, is the leading contender for the Sululand throne.

American forces have striven to maintain political neutrality, but this is difficult. Their very arrival caused an upset by eliminating Sultan Ombra and lifting to the top Sultan Abirin, who for 10 years has been merely a pathetic claimant to the title. This shift in fortunes also reversed the social positions of Princess Dayang Dayang and Princess Tarhata, bitter rivals.

Gov. Tulawie has come out openly against Philippine independence, declaring there will be civil war in Sululand after the Americans leave. Tulawie, richest man on the island and father of 27 children, has long been a friend of the Americans. He refused an offer of the governorship from the Japanese. "We want more government and less politics," is his slogan.

Col. Suarez believes the fears of trouble after the American departure are "nonsense—we can handle any situation that develops."

OKINAWA YANKS INCH AHEAD AND TAKE AIR FIELD

Drive to Within Two Miles of Capital

GUAM, May 1 [Tuesday] (AP)—Twenty-seventh infantry division doughboys captured Machinato air field on Okinawa's west coast Sunday, Adm. Nimitz announced today.

Twenty-nine Japanese aircraft, attacking American forces off Okinawa, were shot down Tuesday. On Sunday and Monday carrier air patrols downed another 25—total of 54 for the two days.

Carriers Raid Islands

Capture of Machinato air field placed Maj. Gen. George W. Griner's 27th division doughboys within two miles of Okinawa's capital city, Naha, population 66,000. Naha also has an important air field, just south of the city itself.

In the center of the southern Okinawa line, 96th division troops advanced southward over hilly terrain. On the eastern coast, the 7th division, moving steadily toward Yonabaru air field, captured ridges near Kochi village.

Carrier planes raided Tokuno, Amami, and Kikai islands in the northern Ryukyus Sunday and Monday, attacking landing craft, coastal shipping, fuel dumps, barracks, and air field installations. Five Japanese planes were destroyed on the ground.

Captured Jap Weds

Navy search aircraft also struck the northern Ryukyus, sinking one cargo ship and leaving another in a sinking condition.

Another group of navy search planes ranged north of Kyushu, where they destroyed one small cargo ship, one coastal vessel, one patrol craft, and a number of small craft.

Americans observed civilized practices in permitting and helping at the marriage of a captured Japanese officer and an Okinawan nurse. Lt. Col. Reuben E. Curtis of Salt Lake City, a Mormon chaplain, married the captured couple at their request under a Shinto shrine. Two hundred American soldiers stood silently by, refraining from any demonstration.

Allied Fleet Shells Isles in Indian Ocean, Say Japs

San Francisco, Cal., April 30 (AP)—"Enemy units" shelled and bombarded Car Nicobar Island in the Indian ocean yesterday afternoon and Port Blair in the Andaman Islands to the north, last night, radio Tokyo reported today. The broadcast said two aircraft carriers and two Tokyo reported today. The broadcast said two aircraft carriers and two battleships formed the nucleus of the task force that bombarded Car Nicobar, while two battleships were the nucleus of the fleet that shelled Port Blair.

Truman to Give Out News of Peace—When It Comes

U. S. SHELLS JUST BOUNCE OFF JAP 6 STORY PILLBOX

BY THOMAS MORROW
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH U. S. FORCES ON OKINAWA, April 29 [Delayed]—As the Okinawa campaign neared the first month's end, Maj. Gen. James L. Bradley, commanding the 96th division, today reviewed the accomplishments and problems of his midwestern division. Heavy casualties accepted in the cave-to-cave and ridge-to-ridge fighting, he held, have paid off by softening the Japanese for the kill.

Tough terrain, mutually supporting cave positions, and intelligent enemy use of artillery, the general said, accounted for the bitter Japanese defense and the yard-by-yard advance.

Yanks Get Experience.

"I imagine the fighting here is much like the European campaign," he said, "except that when troops are surrounded in Europe they surrender. Here the Jap never does. You have to go in and kill him.

"Our division was handicapped by lack of experience. On Leyte the fighting was largely guerrilla warfare, and the enemy artillery was effectively reduced in the first three days. I anticipated heavy artillery on Okinawa, and frankly didn't know how the men would stand up. They have learned to take it and stand up. I cannot say too much for the men of the division. I am proud of the fact that, thru the toughest fighting of the campaign, they have retained their fighting spirit.

Six Levels of Forts.

Atop Hill 196, highest point in southern Okinawa, is a six story pillbox. The Japanese had cave gun emplacements at six height levels from top to bottom. Infantrymen who had seized the advance slope were cut down by withering fire from behind when they skirted the ridge's east end to continue southward.

Artillery slugged at the 5 foot walls of the caves from both north and south. The shells just bounced off. Heavy guns bombarded from the north, and tanks, sent around the east end, subjected the south side to direct fire.

After each firing period the Jap guns would emerge from slit openings in the hillside and open fire. The position boasted a 47 mm. high velocity armor-piercing anti-tank gun, mortars, and machine guns.

Tanks managed during the day to knock out some of the lower level emplacements. One Jap, dressed in civilian clothing, emerged from a cave. He rushed a tank and set off a satchel charge with fatal results to himself and no damage to the tank.

A Japanese flyer, who penetrated the naval air air screen and reached mid-island, furnished an exciting show for correspondents and a narrow escape for members of a medical clearing station company. His tail assembly shot away by ack-ack, the pilot fought for control of his plane until it crashed on a hillside and skidded into the midst of the medical unit.

Knocks Down a Tent.

Coming in on its belly, the plane did not explode, and made little noise as it scattered pilot and parts thruout the camp. The fuselage knocked down a tent occupied by Col. George B. Salter, Norfolk, Neb., and came to rest atop two foxholes without injuring any one.

Col. Salter had little clear recollection of the incident. Elbows on a table, reading, he heard a noise, looked up, and suddenly his tent left him. Capt. R. M. Jewett, Chippewa Falls, Wis., was occupying one foxhole, Warrant Officer Joseph J. Zidek, 6409 Yale av., Chicago, the other, while Maj. Armot C. Sine, Cedar Falls, Ia., slept in a foxhole behind Col. Salter's tent.

SUPER FORTS BOMB CITY ON MAIN JAP ISLE FOR FIRST TIME

GUAM, May 1 [Tuesday]—(AP)—One hundred or more Super Fortresses yesterday hit the industrial city of Hamamatsu, 60 miles southeast of Nagoya on the Japanese mainland island of Honshu. Bad weather prevented them from bombing the original target, the Tachikawa army air arsenal near tokyo.

Southern Kyushu air fields were raided simultaneously.

Photographs today showed large fires were started in rail yards and shops at Hamamatsu, which was hit in strength for the first time. The city of 166,000, between Yokohama and Nagoya on the south coast of Honshu, has major war industries. The B-29s turned back because of heavy cloud formations over Tachikawa, 24 miles west of Tokyo, but dropped a few bombs.

Australia Will Provide Memorial to Roosevelt

CANBERRA, Australia, April 30 (AP)—The Australian cabinet today announced thru J. B. Chifley, acting prime minister, that the commonwealth would provide a memorial to the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt of the United States.

TRUMAN NAMES EDWARD D. M'KIM CHIEF ASSISTANT

Washington, D. C., April 30 [Special]—Edward Daniel McKim, 49, Omaha insurance executive and close friend of President Truman since World War I., was appointed by the President today as his chief administrative assistant.

The White House said McKim will have the title of "senior administrative assistant," a new post. The President is authorized by law to have six administrative assistants, each receiving $10,000 a year. President Roosevelt had five and a special assistant, Harry Hopkins, whose salary was increased from $10,000 to $15,000 shortly before the President's death.

Sworn in by Douglas

McKim was sworn into office this afternoon by Supreme Court Justice Douglas. At the same ceremony John W. Snyder of St. Louis was sworn in as federal loan administrator, and Edwin A. Pauley of California as American member of the international reparations commission. Both of these appointments had been announced previously.

There was speculation in governmental circles that McKim might occupy in the Truman administration a place somewhat similar to that filled by Hopkins in the Roosevelt regime. McKim will perform whatever special duties the President may see fit to assign him, it was stated. McKim said today he did not know just what his first task would be.

McKim has been at Truman's side almost continuously since he became President, and spent much time with him in Washington during his Vice Presidency.

Born in Evansville, Ind., McKim was educated at De La Salle academy and Rockhurst college, Kansas City, Mo. His friendship with Truman began in France in 1918 when Truman, then an army captain, was assigned to the command of Battery D of the 129th field artillery, 35th division. McKim was a private in Battery D.

"He was one of the best soldiers I have ever seen," the President said recently. "We went thru hell together and he never flinched."

After the end of the war, McKim went to work for the Mutual Benefit Health and Accident association of Omaha. He is now executive vice president and in charge of a division specializing in newspaper accident policies. He has obtained a leave of absence to take up his new job.

Helped in Campaign

The friendship of Truman and McKim ripened with the years. McKim always looked on Truman as the "captain." The families frequently visited in each other's homes. In 1938, when McKim ran for the Nebraska lieutenant governorship as a Democrat, Truman, then a senator, went to Nebraska and stumped the state for him. McKim was defeated.

McKim is married and has three daughters and a son. A second son, Lt. Edward D. McKim Jr., 22, was killed in action in August, 1944, in the Pacific.

TELLS HOW AIR POWER CRACKED NAZI RESISTANCE

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, April 30—"German resistance was cracked by the American and British air forces," is the assertion of every prominent German interviewed in cities from Aachen, via Frankfurt, to Leipzig, where Atty Gen. Brettle of Germany's Supreme court voiced the same conviction. How the air forces broke German resistance and achieved air superiority for the allies was described by Gen. Spaatz, commander of the United States strategic air forces, speaking at supreme allied headquarters today.

Because of the success of heavy bombers supported by long range fighters, Spaatz holds they will play important roles in the strong air force of the future, when the fighters will all be jet propelled planes.

The general stressed the effectiveness of the carefully planned strategic bombing which enabled the allies to secure air superiority over Europe before D-day. Bombing by day and night, and attacking from as many directions as possible, we compelled the Germans to extend their defenses to a point where they lost part of their effectiveness, he said.

Held in Shooting

JO ANN WOEHLKE

Joann Woehlke, 14, admitted to Du Page county authorities yesterday that she had shot and seriously wounded her foster father, Arthur Woehlke, 54, in their East Naperville home at 4 a. m. yesterday and urged Woehlke's wife, Peg, to "tell the whole story."

State's Atty. Lee Daniels and Chief Deputy Sheriff Elmer Hoffman said the girl told them her foster mother had awakened her at 4 a. m. and that she walked into Woehlke's room and shot him, because of his recent attentions to her.

Mrs. Woehlke, who is 42 and operates the Woehlke Calculating service in Chicago, denied Joann's assertions. She was not detained.

Allan Myers, chief investigator for the state's attorney, said Joann would be charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill and would be held by juvenile authorities in the Du Page county jail.

Woehlke will be questioned at the Copley hospital in Aurora this morning. The bullet entered his left shoulder, fractured a rib, and pierced a lung.

MAYOR, COUNCIL ACT TO ASSURE TRACTION VOTE

Mayor Kelly and the city council acted yesterday to make sure a referendum will be held in Chicago June 4 on the city plan to purchase the surface and elevated lines and turn them over to a metropolitan transit authority for unification and operation.

The mayor signed an ordinance implementing the transit act, recently passed by the legislature, and granting the proposed authority a franchise. The council, at the request of Ald. Quinn [50th], chairman of the committee on local transportation, appropriated $5,000 to cover expense of publishing the ordinance and advertising the referendum. Both the state law and the ordinance must be approved at the polls.

Under the plan the city would pay 75 million dollars for the surface lines and 12 millions plus for the "L." Purchase would be made with proceeds of an 87 million dollar revenue bond issue secured only by earnings of the unified company.

FIRE CAUSES $200 DAMAGE

Fire started by an oil heater caused damage estimated at $200 yesterday to the building at 4849 Lincoln av.

DEAD MUST STAY IN EUROPE UNTIL JAP WAR IS WON

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP)—The soldier dead overseas will not be brought home until the war in all theaters has ended.

In reiterating a policy set forth in 1943, the war department said today that "the imminence of the fall of Germany has given rise to false hopes that the soldier dead in Europe could be returned to the United States soon after V-E day."

It added that "with cessation of war in Europe, all transportation facilities as well as all available personnel will be engaged in shifting troops and supplies from one theater to another."

I'VE PICKED UP SOME POINTERS ON SAVING RED POINTS!

KINDA TIMELY, EH?

Bud Bowman

I GOT 'EM from the clever Home Economics gals who think up and test all the recipes Bowman has for you. They back me up when I say every homemaker with a jar or carton of Bowman Cottage Cheese can make meatless meals less painful!

THERE'S HONEST-TO-GOODNESS protein in Bowman Cottage Cheese—the kind of high quality protein folks need. And with that for a starter, you can make dozens of filling, nourishing, appetizing dishes . . . all with that famous creamy cottage cheese of ours!

SO HERE'S WHAT YOU DO—to keep family morale high, to help keep them well fed, to save your red ration tokens: Mark your milkcard for ration-free Bowman Creamed Cottage Cheese (or hail the Bowman milkman who serves your block) . . . or ask for Bow-Cream Cottage Cheese at your grocery store.

THEN GET TO WORK on mouth-watering ideas like these—

FRENCH TOAST WITH COTTAGE CHEESE FILLING

2 Bowman Eggs
1½ cups Bowman Milk
¼ tsp. salt
2 slices bread
Bowman Creamed Cottage Cheese (or Bow-Cream Cottage Cheese)

Beat eggs slightly. Add salt and milk. Dip slices of bread into this mixture until soft. Cook on well-greased, preheated frying pan until golden brown on one side. Form a closed sandwich by spreading ¼ cup Bowman Cottage Cheese (or Bow-Cream Cottage Cheese, if you buy it from the store) between the two browned sides of bread and proceed to brown uncooked sides. Add more fat as required. Serve at once with jelly or syrup.

COTTAGE CHEESE RING WITH VEGETABLE FILLING

1 envelope gelatin (1 tbsp.)
¼ cup cold water
1½ cups Bowman Creamed Cottage Cheese (or Bow-Cream Cottage Cheese)
¾ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. paprika
½ cup Bowman Milk or Cream

ROSENMAN ASKS U. S. RATION CUT TO HELP EUROPE

Says Supply of Needs Is Our Responsibility

BY ROBERT YOUNG
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 30—A campaign to prepare the American people for smaller food rations as the result of shipments of civilian supplies to liberated European countries was recommended today by Samuel I. Rosenman, special adviser and legal counsel to the late President Roosevelt.

Samuel I. Rosenman

In a report on civilian supplies for northwestern Europe, submitted to President Truman, Rosenman asserted that "realistic appraisal" of the situation should indicate that the responsibility for providing a substantial share of most civilian supplies will rest on the United States.

Held U. S. "Responsibility"

Referring to the "responsibility" of the United States for bearing the major part of the European relief load, Rosenman asserted that American policy "should dictate acceptance" of this responsibility as far as possible.

"Once this policy is enunciated," he said in his report, "a high level interdepartmental committee should be maintained to advocate and support the claims presented by the liberated countries in order to insure that the policy is continuously carried out.

Publicity Drive Urged

"Since allocation of civilian supplies to liberated countries, in all probability, will cut into the ration of the American consumer, a widespread official and public campaign should be undertaken to inform the American people of the gravity of the needs of liberated Europe."

Rosenman further recommended financial assistance to liberated countries. He said "substantial benefit" would result from passage of Bretton Woods legislation, amendments relating to the export-import bank, and repeal of the Johnson act which bars private loans to foreign countries which have defaulted on debts. He urged establishment of facilities for credits to liberated countries "at the earliest possible date."

Rosenman's report was interpreted on Capitol hill as a move to promote New Deal plans for world rehabilitation thru American supplies and capital. Rosenman was a close associate of President Roosevelt and, with Harry Hopkins, a member of the New Deal "palace guard."

Little Time Spent Studying

The late President sent Rosenman to Europe last January to make a special survey of supplies and credit needed. Today's report covered this mission.

It was observed on Capitol hill, however, that Rosenman actually spent little time studying foreign economic conditions, despite the length of his report and his many recommendations. Attention was called to the fact that he visited Rome with the late President in February after the Yalta conference; returned to the United States with Mr. Roosevelt and remained here a considerable time preparing the President's report to congress; returned again to Europe, then flew back for President Roosevelt's funeral.

The White House statement accompanying Rosenman's report said the President "is very sympathetic with the needs of the liberated countries." By direction of the President, the announcement continued, Rosenman is discussing European relief and reconstruction with federal agencies involved with the view of determining to what extent, if any, these needs can be met.

Need Food and Coal

Rosenman reported that at the most immediate and urgent needs of all northwest European countries are food, coal, coal mining equipment, and internal transportation.

"The future permanent peace of Europe," the report said, "depends largely upon restoration of the economy of these countries, including a reasonable standard of living and employment. United States economy, too, will be deeply affected unless northwest Europe again resumes its place in the international exchange of goods and services. Furthermore, a chaotic and hungry Europe is not fertile ground in which stable, democratic, and friendly governments can be reared."

Predict Production Drop

Concurrent with Rosenman's report, the intragency committee on foreign shipments announced completion of its first survey of the world food problem. This group was appointed March 12 by James F. Byrnes, then war mobilization director, to establish the quantity of American supplies which could be made available for export.

The committee reported food production in the United States this year may be 5 to 10 per cent less than in 1944, with meat production declining to an estimated 22.4 billion pounds from 24.7 billion pounds in 1944. In addition, less food will be available for civilians because more must be furnished for military needs.

In discussing the needs of Europe, the committee asserted that "The most that can be accomplished is to provide such foods as will tide the people of Europe over their immediate difficulties."

Spring Weather

Despite chilly weather the latter half of the month, April this year was warmer than usual, with an average temperature of 49.6, O. T. Lay, meteorologist in charge of the Chicago weather bureau office, said yesterday. Normal average for the month is 46.9.

Highest temperature was 81 on April 11; lowest was 29 on April 27. The total precipitation was 4.2 inches, 1.66 inches above normal. It was the first month since May, 1944, to record excess precipitation.

The sun shone in 54 per cent of daylight hours, slightly less than normal. The average wind velocity was 12.6 miles an hour, with gusts of from 55 to 60 miles an hour recorded on April 4. There was no measurable snowfall.

The month of May, Lay noted, is ordinarily Chicago's wettest month, with an average of 3.5 inches of rain. The highest average May temperature was 65.9 in 1911, and the lowest, 51.4 in 1882. Chicago has experienced killing frosts as late as May 25. That was in 1882.

RANGOON ONLY 36 MILES OFF AS BRITISH DRIVE ON

CALCUTTA, India, April 30 (AP)—British armored forces headed south against only light Japanese resistance were reported officially today only 36 road miles from the Burmese capital and port of Rangoon.

Whether the city of Pegu, 50 miles above Rangoon, had been occupied or captured was not disclosed. The British armored forces were much closer to Rangoon after three years of campaigning in Burma.

Burmese guerrilla forces are harassing the Japanese stragglers on the flanks of the British. The Japanese are reported as being disorganized and in poor physical condition.

Indian Corps Advances

Along the Irrawaddy river the west bank town of Minbu, opposite Magwe, was occupied against Japanese opposition.

In the southwestern part of Burma, the Indian 15th army corps made some advances along the Taniwa Chauk river east of the town of Taungup.

United States air force P-51s attacked five airfields in Burma and Thailand, destroying five aircraft and damaging two on the ground. These planes also smashed barracks under a hail of machine gun fire, in the same areas. Moulmein airfield was successfully attacked by fighter and bombing planes.

Blast Jap Compounds

Japanese gun positions, troop concentrations, motor transport, and compounds in advance of the British 14th army drive on Rangoon were strafed and bombed north of Pegu. Bridges on the Rangoon-Prome railway line were wrecked and many fires were started in stores and dump areas southeast of Prome.

Attacks on enemy shipping were effectively carried out from the Rangoon river to Tavoy. Two motor torpedo boats were destroyed and others damaged.

GIRL WHO SAID SHE'D WAIT WEDS BLINDED YANK

Altho they had been engaged for two years, Staff Sgt. John Kosper Jr., 28, of 1741 Elizabeth av., North Chicago, and Miss Atheleen Bjork, 24, of 242 Sard pl., Highwood, decided not to be married before Kosper entered the army, June 30, 1943. Miss Bjork said she would wait for him and they would be married when he returned.

Sgt. John Kosper Jr. and wife

On Oct. 17 Sgt. Kosper was blinded by a shellburst in France. Last December he was returned to the Valley Forge General hospital at Phoenixville, Pa. Miss Bjork, who had gone to Long Beach, Cal., to work in an aircraft plant there, quit her job and went to Phoenixville to be near him.

Last Thursday they were married by an army chaplain in the hospital chapel, Miss Bjork informed her parents yesterday by letter. After his release they plan to return to North Chicago.

HIGHWOOD GETS NEW MAYOR AND CHIEF OF POLICE

Thomas F. Mussatto, business agent of the Lake county local of the Building and Construction Laborers' union, was sworn in as mayor of Highwood last night. He succeeded Mayor Charles Portilia whom he defeated by 151 votes in the April 17 election.

One of Mayor Mussato's first official acts was to appoint Ted Benvenuti, veteran police sergeant, as chief of police. The appointment is for 60 days to test his ability, Mussatto said. Other new appointments were Jack E. Bairstow as city attorney, and Mrs. Clara Bernardi as city collector. Bairstow, who is chairman of the Lake county Democratic central committee, also is corporation counsel of Waukegan. He succeeds City Atty. Bernard Juron. Mrs. Bernardi succeeds Agnes Donini. Chief Benvenuti succeeds Chief Charles Singer.

Also sworn in were three new aldermen, Carl Pasquesi, Russell E. Carlson, and Bernard G. Murphy, and Ald. John Castellari who was reelected.

3 YEARS OF JAP CONTROL WRECK BURMESE NATION

Made Worse by Race Controversies

Burma and its capital, Rangoon, which British armored forces were nearing yesterday, have been in the hands of the Japanese since May, 1942, when the British government of the country was moved to India.

The Japs' conquest of Burma was an easy one. First they bombed the vital Rangoon port, making it untenable. Burmese "fifth columnists" betrayed the air field locations to the Japs, served as guides for them, and fought as guerrillas, trapping and massacring the retreating British and Indian troops.

Since then, the Japs have been trying to consolidate their position in Burma by various devices. To promote their campaign of "Asia for the Asiatics," they proclaimed Burma to be an "independent" state on Aug. 1, 1943.

How It Became British

The Japs have been handicapped, however, by a lack of shipping to export Burma's rice surplus, and the country's economic life has been wrecked. Burma also has been hit by the destruction of various British investments, especially oil fields, which formerly produced an average of 1,200,000 tons a year. The country's rice production averages 9 million tons annually.

Burma became a British possession as a result of three wars. In 1824 a Burmese force appeared on the Bengal frontier with the declared intention of capturing Calcutta, India. It was repulsed and two years later a counter-expedition forced the Burmese king to cede large territories in lower Burma which were placed under the government of India.

In 1852 the government of India demanded reparation for "unfriendly" acts, provoking a war which ended in the annexation of the remainder of lower Burma. In 1885 the Burmese King Theebaw concluded a treaty with France, which angered the British, who then captured Theebaw's capital, Mandalay, and in the following year annexed upper Burma.

Partial Self-Government

Up to 1937 Burma's government was responsible to British authorities in India. In that year Britain granted Burma partial self-government under a British governor. There was a popularly elected house of representatives and a senate, half of whose members were chosen by the governor and half elected by the house.

But more freedom was wanted, and as Japanese threats spread, Premier U Saw of Burma visited Prime Minister Churchill in London in October, 1941, and bluntly demanded dominion status for Burma. Churchill as bluntly refused. U Saw started homeward, paused in New York Nov. 3, 1941, expressed disappointment over his failure, and saw President Roosevelt.

Premier Arrested

No more was heard of Premier U Saw until Jan. 19, 1942, when London officially announced his arrest on a charge of conspiring with the Japs, adding that U Saw had admitted the charge. Consequently, London stated, he would not be allowed to return to Burma. U Saw has not been heard from since.

British writers predict that Burma's post-war position will be made difficult by hatred of the Burmese by Indians and Chinese, who had clashed constantly over religious and political issues before the Jap invasion.

Chicago Sugar Stocks Are Termed Adequate

Marion W. Isbell, area office of price administration director, said yesterday that Chicago canning sugar stocks now are "adequate." Each family member, up to eight in a family, may apply for a maximum of 15 pounds, he said, in anticipation of fruit canning time. To obtain the sugar for preserving, one family member will be able to get a special certificate for the entire household at local ration boards by turning spare stamp 13 in book 4 for each member.

EMPLOYE DENIES VAN RIPER KNEW OF RATION FRAUD

Newark, N. J., April 30 [Special] — New Jersey's attorney general, Walter D. Van Riper, advised John Praml to go to the OPA and "make a clean breast of it" when he learned that Praml had been buying gasoline coupons in the black market, Praml testified today in federal court.

Praml is a former manager of a South Orange gasoline station controlled by the Imperial Service Station, Inc., which Van Riper heads. The attorney general, Praml, and the corporation are on trial on charges of violating rationing regulations. Praml pleaded guilty to two of the counts.

Asserting that Van Riper was unaware of his black market deals, Praml contradicted evidence given last week by a government witness. William H. Miller, a convicted dealer in illegal gasoline coupons. Miller had said that Van Riper on one occasion paid $65 for illegal coupons delivered to the station.

Judge John Clark Knox denied a defense motion for dismissal of the charges against Van Riper after the government closed its case this morning. Van Riper, a Republican, has charged his prosecution was instigated by the Hague Democratic machine in Jersey City in reprisal against his war on Jersey City gambling.

Suspect Booked by Police for Hotel Room Robbery

Milford Flannigan, 20, of 5464 Greenwood av., was booked yesterday on charges of robbery and automobile theft after, police said, he admitted robbing Richard Laycock, 29, of 5143 Byron st., in a hotel room at 357 N. Clark st. on April 22 and taking Laycock's car. The car subsequently was recovered in Gary. Laycock was taken to Henrotin hospital with a possible skull fracture inflicted by Flannigan and a companion, who obtained $11, jewelry, and an overcoat.

THE LYNCHER LYNCHED

Mussolini was a bad one and the world is made a little bit cleaner by his death. He was the last person in Italy who should have cried "No" as he faced the firing squad. It was he who put lawlessness at the service of government in that unhappy nation and it is richly appropriate that he should come to his end by the brutality which he initiated and fostered.

For while Mussolini's death was just, it was not legal. The little band who captured him and his confederates subjected their prisoners to a drumhead court-martial, which they had no authority to conduct, and expeditiously shot them. The obvious guilt of the prisoners does not obscure the fact the so-called executions were lawless.

Mussolini got justice without law. He got it because for two decades he had accustomed an oppressed and misled people to legalized brutality, bereft of justice. Any tyrant can promulgate statutes affecting to legalize kidnaping, murder, and the depredations of castor oil gangs. He can, as Hitler did, declare that the will of the leader is the supreme law of the state. But calling such a fiat law does not make it so, nor does the fact that force for a time is available to make the will of one man indisputable alter the truth, that dictatorships are essentially lawless.

Mussolini inflicted lawlessness on Italy in the name of government. The curse he bred outlives him.

MITCHELL, LINDBERGH, AND WILLIAMS

Congress has made amends to the memory of the late Brig. Gen. Billy Mitchell, who emerged from the last war the foremost American proponent of air power and was court martialed because he expressed his opinions vigorously. He has been promoted posthumously to the rank of major general and voted the congressional medal of honor.

While it is according justice belatedly to one dead air hero, congress should also rectify the nation's treatment of two living heroes—Col. Lindbergh and Maj. Al Williams. They also made tremendously important contributions to American air power. They were placed in Coventry by the administration, not for their military opinions, which were unassailable, but for the political opinions which they based on their military knowledge. They were denied any prominent share in fighting the war for which they had done so much to prepare the country, altho they have, without fanfare or recognition, continued their contributions wherever they would be effective. The nation owes them a great debt, and an apology as well, for what amounted to political persecution.

THE CONVENTION

The house at Springfield is expected to vote today on the question of calling a constitutional convention in Illinois.

The campaign in behalf of the convention has been extraordinary for its lack of candor. There are two principal purposes which the convention is intended to serve: the first is to make possible the adoption of a steeply graduated income tax in Illinois; the second is to make it easier than it now is to socialize or communize our economy. These purposes have been carefully concealed.

The advocates of the measure seldom mention the income tax by name. They talk elliptically about "liberalizing the revenue clause" as if there were not already a surplus running into nine figures in the treasury at Springfield and as if Illinois municipalities had not made a phenomenal record in paying off their debts in recent years. The revenue system of our state may not be ideal, but it has not prevented the governments from getting more money than they can spend wisely, it has served sometimes as a check on extravagance, and the people of this state have prospered under it.

The conventionites pretend that their liberalizing would benefit real estate. In truth, the adoption of an income tax in Illinois isn't likely to relieve real estate of much of the burden it now bears. That isn't the way politics works. The new tax, we may be sure, will be in addition to the existing ones and will mean that much more money for government to spend and that much less for everybody in the state to call his own. That's what happened in New York when the income tax was adopted there.

Even if the statesmen at Springfield should wish to reduce property taxes, they would be prevented from doing so by the obvious inequity in such proposals. Every piece of property in the state was bought on the assumption that it must pay taxes. If this burden were lifted, every property owner would receive as a gift something like a 50 per cent increase in the value of his holding. No legislature is going to be so generous. The real estate owners who fancy that an income tax will operate in their interest are kidding themselves. They'll pay about as much property tax as ever and an income tax besides.

The other purpose concealed within the propaganda for the convention is found in such weasel phrases as "streamlining the executive departments" and "increasing the efficiency of the state government." What these phrases foreshadow, in reality, is a concentration of political power in a few hands. The present distribution of authority occasionally makes for inefficiency and divided responsibility. If those are ills, we know they are not deadly or even serious. With the experience of Germany, Italy, and Russia as a guide, who can regard the intense concentration of power without misgiving? Who, knowing that every radical in the state is whooping up the idea of "increasing the efficiency of the state government" can doubt the purpose for which it is intended?

Nobody can honestly say that the present Illinois constitution is a straitjacket which prevents social and political experiment. It isn't preventing the city of Chicago from acquiring the street car lines and it hasn't prevented approval of such innovations as the use of the power of eminent domain for clearing the slums. True, the constitution does not extend the hand of friendship to communism, but do the people of Illinois want that?

Perhaps the most disingenuous of the arguments put forward for the convention is that the legislators will discharge their full responsibility in the matter if they merely pass the issue along to the people and let them decide it for themselves by referendum. No member worthy of his seat in Springfield can accept this view. In the federal government, as in the state governments, constitutional change has deliberately been made a difficult process as any one who has any appreciation of the importance of stability in government would want it to be. The federal Constitution requires a two-thirds majority in each house of congress and, on top of it, a three-quarters majority of the states to amend the fundamental law. The plea to the legislators is intended to tell them that their experience and knowledge of government in Illinois are not to be drawn upon; that a simple majority of the voters is all that may reasonably be required; and that, before the members vote on this issue, they must check their brains and judgment in the cloakroom. It should be unnecessary to say that any member of the house who accepts this advice is false to his oath and false to his responsibilities as a member of the legislature.

RECONVERSION.

The war production board has revived the spot reconversion plan. It will be helpful in a few isolated instances in permitting conversion from production for war to production for peace. It won't contribute a drop in the bucket to the essential, large scale task of preparing the nation's industry and labor force to turn at once to the manufacture of civilian goods when war production is terminated.

The plan is not new. It was put into effect during the political campaign last summer, but was canceled when the army supply organization had its panic at the time of the Belgian break-thru. Its probable worth at this time can be gauged by its worth last year, which was almost nil. Spot reconversion permits the manufacturer, if he has labor and if he has machinery, and if he can get materials, and if he can prove that neither labor nor machinery nor materials are necessary for war production, to start making certain types of civilian goods.

Very rarely did a manufacturer manage to get all three essentials. Despite the military facts that are obvious in Europe, WPB still has not made any allotments of raw materials for civilian production of this type. Its program can be considered little more than a gesture to still criticism of its disregard of reconversion necessities. Even under the most favorable conditions, spot reconversion couldn't begin to cope with the flood of dismissed war workers, once there is a real cut-back of war production. That cut-back must come very shortly, else the bankrupting of the country will be completed by the continued manufacture of munitions, not for the purpose of bringing the Pacific war to a conclusion but merely to make work in Washington.

What is needed most now is not immediate resumption of civilian production in small and scattered plants. It is permission for industry generally to get ready for peace time production while it is still making munitions. The authority, tentatively given the automobile industry, to spend $50,000,000 retooling for civilian car production should be extended thru the rest of the mass production industries, and be made effective at once.

The American machine tool industry has virtually finished its war job. It will have some further orders for machines for war production in this country, but it is unlikely that those orders will tax more than a 10th of its capacity. It ought to be building the machines needed for the automobile industry, among other things.

Until our own reconversion is substantially accomplished we should stop exporting machine tools. No tool that we lend-lease now will help to win the war. Whatever the pretense adopted, any machinery we send abroad from now on, except perhaps to China, will be for rehabilitation, not war production, and congress has already expressed the policy that lend-lease is not the vehicle for rehabilitation.

The WPB says that it is going to keep its control over raw materials, metals in particular, for some time, probably until the end of the Japanese war. Insofar as it is necessary to assure that war production gets first claim on materials, there can be no quarrel with this policy. That does not mean that WPB should retain its present system of allocating raw materials in all its vigor. The WPB's responsibility should stop after assuring that war plants have priorities. It is none of its business, or should be none of its business, to allocate materials between competing manufacturers of civilian goods.

There are too many people in Washington who would like to stifle any comprehensive preparations for reconversion. They recognize as quickly as any one else that lack of those preparations can lead to widespread post-war unemployment. They would welcome that because it would give them an excuse to fasten totalitarian controls permanently on the American nation. The burocracy is shot thru with this New Deal poison. If the national paralysis which these plotters hope for is to be avoided, congress must insist that every effort be made to speed reconversion.

WHEN TYRANTS FALL.

Mussolini's grisly end, which had the flavor of a lynching bee or a mob scene in the French revolution, caused us to turn, for relief, to the story of Nero's departure from the ancient Roman scene. He, too, had been a mountebank of empire, a strutter before audiences of sycophantic admirers, a public performer who doted upon the sound of his own voice. He died a whimpering fugitive, but by his own hand and with touches of dignity that Il Duce's passing lacked.

* * *

When a military revolution overthrew Nero's power, he put some poison in a golden box and begged the officers of his guard to accompany him in flight by sea. Meeting no encouragement, he wrote a hysterical speech to be delivered in his defense, and then destroyed it. He called for a gladiator of his household to come and kill him swiftly, but no one answered his summons. Then he dashed out to drown himself in the Tiber, but changed his mind and fled, with a small escort, to a villa in the suburbs owned by his freedman Phaon.

* * *

In the villa, which he entered from the rear after crawling thru thickets by night, he rested on a servant's bed and refused food. He wept often and exclaimed, "What an artist the world is losing!" When a messenger brought word that he had been declared a public enemy, and would be beaten to death with rods while hanging by the neck from a forked stick, he seized two daggers and tried their points.

* * *

More weeping and lamentation followed, but presently he heard hoofbeats at the gate. The pursuers had found his lair. He quoted in trembling voice a line from Homer, "The trampling of swift-footed steeds is in my ear," and drove a dagger into his throat, with aid from his private secretary. He died as the soldiers entered the room, gasping at them, "This is fidelity!" . . . Rome gave him a funeral that cost 200,000 sesterces.

* * *

There was public rejoicing, but in remote corners of the empire he became a survival legend. Now and then, for a generation or two, rumors of pseudo-Neros would cause political flutters in the capital.

ON CASUALTY LIST

They say you are beyond remembering,
Forever blind, forever silent, shorn
Of laughter and of music, savoring
The bitterness of loveless years. With scorn
You turn away from pity and regret,
And vision morning cobwebs spun like glass,
And earth a lovely jewel, sapphire-set.
You walk again thru tall and bending grass,
And search the sky for gaily patterned wings.
You are beyond remembering, they say.
How can they know remembered love still rings
Her low and startling laugh along the way,
And you and life had formed a secret bond
When you removed the veil and looked beyond.

Pinning Down the Orpheon

Linemaster: Now let's get this right: The "unknown theater" [Orpheon] was not opposite the county building. In fact, the county building was yet to be built. The old city hall was on the northwest corner of Clark and Washington, and the detective bureau was on the northeast corner of La Salle and Washington. The two were separated by a wide alley, and opposite this alley the Orpheon stood. Its first name was Clifford's Gayety.

Prior to remodeling into a theater, the building was a bucket shop owned by Charles Counselman, Board of Trade man.

The theater had a bar, and upstairs was a room reserved for detectives, of which the undersigned was one, along with his partner, Dan Kipley. When Lou Houseman wanted that theater for burlesque, I was selected by Lou to get it from Counselman. Lou named it the Orpheon, and when it burned down in the early 1900s, Lou walked around the corner to Madison st. and transferred the Blue Ribbon beer hall into a theater which he promptly named the New Orpheon. He opened it with a musical comedy called "Chow Chow." Now, from that point on you had best get the history from Ralph Kettering.

MOTHER'S QUERY

(After a letter from Nürnberg.)

He braves the storm and eyes the vanquished foe
With tired calm, disturbingly unreal;
Transition frames a man I do not know,
For his once-laughing eyes now mirror steel.

Is he who marches to war's destiny
The same small boy who once knew how to sing?
Could it be only yesterday that he Brought home a robin with a broken wing?

Mrs. M. V. K. writes: "Is it true that a bill recently was passed granting pensions to widows of veterans of World War I.?

Widows of World War I. veterans whose death resulted from disabilities not incurred in service are entitled to a pension of $35 a month unless they have been remarried. A widow with one child will receive $45 a month, plus $5 for each additional child. The total amount may not exceed $64 a month. This pension will be paid only to those widows without children whose annual income does not exceed $1,000 or those with children whose income does not exceed $2,500. Pension claimants should consult the Veterans' bureau, 327 S. La Salle st., before filing claim because certain income items are exempted by veterans' regulations.

Mrs. F. D. writes: "My son overseas has received the bronze star medal. For what is this awarded?"

The bronze star medal is awarded to persons who, while serving with the army since Dec. 7, 1941, distinguish themselves by heroic or meritorious achievement in service not involving aerial flight in military operations against an enemy. The achievement or service required for award of the bronze star is somewhat less than that required for the legion of merit or silver star but still must be accomplished with distinction.

CHILD HEALTH DAY

MAY day, better known as "Child Health day," is being observed thruout the country to focus attention upon our most precious national asset—our children. May 1 was set aside in 1928 by the President under authorization of congress, in order to determine ways and means in which the welfare of our boys and girls could be promoted and safeguarded. Since that time the idea grew in popularity and gained international coöperation.

Most of us are aware of the increasing life expectancy of man but few realize that the higher rate was made possible by the successful rearing of more youngsters to maturity. Better care has resulted in normal growth and development, both physically and mentally.

How was this accomplished? Special consideration was first given to expectant mothers. A living, healthy baby had to be the starting point. To those who were anticipating, early and repeated visits to the physician were advised. Existing diseases, such as syphilis, were controled. Repeated laboratory tests often warned of impending illnesses which might have proved serious if not treated. General instructions in diet, exercise, and limitation of work were also discussed. Improvements in the technical aspects of the blessed event insured safe conduct to many more babies.

The second obstacle was that of infancy. Parents were encouraged to have their little ones examined at frequent intervals. Only by doing this could satisfactory progress be judged. These consultations also afforded an opportunity to discuss the problems of cleanliness, clothing, sleep, and elimination.

Of more importance was the question of nourishment. Was the tot getting enough milk? How could the formula be changed? If one mixture did not agree, were there others? The significance of this topic is not fully appreciated unless the reader remembers the consequences of poor nutrition. Altho sensible feeding is taken for granted today, much credit is due to those who brought the procedure up to its present standards. Early attempts to nourish infants who were unable to obtain mother's milk were not as successful as they might seem. The difficulty was finally solved by preparing proper amounts of cow's milk, water, sugar, and carbohydrates.

The third and probably most outstanding advance was that dealing with prevention of infection. Smallpox was combated by vaccination, diphtheria thru toxoid, and whooping cough with immunization. With the addition of specific substances to the diet, disorders of another type were conquered. Orange juice, rich in vitamin C, averted scurvy; cod liver oil or other vitamin D preparations abolished rickets; and calcium forestalled tetany.

The fourth general group of problems related to habit formation and emotional control. Abnormal tendencies must be corrected before the pattern is established. Sound rules of hygiene in regard to eating, sleeping, bathing, and exercise were stressed.

All of these valuable measures are made possible thru modern education in the home and at school.

FATTY CYST

M. E. M. writes: I have a small soft lump on my back near the left shoulder blade. It is about as big as a dime and is not painful. It has been there for some time and I never paid much attention to it but I've been reading about cancer and am beginning to worry about it. Mother says it is just a cyst and should be left alone. What should I do about it?

REPLY

All lumps should be investigated to be sure so why not visit your family doctor? The chances are that your mother is right—a sebaceous cyst. If so, it can be removed easily and with no disability on your part.

Notes of a Seafaring Man

[Or day-by-day gleanings of an officer on a destroyer escort in a noisy part of the Pacific]:

"Men can suffer only so much and so long in silence. After nearly two years at sea in the far Pacific, there came a night recently when the movie 'Kismet' was shown on board. It unreeled colorfully for nearly an hour until the scene of the dancing girls appeared. Unable to restrain himself any longer, our shipfitter 2/c jumped to his feet and shouted: 'Give me them papers! I'll sign!'

"All ships make every effort to put their crews ashore as often as possible, even tho in many places out here the only spot may be a hot, sun-flooded beach that has been rendered useless by navy guns. In one such port we put part of our crew ashore one day, all in proper uniform of the day. The officer-of-the-deck was astounded, when they returned later in the day, to notice that not a single man in the party was wearing his white navy hat. Instead, each had on an army work hat! The story behind it [and while we don't vouch for it, they were all stuck with the same one] is this: Several large troop transports had put a number of G. I.s ashore for recreation. On the trip out the G. I.s had noticed, or at least felt, that the navy crew on the transport was eating a little better than they were. Therefore, they reasoned, if they could each get a navy hat, they could get in the sailor's chow line and thus undetected eat as well as the blue jackets. The mass millinery swap was made on the spot. It so happens the next day was Easter, and our parade, such as it was, had a distinctly amphibious air.

"Our newest officer, a young ensign, had been aboard only a few weeks, and the bloom of midshipman's school was still bright on his gray uniform. Easter morning found him standing his first watch as officer-of-the-deck. It was a beautiful morning, and the ship rode gently at anchor. All was secure. Soon after reveille a group of salty youngsters, none of them over 19, approached the gold-barred one. 'Sir, a bunch of us have colored some Easter eggs, and we would like permission to have an Easter egg hunt.' The young ensign looked at them a moment, racking his brain to recall the paragraph in 'Watch Officer's Guide' where he might find the answer to this one. Then he consulted the plan-of-the-day, but nothing was scheduled that even faintly resembled an Easter egg hunt. Still keeping up his best navy front, he asked the group to wait while he consulted the executive officer. The exec, who was at breakfast, almost blew egg all over the wardroom. Regaining his composure, he gave permission and suggested the young ensign coöperate to the fullest by helping the crew find suitable places to hide the eggs.

"The ensign did, and it wasn't until an hour or so later, after having ingeniously found many excellent places on a man-of-war to hide eggs and having each place approved with a louder snicker from the evergrowing crowd behind him, that it suddenly dawned on him that not only was it Easter Sunday—but it was also the 1st of April.

"One of the ships in our division has a problem and is considering writing to Mr. Anthony. Its problem is an enlisted man who insists on calling all the officers by their first names. Captain's masts, fines, extra hours of duty, and even a visit to the marine brig at one of their outposts has failed to break the man of this habit, or even dampen his spirit. After each disciplinary action he is his usual cheerful self and still calls each officer by his first name or his nickname. In desperation the captain finally shipped him back for a term at a fleet school; the man was bright enough, and he hoped the change would bring him around. A month later the first mail from the congenial sailor reached the ship. It was a postcard for the executive officer, with a sincere, affectionate, personal message on it, and it started out, 'Dear Tom.' . . . "

NOT ENOUGH CUSTOMERS

Mantua, O., April 23—In your issue of April 22 was a letter from E. R. Russell of Columbus, O., headed, "Too Many Farmers," to which I feel goaded to reply.

In the first place, I deny that an unsalable surplus of raw farm products was, or ever has been, the prime result of too many farmers. Rather, the inability of the masses to feed themselves adequately on such luxury nutrients as butter, eggs, cheese, meats, milk, fats, fruits, honey, and the products these raw materials could and would be processed into causes the surplus.

The fact that farmers in general are compelled to work 12 to 16 hours a day suggests the reverse of "too many" farmers. This is not done from choice, but from inadequate farm income that does not warrant a shorter day or more hired help.

I am a farmer. I know what I am talking about. I am 76. It is my competent judgment that people of the last two generations have never enjoyed one-third of the joys of living that would be possible in a country free of debt, usury, and governmental extravagance. A farmer, to placate his banker and tax collector, has to cheat himself, his farm, and his family. Soil is depleted, buildings deteriorate, and a substandard diet is part of the price thousands pay to break barely even.

I am for America first, not last. Human needs are insatiable. Sixty million workers will not supply the American market, if we give the people enough instruments to facilitate exchange. Our role as a nation should be to raise the living standard of our own people, show the rest of the world a pattern, and give them something to shoot at besides our sons.

BLOOD BANK RED TAPE

Davenport, Ia., April 26—About two months ago my friend and I made a trip to Chicago for the express purpose of donating blood to the Red Cross, since we have no Red Cross blood bank in our city. Arriving at the Red Cross office, we were informed by a none too polite office attendant that because we had no appointment they could not accept our blood donations.

Since that time urgent appeals for blood have appeared in THE TRIBUNE. It seems odd that they can't make up their minds. Do they or do they not need blood? If they decide they do, perhaps we can make another 170 mile trip, at our own expense, to donate blood.

If we must play Santa Clause to the world, why do it with items vitally needed here?

HIGH SCHOOL SPANISH

Chicago, April 25—Your editorial, "Languages as Taught," of April 16 is unfair to the great majority of Spanish teachers of Chicago. With very few exceptions, they all speak Spanish fluently. They discarded the old "grammar-translation" method years ago and supplanted it with the practical, direct, conversational way, stressing the reading and speaking side of the language. We are not neglecting the cultural, social, and commercial value of the Spanish language, either. There are Spanish clubs that prepare literary-musical programs on certain occasions.

At Schurz, for instance, three years ago our Pan American League club gave a Pan American day program in honor of Brazil and your paper used one-half of an entire page of pictures and scenes of the samba singers and dancers.

And to glorify and glamorize the speaking ability of our Schurz students, for the last three years we have been giving a Spanish reading contest every semester, with prizes to the winners. Our judges have always been Spanish professors of our local universities.

If we don't get better results than we have now, blame it on two chief factors—too large classes and 40 minutes daily to teach them.

BLOOD BANK

Chicago, April 26—I have just paid my first visit to the blood bank. Why I didn't go sooner I don't know. Just lazy, I guess—like millions of others.

It was quite a business. And efficiently handled. Most interesting thing to me was the types of people there to donate. The vast majority appeared to be repeaters. One kindly appearing, middle aged man, for example. I judged he had gone without many of the niceties of life. Perhaps he couldn't afford to buy many bonds but he could give his blood and had, willingly, 10 times.

"You're in the war, now," said my companion. "Some soldier or sailor will be using that in a couple of weeks." And the thought occurred to me: "I can't go out and kill the enemy, much as I would like to, but I can go out and help save the lives of our own fighters—one every 10 weeks.

MORTGAGEE'S PAPERS

Chicago, April 24—We are paying up the balance due on our mortgage. The monthly payments we made on the loan included insurance on the house as well as principal and interest. When we make the last payment, what papers should be turned over to us? S. F.

If the papers are in the usual form of notes secured by a trust deed, at the time of final payment the debtor should secure from the holder the last coupon and principal note, the trust deed, the guaranty policy or other evidence of title, and fire insurance policies. He should take these papers, with the previous coupons which should be in his possession, to the trustee named in the trust deed and secure a release deed, which the debtor should record. He should also have the trustee write on the mortgage riders on the insurance policies a notation that the trustee's interest has ceased, and should later clear this with the insurance companies.

The question whether the debtor can handle such steps for himself depends on his experience and resourcefulness.

ROCKETING FISH PRICES PUT OPA ON BEEF GRILL

Blamed for Policy That Hampers Production

Cattlemen and farmers registered new condemnation of the office of price administration yesterday after reading of THE TRIBUNE'S national survey of the fish supply, which indicated consumption had increased and prices had skyrocketed.

"It is unfair for the OPA to allow fishermen ceiling prices which are three and four times higher than what they used to get for their products," said Charles Rice, stock yards commission man and veteran cattle and hog feeder.

Beef Producer Penalized

"There is no justice in holding down the price of beef and pork and making it unprofitable to produce them while fishermen get a tremendous increase in their prices. Fish prices have run away, while the beef producer has been penalized for attempting to increase production."

Other members of the trade declared the OPA price policies on fish were similar to those imposed on the butter producers, which have driven people to use butter substitutes while butter is being shipped to Russia. They said OPA pricing was forcing beef producers out of business while fishermen were making money.

Public Willing to Pay

P. O. Wilson, secretary and manager of the National Livestock Producers' association, said the survey proved again that the public is going to eat and is willing to pay for it.

"If live stock producers were allowed to give the public steaks and roasts, they wouldn't be so anxious to pay tremendous prices for fish," he said.

THE QUESTION

How does it feel to be hypnotized? [Asked of people hypnotized by Dr. Franz Polgar.]

WHERE ASKED

Lawson Y. M. C. A. lecture.

THE ANSWERS

Betty Friedman, student, 2350 Lincoln Park West—At first my eyelids felt very heavy—then I got sleepy and fell asleep. When I woke up I didn't quite know what had happened. It was like coming out of a sound sleep, except that I felt more refreshed and more relaxed. It was a very pleasant sensation.

Walter Bochert, industrial engineer, Worcester, Mass. — Tonight I remember only one thing from having been hypnotized. I remember that my shoes were very tight, so I took them off. I thought when I came to that I was sitting alone some place. I was surprised to see I had an audience.

James McKeown, insurance adjuster, 853 N. Leclaire av.—I remember I was sitting on a hot chair, altho it wasn't hot. I remember I had a glass in my hands, but I couldn't raise my arms to drink. Then I wondered why I was sitting in front of an audience. I couldn't do a thing about it, tho.

Warrant Officer Melvin D. Rotto, Brooklyn, N. Y.—It seems unbelievable, but after I felt myself falling asleep I was unable to help myself. I knew what was going on, but it was just as if I were asleep. It was a most amazing and unusual experience. It still seems impossible, but I believe it.

Bonnie Bonhivert, student, 2317 Hastings av., Evanston—I was still sleepy for about half an hour after I had been hypnotized. All I could hear during the time I was in a trance was the hypnotist's voice. It was a kind of relaxation that I had never experienced before, somewhat similar to a dream but more realistic.

12 DEFY OUSTER; CONGRESS QUIZ OF OPA PLEDGED

BY CHARLES CHEADLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Waukesha, Wis., April 30—Twelve members of the Waukesha ration board price panel, who were removed last week by Harold Smith, district OPA director in Milwaukee, today refused to give up their panel memberships and received promises of a congressional investigation of both the regional OPA office in Chicago and the Milwaukee district office.

The twelve in a letter to Price Administrator Bowles and Sen. Wiley [R., Wis.], written by County Judge Allen D. Young, a member of the deposed panel, accused the Milwaukee office of conducting a star chamber session here and of destroying the notes of the meeting.

Young said D. W. Clark, the latest in a succession of a dozen price liaison officers sent by the Milwaukee office, called a panel meeting in Waukesha last week at which he told members the "honeymoon is over as far as educating merchants on OPA regulations is concerned."

Policy Reversal Told

Clark said the OPA had reversed its policy of allowing minor and unintentional violations to be corrected without penalty and now considers every violation, however, small, grounds for so-called administrator's claim fines of $25 to $250. Clark ordered the panel to "crack down" on every violator, Young said.

Clark refused to allow the local board's stenographer to keep minutes or any record of the meeting, Young said. After one of the panel members had taken notes Clark demanded they be turned over to him, and threatened to fire all the members when he was refused, Young said.

Young said Clark demanded the immediate resignation of one panel member, T. E. Ryan, secretary of the Waukesha Association of Commerce, accusing Ryan of bias in favor of merchants. Ryan replied he was appointed a panel member because of his association with the merchants and refused to quit.

The letter to Wiley told how Smith had gone over the heads of the panel by calling several merchants into Milwaukee and fining them for minor violations. Dismissal of the panel followed when the 12 protested Smith's tactics.

"We feel it is our duty to stay on this price panel to see that justice is done and we do not believe the district office can dismiss us without cause," Young's letter said. "We therefore are refusing to be discharged."

The promise of a congressional investigation came from Sen. Wiley and Rep. Henry [R., Wis.], to whom Ryan appealed last week. Henry wired Ryan he had taken up the matter with Bowles who, he said, had demanded an investigation by Rae E. Walters, regional administrator at Chicago. Henry said he would bring the subject to the floor of the house and turn his file on the case over to the special house committee investigation federal agencies.

Racing Resignations Told

Ryan said Smith has refused to put his new interpretation of the regulations into writing, and the confusion has led to the resignation of another price panel, the fourth such in the Milwaukee district. Ryan said the Racine panel quit last week because of Smith's interference with the panel in that city.

Nine former members of the Oconomowoc price panel met this afternoon to reconsider their resignations, turned in two weeks ago in protest of an attempt by the Milwaukee office to fine six Oconomowoc merchants a total of $150. D. E. Babcock, hardware merchant, said each of the six was found by the panel to have been 1 cent over ceiling price on one item, a total of six cents for all stores.

Babcock, a panel member, said the panel prevented the district office from fining these merchants.

Plan to Name 12 More

Milwaukee, Wis., April 30 [Special]—Twelve new members will be appointed to replace ousted members of the Waukesha ration board's price panel, Harold T. Smith, director of the Milwaukee district OPA office announced today.

Smith said the OPA stood "squarely behind" a statement by Chairman John Gray of the Waukesha board who had stated that "sterner enforcement measures against price violators were in order after two years of painstaking education of the merchants concerning OPA regulations."

Smith said his attitude was not affected by a letter from discharged members of the panel which charged his office with "circumventing the Waukesha panel and acting in the detriment of the citizens of the community." The Waukesha panel was notified last Thursday of its dismissal by Gray, who said he acted at the request of the Milwaukee office.

DAY by DAY on the FARM

by BEN MARKLAND

April 30, 1945

THE habitual woodlot hiker usually varies his walking routes according to the season. In the early spring he finds the first major flower displays on woodlot floors beneath giant oak and hickory trees. The spring beauties, trilliums, hepaticas, and other early wildflowers, bloom in the damp woods before the trees produce new leaves, which block out the sunlight. The predominant flowers in late April and early May in northern Illinois are the marsh marigolds, swamp buttercups, and other species which grow in moist areas. Open fields and sunny roadsides provide the midsummer wildflower displays, and the lobelias, cardinal flowers, New England asters, and other early fall flowers use the moist banks of streams and ponds as their natural display cases.

Best Nature Show

At this time of the year we always head for the Silver spring area of the Fox River farm, because it's there that a combination of yellow, blue, and white wildflowers combine with the deep green of adjacent pastures and the white hawthorn blossoms to provide the best nature show of this season.

En route to the spring hole we note the red-winged blackbirds darting thru the cattails in the pasture marsh and near-by the wild mustard weeds are showing their blatant yellow flower clusters. After climbing the three-bar fence gate, we find the hillside dotted with groups of wild blue phlox and wood violets, with only a few spring beauties and white anemones surviving the shade provided by the newly leafed maples and oaks.

Water Cress Bitter

A gnarled hawthorn tree, its white flower petals starting to dot the turf, sends long branches out over the spring.

The water cress which grows in the stream bed emptying from the spring now has a bitter taste and stringy texture which contrasts with its late March flavor and appearance. The marsh marigolds, taking advantage of the damp soil of the spring bank, are lush and yellow. Swamp buttercups, higher on the bank, match the marigolds in color, but not in size or profusion of bloom.

Chirping sparrows provide the lightly rasping accompaniment for this woodlot scene. Along the fence row several towhees scratch thru the dead oak and hickory leaves in their persistent search for food. The spring hole again has provided the sights and sounds for a pleasant April interlude.

★ The GARDEN ★

THE bean and pea inoculating material described yesterday in this space should not be confused with dusts used for treating seeds for the prevention of rotting and seed diseases. The latter type of dust has proved harmless to the seeds of beets, peas, sweet corn, cucumbers, melons, spinach, and lima beans, and in many tests has increased yields by reducing the amount of seed decay.

Most of the large, comparatively porous seeds are subject to rotting, especially if the weather is cool and damp after planting. The chemical dusts protect the seed from decay during such periods.

Gardeners who have failed to get satisfactory yields from peanuts in northern Illinois will be especially interested in this method of treating seeds before planting. Purdue university reports that the yield of peanuts was increased up to 30 per cent after dusting of the seeds.

CON CON SLATED FOR VOTE TODAY AT SPRINGFIELD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., April 30 — The resolution proposing the calling of a constitutional convention to rewrite the state's basic law will be called up as a special order of business tomorrow, with the fate of the measure in doubt.

Indications increased today that the members of the house were listening more to the advice of agriculture association and state federation of labor officials, who oppose the resolution, than to some of the groups which are seeking to pressure it thru the house.

Rep. Homer B. Harris [R., Lincoln], Gov. Green's floor leader, postponed action last week when it became obvious the proposal would fall short of receiving the necessary 102 votes for passage.

DEATH CAUSED BY HEART DISEASE

TERRIER KILLER OF COAST BABY IS ASPHYXIATED

Los Angeles, Cal., April 30 (AP)—Woof, the Staffordshire bull terrior that recently choked to death a 21 month old baby, was destroyed by asphyxiation today, Atty. Joseph Scott announced tonight.

Death of the dog climaxed a legal tussle in which Grady Terry, a dog enthusiast, had attempted to save the life of the animal which killed the baby, Marguerite Derdenger, daughter of Staff Sgt. Charles and Mrs. Derdenger, last Feb. 13.

Superior Judge Emmet H. Wilson today voided a previous restraining order which had been obtained by Grady and which had prevented destruction of the animal.

TODAY'S EVENTS: MAYOR KELLY 69, HEWITT TURNS 68

Mayor Kelly will observe his 69th birthday today and Public Works Commissioner Hewitt his 68th—both, they said yesterday—by working. Today also will be the 60th birthday of Charles C. Fitzmorris, former police commissioner.

Mayor Kelly, who began his 13th year in office April 13, disclosed that he had gained 13 pounds since the last campaign. He said he attributed his gain to junking of all his medicines and concentrating on vitamin pills.

Both Kelly and Hewitt were congratulated officially by the city council, which then adjourned.

Allot $981,693 in April to Dependent Children

State funds amounting to $981,693 were allotted for 47,280 children in 19,808 families in April under the aid to dependent children act, Raymond M. Hilliard, public aid director, said yesterday. The average allowance was $20.76 per child.

LOCKER FIRMS REFUSE TO SPY FOR OPA RAIDS

Representatives of the frozen locker business in the Chicago area refused yesterday to act as spies for the office of price administration in its efforts to stop black market hoarding in meat, but promised to help the OPA in every other way.

The stand of the locker men was made at a conference with Marion W. Isbell, OPA area director, and Homer Clay, chief OPA enforcement attorney. Owners or representatives of 22 locker houses in Chicago and 17 suburbs and communities were present.

A committee was appointed to work with the OPA. Members are G. A. Smith, Hammond, Ind.; M. J. Muller, Downers Grove; Kermit Ochsenschlaeger, Aurora; Lewis Mills, Libertyville; J. B. Kennedy, Des Plaines, and Jess N. Cole, Crystal Lake.

Meanwhile, OPA agents at the Dutch Dairy Locker company picked up more than 4,000 red points yesterday as 30 locker renters settled arrearages in that department.

Mat Capone Murder Trial Continued Until June 5

At the request of the state, trial of Mat Capone, 35, for the murder of Jens D. Larrison on April 18, 1944, was continued to June 5 yesterday by Chief Justice Harold G. Ward in Criminal court. Larrison was slain in Capone's Hall of Fame tavern in Cicero. George M. Crane, Capone's lawyer, said they were ready for trial but Assistant State's Atty. Richard B. Austin asked the continuance.

Proper Pre-Natal Care Helps Give Baby Right Start in Life

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Should devastated Europe decide to have a Baby week, as we are now having, it couldn't do much good. If you lived in one of those war-stricken countries and suddenly knew you were going to have a baby, everything would be against you. In America, this is not the case.

The healthy appearance of this young miss is testimony that her mother had adequate care in pregnancy. [TRIBUNE Studio Photo]

American babies are fortunate, but not every young woman who is going to have a baby makes use of the advantages available to her.

Of course any realist knows there is a shortage of doctors and nurses; many families are in financial difficulties due to the war, and many young wives of service men find it a struggle to get along, for example, on a private's pay. Even so, there is available to practically every girl who knows she is going to have a baby, the services of a doctor or the service of a clinic.

These young women owe it to themselves, their husbands, but perhaps most of all to their babies, to go regularly for the routine checkups that will reassure them if everything is all right, help them if some unsuspected difficulty is uncovered or some complication arises. It is not possible to stress too strongly the importance of pre-natal physical supervision by a doctor.

On the basis of diet alone this regular contact provides a safeguard. Innumerable prospective mothers do not eat, during the months before their baby's birth, a diet adequate for his needs as well as their own. Milk, for instance, often is absent from the diet. Some physicians, even in addition to milk, prescribe in certain cases calcium tablets to supplement the bone growth requirements. Here we see how expert checking helps both mother and baby.

Other problems arise which often can be met successfully by an obstetrician. Prolonged nausea, for example, besides being distressing, often is debilitating, causing serious loss of weight. Altho some cases of this are stubborn, others yield either to controled diet or injections [as of vitamin B Complex], or both.

It is extremely important for you to be under medical supervision during your pregnancy.

Mary O'Brien Is Married to R. W. Clifford

BY JUDITH CASS

IN a quiet ceremony Saturday attended by members of the families, Miss Mary O'Brien, daughter of Mrs. Thomas J. O'Brien and the late Mr. O'Brien of Lake Geneva, Wis., and Davenport, Ia., was married to Richard William Clifford, son of Mrs. Frederick S. Clifford and the late Mr. Clifford of Chicago. The wedding took place at 4:30 p. m. in the chapel of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel church, with a reception following in the Drake.

The bride was attended by Miss Rosemary Walsh of Davenport, and John Clifford was his brother's best man. Among the members of the immediate families present were the bride's sisters, Mrs. Frederick C. Gartz, whose husband just has left for duty with the American field service; Mrs. Brent Starck, whose husband is with the navy in the Pacific, and Miss Eileen O'Brien, who returned from Finch Junior college for the occasion. Also here was the bride's brother, Pvt. O'Brien Jr. of the army air forces, who is stationed at Keesler field. Mrs. Gartz and Mrs. Starck are living with their mother.

The bride attended the Villa de Chantal, Rosemont college, and Finch. Mr. Clifford attended the Boys' Latin school, Andover academy, and Williams college. He and his bride have gone to New York on a wedding trip, and will live with his mother in Lake Shore dr. He has another brother, Frederick Jr.

Other Wedding News

When Seeing Eye enrollment drive team workers gather in the Woman's Athletic club at 11 a. m. today for the first report meeting on their progress there will be other news of special interest, that of the marriage of this morning's speaker, Miss Audrey Hayden, to Dr. Harry S. Gradle, which took place Saturday. The quiet wedding took place in St. James Episcopal church, with the Rev. Duncan H. Browne officiating. Dr. Gradle and his bride, daughter of Mrs. S. H. Hayden of Oberlin, O., are at home in his Highland Park residence. The new Mrs. Gradle is executive secretary of the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness, of whose board of directors Dr. Gradle is vice president.

Here and There

Barbara Blossom Wells, the second child of Lt. and Mrs. G. Greeley Wells [Barbara Blossom] arrived Saturday in Laguna Beach, Cal., where she was welcomed by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. George W. Blossom Jr. of Lake Forest. The baby's father is with the marines in the Pacific. He is a son of Mrs. Ellsworth Faris, also of Lake Forest.

Mr. and Mrs. Westray B. Hazzard [Ruth Harvey] of Asheville, N. C., announce the birth of a daughter, Elizabeth Falconer, last Wednesday in Asheville. The baby, who has been named for her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Arlington C. Harvey of North Prairie, Wis., formerly of Evanston, has a brother, Harvey, and a sister, Coryelle.

Mrs. John C. Slade and Mrs. Freemont Chandler will give a luncheon in the Woman's Athletic club today for Mrs. Arthur W. Wakeley, retiring president of the board of directors. Mrs. Wakeley will give a luncheon tomorrow for the club's new president, Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr.

Today's Events

A new exhibit, "Songs of Yesteryear," will be opened today in the Chicago Historical society. Edward Wilson's paintings depicting such old favorites as "Casey Jones" and "My Mother Was a Lady" will be on view, along with colorful costumes of the Gay Nineties.

The lobby of the Esquire theater will be filled with an assortment of gifts which guests invited to attend a movie party sponsored by the Woman's auxiliary of Children's Memorial hospital will bring there before 2:30 p. m. today as admission to the party. Mrs. D. Mark Cummings is chairman of the auxiliary.

Alumni of the Hill school in Pottstown, Pa., will turn out for luncheon today in the University club to welcome the school's headmaster, James I. Wendell. John E. Baker Jr., president of the Hill School Club of Chicago, will preside at the meeting. Other alumni attending will include Alexander H. Revell Jr., Cyrus H. Adams III., a trustee of the school; Arthur A. Burrows, Frank H. Woods Jr., William D. Cox, Richard K. Juergens, Herbert M. Stratford, Uri B. Grannis, Robert S. MacDonald, and William Holabird III.

Style Contest Ends Tonight; Record Entry

With the deadline for entries in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S sixth annual American fashions contest arriving at midnight tonight, a deluge of late entries yesterday gave assurance that the number of contestants in this year's contest will exceed that of any previous year.

As soon as all entries are received, the contest selections committee will begin the work of deciding on the 40 or more designs from which the grand prize winners will be chosen.

Grand prizes in the general contest will be $2,000, $1,000, and $500, with a prize of $500 in the teen-age division, which makes its appearance as a special department of the contest for the first time this year. All those whose designs are selected as contenders for the grand prizes will receive honorable mention awards of $50 each.

After the competing designs are chosen, they will be made up into garments with the finest materials obtainable, at the expense of THE TRIBUNE, under the supervision of Mrs. Grace Pickering, fashion show director.

The selected designs will be modeled by professional mannequins at the annual Chicago Tribune Fashion show to be held in October, the exact date and place to be announced.

Mrs. Pickering yesterday expressed enthusiasm over the tremendous interest manifested by designers in this year's contest.

"It is most encouraging," she said, "to know that Americans everywhere are determined to keep the fashion center of the world confined to their own shores. It is also significant that leading designers all over the country have indorsed THE TRIBUNE'S outstanding contests, which have had a great influence on the whole fashion industry in America.

"Despite the fact that the teen-age group was announced weeks later than our regular contest, we have received a remarkably high number of entries marked specifically for the teen-age group. We believe that out of these entries will come some really fine fashions for the modern American miss."

The TRIBUNE'S American Fashions contests were inaugurated five years ago to stimulate interest in American fashions for American women, to encourage American talent, and to advance the whole field of fashion designing in America.

Thru the Looking Glass

One of the best leg grooming aids we can recommend is a rosy hued disk, an abrasive, for removing hair and fuzz. Not only does it remove hair effectively, it also helps to banish surface bumps and gives the skin the silky, slick-as-satin finish so necessary for the fullest success of cosmetic hose. Groomed with this little aid, the leg surface is so smooth and soft that makeup can be spread on in a jiffy and the effect will be every bit as flattering as the sheerest of silk or nylon stockings.

Use the disk only when the legs are perfectly dry and free of perspiration, cream, or any substance which might interfere with its operation. Start with a small area and, holding the flesh firmly, rub the disk with a circular motion, left to right, and then reverse. It's important that the flesh be held firmly in order that it will not follow the rotating motion of the disk and thus minimize the friction. Clearing a small patch at a time, work over the entire surface until there isn't a vestige of hair left. A little file is provided, which should be used occasionally to keep the finish of the disk in best working order. All this may sound a little tedious and complicated, but actually it isn't. While it does take a few minutes longer than ordinary methods, the results are well worth while.

We'd suggest using the disk daily or at least every other day. It's an easy habit to develop, and regularity means that you'll spend less time at it in the long run and guarantees that the legs will always be perfectly groomed. The original investment is not large and a single disk gives months of service.

Remember the huge yard square scarves of last year, those with such distinctive colored imprints as gallant Scotch soldiers in authentic uniforms, the print of huge seals, and the figures of fashion belles of long ago? This spring these scarves have been cut up and made into some of the most unusual blouses that have ever been unpacked, then hung out to tempt the appreciative shoppers. The intricate manner in which a pie wedge section of a colorful scarf is inset into the blouse is a brilliant example of cutting and designing genius.

For instance . . . one dull black blouse has the entire vee pointed yoke of gold colored background scarf imprinted with gay bright designs. Another white blouse has a giddy tri-colored scarf section swathed around the yoke and neckline with a soft bow of the printed piece tied demurely under the chin. Others are evenly divided—front of the print, back of solid white. A few blouses with brief sleeves are made of the entire scarf, cunningly cut and seamed together in intricate insets and shapes using the most colorful parts of the printed design in massed effects for contrast.

These are precious all silk blouses, so don't expect to own one without paying well for it. But, expensive tho they be, each blouse is different, and any one will make an unusual costume out of the ordinary suit. They all look like the fine French imports of before the war. The material alone is well worth all the money asked for the entire blouse. If you want something distinctively different, see this new blouse collection while it is complete.

Lily Pons Sings 'Lucia' Before Sold Out House to Begin Week of Opera Here

"LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR"

Opera by Gaetano Donizetti, with book by Salvatore Cammarano, based on Sir Walter Scott's "The Bride of Lammermoor." Presented in Italian by the Metropolitan Opera association in the Civic Opera house Monday evening, April 30, 1945.

THE CAST

Lucia	Lily Pons
Alice	Thelma Votipka
Edgardo	Jan Peerce
Lord Henry Ashton	Leonard Warren
Raymond	NicolaMoscona
Lord Arthur Bucklaw	John Garris
Norman	Lodovico Oliviero
Conductor	Cesare Sodero

The Metropolitan Opera put a welcome May basket on our doorstep last night—a week of opera with a sold out "Lucia" starring Lily Pons as the nosegay on top. As Donizetti goes in the year of our opera 1945, it was probably as good a performance as an impresario could get together. It lacked the blazing fire of greatness—and "Lucia" can blaze if you have the incendiaries of voice and direction—but it was well sung in its way, and Cesare Sodero's direction was invariably lucid, occasionally distinguished.

But it was Miss Pons the crowd went to hear, and it is a pleasure to report her in fine fettle after her long trips overseas. The little French coloratura looks like a princess out of a fairy tale, and her voice is a slender thread of silver which she spins into fantastically delicate designs. Sometimes you can't hear her in an emergency, such as at the climax of the Sextette, but when she sings the Mad Scene, particularly the gossamer drifting of the Ophelia-like "Cast on my grave a flower," she is truly as bewitching as bewitched.

As her mournful cavalier, Jan Peerce had everything but stature—of voice and person. Yet in his lilliputian scale he sings with extraordinary skill, and with a bravura sense of theater that understands the bold outlines of music drama. His way with the wedding scene was that of a man who really believed in his promised bride, and his rage at deception struck sparks.

In the big operatic sense, of course, Leonard Warren's was the voice of the evening, a huge baritone that defies an orchestra to drown it out. Mr. Warren was no luckier than most men in making the conniving Henry anything but a stage villain, because, really, that's all the man is. Mr. Moscona was a sympathetic counselor, tho not yet with the depth of voice to make the role completely his own. Miss Votipka was expert as Lucia's confidante, and Mr. Garris, who looked like the Jack of Diamonds as Bucklaw, was faintly ludicrous by intention—not, as is usually the case, by inadvertance.

Both chorus and orchestra seemed shined up for the occasion and the Met's "Lucia" sets by Richard Rychtarik have everything from silver fringe intended to impersonate water flowing from a fountain to tall staircases which Miss Pons negotiated along with the Mad Scene. Myself, I preferred Miss Pons' designer to "Lucia's," tho perhaps that silver wedding gown is as unlikely in its own way as silver fringe for a waterfall.

Glitter of Past Is Missing at Met Opening

BY ELEANOR PAGE

Crowds at the opening last night of the New York Metropolitan's brief Chicago engagement in the Civic Opera house stormed the slender gold ropes strung between ticket takers as eagerly as if they were descending on a neighborhood butcher shop which advertised beef for sale. The glitter and glamor which has come to be associated with opera openings was noticeably absent, and the numerous ticket holders who waited about the lobby to see "somebody important" were visibly and vocally unhappy at the spectacle.

"My two daughters have never been to an opera opening before and they're so disappointed," complained one of the spectators just as Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Swift [Claire Dux of opera fame] slipped quietly past. Later another woman famed on the opera stage came in, Mrs. William E. Ragland [Edith Mason], also quietly and inconspicuously gowned. The Raglands were with the James G. McMillans and Capt. and Mrs. Frederick Ceres of Great Lakes.

Unfortunately for the sightseers, the few moments which presented some elegance and dash occurred after the warning bell preceding the first curtain. Then, arriving fashionably at the last possible moment, figures clad in evening dress refilled the fast emptying lobby briefly.

An entrance worth waiting for would have been that of Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, who swept in clad magnificently and dramatically in a flowing wine colored cape of velvet bordered all around in silver fox, and a wine velvet gown. With her were Mr. Wolf and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, the latter clad in a silver fox jacket and a black crepe gown. Mrs. Kirk held the silver bordered skirt of her gown in one hand, revealing what was termed a few decades ago as "a neatly turned ankle."

The arrival of Abner J. Stilwell, president of the Chicago opera company, his pretty wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hosmer Morse Jr. and the Alfred D. Plamondons, presented another pleasant picture, with the feminine members of the group attired in light, gay colored dinner dresses and short fur wraps. Another distinguished looking group was made up of Mr. and Mrs. Rob-

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Don't Fence Me In

A poll taken by Scholastic magazine to sound out the opinion of 33,342 high school girls on the subject of careers for women brought out some interesting reactions.

Eighty-eight per cent of the girls believed that every girl needs to know something about business or a profession if only "for the gap between school and marriage." Four per cent thought knowledge of home-making sufficient, and eight per cent had no opinion.

"Working in the business world teaches a girl to get along with others and to handle money better," was one argument offered by a student in favor of a career. Another was that "after marriage, a girl may have to assist with the family finances and being prepared will be half the battle."

The high school boys, some 26,650 of them, were 55.5 per cent in favor of careers for girls; 23.5 per cent said flatly "no" to the whole idea, and 21 per cent might be persuaded either way.

Both boys and girls took a realistic viewpoint about the future. Many girls may not marry and will have to support themselves, was their contention; many who do marry may have to carry part of the load.

The Boss Gets Tough

Today is a sad day. For 12 years I've been trying to get "Ralph of the Milwaukee Road" to conform to society. Now he says cabeese is a standard form. The Railway Equipment Register says the word caboose is both singular and plural, and the encyclopedia gives the plural as cabooses. But not cabeese! Never!

At present assistant manager in charge of credits for a Chicago loop hotel, "Sully" is known to some 10,000 guests—and her credit reference file covers more than twice the number. Her name is Cathryn E. Sullivan.

Returned Vets Serious About School Work

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

Many high school fellows already have left the routine of homework, basketball, and Friday night dates to go into service. They have experienced a kind of living more urgent and more demanding than the easy-going guy and gal existence of class elections, school proms, and Harry James recordings that once were so important. These fellows have learned and lived on the double and they have changed. They have packed years of experience into months. A state university to which 300 veterans, many of them teen-aged, have already returned to continue their educations under the G. I. Bill of Rights, reports that these boys have returned as more determined, more serious students.

on the SOLID side

During his first days back at school the returned veteran feels restless and lost. It is difficult, after France or Saipan, to concentrate once more on studying. But like the first six weeks of army life, it's presumably the first half semester that's the hardest for the men who have returned to school. Those at the university who have studied the problem have found that the maturing effect of army life gives the veteran several advantages. For one thing, he is more serious. He has learned the advantage of planned working time, he has learned to study at an accelerated pace, and he also has learned what he himself can do, when he tries.

These boys are eager to catch up on the study time they have lost, many now have a more definite vocational objective and, thru army training, are closer to that goal. Most universities are planning refresher courses in certain subjects for those who have been away from their studies for some time; veterans who do not meet the usual admission requirements will be given the opportunity to demonstrate thru examinations and other methods an ability to carry college work successfully.

These teen-aged veterans have learned the privilege of going to school. Their determination will be stiff competition for the fellows and girls who have drifted thru an uninterrupted education for four years at five days a week. . . . Just something to think about.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	Pass
1 spade	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	5 clubs	Pass
6 hearts	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

Staggering losses have been incurred at the contract table thru the injudicious choice of an opening lead. In today's hand the East player was responsible for an 1,860 point swing against him due to an ill advised lead.

While we do not lend our seal of approval to the bidding sequence employed by North and South, nevertheless, the soundness of the final contract should not be impeached. West doubled because he felt that with both dummy's suits bottled up he could prevent the opposition from building up 12 tricks. Then, too, he rather hoped for a diamond lead.

East, however, decided to make the "safe" opening lead of the queen of clubs. Declarer cashed the ace and king of that suit, ruffed the two in dummy, and extracted trumps. Now it would appear that the success of the contract hinged upon the diamond finesse. However, it was reasonable to suppose from the double, that this play would not succeed. West surely must hold the king of diamonds and probably the king and queen of spades. On that belief declarer led out every one of his trumps and the following position was reached:

NORTH

Now the ace and another spade forced West into the lead and he was obliged to surrender to the ace and the queen of diamonds.

East had been guilty of an outstanding error. Modern conventions provide that when partner doubles a suit slam, the opening leader is not entitled to his normal voice in the partnership. The lead of dummy's first suit is demanded. A diamond opening would have made it impossible for declarer to develop the neat end play which he actually did.

SYNOPSIS: Olivia Warburton suddenly reverts to a childhood habit of walking in her sleep. She and her secretary, Winnie Leslie, occupy an enchanting little cottage, cared for by Tillie, on the Jennesma estate. The Jennesma furniture factory now makes gliders and is in charge of Dirk Adams, to whom Winnie is engaged. Sybrand Jennesma plans to manufacture his brother Gerrit's latest invention, a motor for a new type of car, and hopes to interest Morgan Riley, chief owner of a car body company. Sen. North is investigating the Jennesmas for Riley. Jason Kimball handles publicity. Winnie leaves an envelope containing money at Hilda Jennesma Paradine's cottage. Hilda claims some of the money is missing. Next morning Hilda is found murdered, a knife in the back of her neck. Olivia is summoned. Sen. North, in love with her, proposes, offering the protection of his position, but she refuses. Lt. French of the state police questions Olivia. Tillie has informed him that Olivia went downstairs during the night and took a knife from the kitchen table—the knife. North knew of this accusation when he proposed. There are no fingerprints on the knife. Hilda was jealous of Winnie. The missing money is found in Winnie's bedroom.

INSTALMENT VIII

PLANTED

The door opened and shut and Winnie was on the outside. The trooper had her by the arm, kindly but firmly. She said, "But I'm not thru." He smiled down at her. .

"O, yes you are. Come on, buck up. He doesn't really think she did it."

Winnie raised the quick radiance of hope in her eyes. "You mean that? Honestly?"

"Of course!"

He really was awfully good looking, she noticed. Kim, coming in from the porch, took in this interesting tableau with a disgusted eye.

"French ready for me, Stanton?" he demanded.

"O! O yes. Right in there."

Kim made a lot of having to squeeze past them.

The trooper said, "I understand you're engaged, Miss Leslie. Is that the lucky guy?"

She couldn't tell whether he wanted the information officially or otherwise.

She laughed lightly with an angry glint in her eyes. "That's what he thinks. That he's the lucky one. Because it isn't him." With which cryptic remark she went out on the porch.

Nobody was there except Dirk who was dragging himself wearily up the steps.

"You're Jason Kimball, Mr. Jennesma's publicity man?" French began.

Kim admitted it, grudgingly.

The lieutenant turned a trifle pink. "If you people could only loosen up a bit and give me all the facts . . . trust me a little . . . you'd be helping Miss Warburton a great deal more. Do you think I want to pin a dirty crime like this on a woman like her?"

"What do you want to know?"

"Plenty."

He knew Kim had held this job for three months. That he had come from a big Detroit agency. That he had resigned to enlist in the navy and was only filling in his time here until he could make them take him.

"Why didn't you go back to your Detroit job for a few months, Mr. Kimball? Mr. Jennesma pays you less here, I've been told."

"O, they've probably filled it."

"Jennesma says not. Says they keep calling you long distance."

Kim shrugged. It was too much trouble to keep changing.

"You heard Mrs. Paradine accuse Miss Leslie of taking some money last night?"

"Yes. She was jealous."

"You've come to know her pretty well in three months."

"Yes, I have."

"How then do you account for our finding $265 in Miss Leslie's stocking box. Wait! She admitted she had only $30 in cash."

Kim said instantly, "It was planted there."

"Why are you so sure she didn't take it, Kimball?"

"Good Heavens, why should Farnsworth Leslie's daughter steal a measly sum like that?"

"What? Is she Farnsworth Leslie's daughter?" The lieutenant leafed back thru his notebook. "She said F. W."

"O, I know. Wants to carve out a career for herself in the business world . . . or some such guff. Nobody knows it but Miss Warburton and Dirk Adams . . . and me. She's engaged to Dirk."

"I see."

Farnsworth Leslie's daughter would not be apt to need $265 to the extent of stealing it.

"That all?" Kim fidgeted.

"No. A wire came for you last night. Or rather, it was misdirected to James Kimball. The telegraph company got it straight this morning. It was sent out here a short while ago. Mr. Jennesma opened it by mistake in all the excitement. After he read the message he became worried and handed it to me. Here it is."

"So glad I'm to be included among its circulation," said Kim. He opened the yellow sheet with a jerk.

There was no signature. Kim said nothing as he looked up from the message.

"Well?" French bored him with steel-blue eyes.

"I don't know a thing about it." Kim tossed it back. "Probably it was sent to James Kimball, after all, if there is any such person. I'd advise you to hunt for him."

"We don't need any advice from you. We're investigating the sender in New York."

"Good! Let me know what you find out."

"Okay, Kimball," French nodded dismissal. "I'll see you later."

Edward Paradine sat on the edge of a chair, his plump legs spread and his feet planted apart on the floor. His round face looked like a frightened baby's.

Lt. French shifted his lean, hard body. He looked Paradine over almost pityingly.

Paradine couldn't keep still. He repeated everything over and over again.

"I didn't step out of my rooms for a moment after I locked the door at 12:30, lieutenant. When we got back from Jennesma's last night we had a drink and then Hilda told me to go to bed. She said she'd lock up. That's the last time I saw her, alive."

"Didn't you hear anything in the night?"

"No. Nothing."

"Did your wife always lock up?"

"Yes. She said she didn't trust any one else."

"'Winnie, you aren't still angry with me, are you.'"

Now's the time to buy that pressure canner if you need one. Chicago stores have some in stock, and the new ones are easier to operate and keep clean than the old kind. Furthermore, some of them are made right here in Chicago, so if any adjustment is necessary, it can be taken care of without sending any of the parts of the cooker out of town.

Six hundred and thirty thousand pressure canners have been made available this year, so families who were unable to get one last year or year before now have a chance. It's well to buy now, for the canning season is upon us. Asparagus is the first of the pressure canned vegetables to go into jars, but others will be along soon.

The first sweet corn of the season always looks pretty good. Plump kerneled ears from Texas at first sold for as much as 15 cents apiece, but as more corn comes in, the price is dropping. This is still a luxury vegetable, however, and it will be some time before most of us can afford to place a heaped platter of steaming corn upon the table! Corn on the cob has always demanded lots of tutter. But where are we to get the butter or the margarine for this year's corn? The best substitute for these spreads is ham or bacon drippings. But who eats ham or bacon these days? Seems to me that our big problem, come summer and the domestic corn season, is what to "butter" those golden ears with! Maybe we'd better can all the corn we buy or grow.

It's estimated that 3 billion 400 million quart jars of food were home canned last year. That's a record, but I predict 4 billion jars for 1945.

Tomatoes and tomato juice were most popular, Green beans came next. Corn, peas, sauerkraut, asparagus were other popular home canned vegetables. Apples, peaches, pears, cherries, pineapple, and plums were among the fruits homemakers processed and stored.

A Wisconsin reader has discovered what to do with too many garden onions. She pickles them for a relish and for use in martinis. "Everyone plants onion seed too thick and has to go thru the rows pulling every other one to keep them thinned. Finally you get to the point where you can't eat one more onion," she writes. "So here's what we did last year. It's a tedious job but well worth it. To a quart of tiny peeled onions add ¼ cup salt, cover with cold water, and let stand overnight. Drain and rinse with lots of cold water. Bring to a boil 1 pint vinegar, ½ cup sugar, ¼ cup mixed spices. Throw in the drained onions, let boil up and pour at once into sterilized half-pint jars, and seal. These onions seem to be foolproof and really are elegant."

So there's a suggestion for 1945 onion growers!

Nurse Shortage Growing; 1,000 Aids Sought

BY JUNE GESERICK

Nurses in Chicago hospitals are finding their jobs harder day by day. Increasing numbers of them are going into military service and those who are left must care for peak loads of patients with insufficient nursing aid help. In fact, hospitals in the Chicago area need 1,000 more nurses' aids—at once.

Civilian hospitals will have further gaps cut in their nursing ranks from now to May 10, by which date all qualified nurses with 1-A ratings must report to their local Red Cross headquarters for assignment to army hospitals.

A Tribune survey of hospitals in and about the city discloses that housewives, college students, and other women with spare time could help relieve the nursing shortage by volunteering as aids. The plea for 1,000 aids is made by Mrs. Arthur H. Spiegel, chairman of the Red Cross nurses' aids' corps, whose desk is filled with requests of hospitals for help.

A typical case is St. Luke's hospital, which is reported to handle a greater number of industrial accidents than any institution in Chicago.

There are 108 graduate nurses, including 39 head nurses and 29 members of the nursing school faculty, to care for 533 patients and to instruct 358 nursing school students. Only 282 students are far enough advanced in their training to assist in the institution's wards, and of this number 19 are on affiliation at a municipal hospital or with the Visiting Nurses' association, 10 are ill, and 10 on vacation.

A schedule for the war time distribution of nurses indicates that there should be 153 graduate nurses and 237 clinical students to serve a 500 bed hospital. St. Luke's has 45 fewer nurses than the schedule suggests and 33 more patients than the table lists. Altho the hospital boasts 45 more students than the schedule indicates is necessary in war time, 39 of the extra students are unavailable for use to the hospital.

Because of increased duties and a decreased nursing staff, nurses on duty must work much harder to perform all the tasks necessary for the comfort and welfare of their patients.

Furthermore, a shortage of pantry maids frequently makes it necessary for nurses to set up food trays for patients and to wash dishes after meals. A visit to the hospital yesterday revealed that the nurses, both graduate and student, seldom have a moment to relax.

Eleven day nurses' aids' services were distributed yesterday among the hospital's 19 floors. Miss Madeleine McConnell, supervisor of nursing, said that at least twice that number could be used.

Picture Book Gowns Worn at Paris Ball

BY ANNE BRUYERE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, April 30—For the first time since the war, the traditional charity dance, "Bal de Petits Lits Blancs," at the opera house took place this year.

Picture book formals of glimmering spangled tulle, airy draped chiffon, "frou-frou" white taffeta, and sculpturesque brocaded satin were paraded up the 50 foot wide stairway covered with magnificent oriental rugs.

Lucien Lelong's amber yellow dance dress of tulle was worn with an enormous spangled scarf of transparent electric blue gauze. The tiny bodice of the gown was attached with jade halter straps.

Lotus pink organdy formed the delicately embroidered flounces of Jeanne Lanvin's new summer ball dress. The identical embroidery of tiny four petaled blue, emerald, and purple flowers covered the extremely decolleté corset waist.

"Frou-frou" white taffeta, with gigantic mounted flowers forming the bodice front and back and trimming the fitted skirt, fashioned Maggy Rouff's exciting formal, while superbly elegant brocaded satin was used for Paquin's romantic gown reviving the hoop skirt.

Fragrant earrings, bracelets, clips, and crowns are being designed of fresh blossoms by Parisian florists for day time as well as evening wear.

Dainty lilies of the valley fashion earrings matched with twin bracelets, while pink camelias form an unusual necklace. Exquisite bracelets of variegated roses, daisies, or gardenias are popular, as also are double clips designed of fresh tulips, carnations, and mignonettes.

Fashion Flashes: Airy, flower embroidered chiffon handkerchiefs in pastel pink, blue, and orchid or exciting orange, yellow, and red are attached gracefully thru large square rings created by Mauboussin. . . . Andre Dallioux's new handbags are cylinder shaped and made of straw, cork, wood, felt, printed silks, and flowered parchment. . . . Pierre Blin has decorated desks, chairs, tables, and bedroom sets for the teen age of sycamore painted with vivid, gay flowers.

And Even the Kitchen Sink Is in This Movie

"IDENTITY UNKNOWN"

By Mae Tinée

You might say that everything except the kitchen sink is in this one—but, come to think of it, there is a sink in it.

Here we have Richard Arlen as a soldier in search of his identity. Wounded overseas, he has suffered a complete loss of memory, but he is supplied with four names found on dog tags at the scene of his injury. His quest leads him into many adventures, the first of which starts when he falls in love with the widow who bears the name at the head of the list. [That's when he begins to wonder about his previous marital status.]

At the next stop he encounters a little boy who thinks he's his daddy, and from there he moves to Chicago, where he becomes involved with gangsters and gives first aid and good advice to the victim of a shooting. The last name on the list leads him to Iowa, where he also interferes, in a nice way, with the lives of an elderly farmer and his wife.

Mr. Arlen is likable as the soldier, in spite of a fairly preposterous role, and Roger Pryor gives a brief but good performance as a gangster. Not much can be said for the feminine members of the cast. Miss Walker is very pretty but almost expressionless.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 30—You hit every kind of bottleneck in this conference town—luggage and traffic bottlenecks at the station, phone paralysis, frozen bellhops, and so on. There's a way out of most of 'em, but a corridor jammed with struggling humanity trying to get to a credentials desk stumps most every one. Not Gracie Allen. She fixed that situation up pronto. "O, Mr. Molotov!" shrieked Gracie in her best radio voice. The crowd did a right about face and made for the shriek. Gracie meanwhile executed a neat end run and came out unruffled smack in front of the credentials clerk.

San Francisco Story

I have a son in this war, so I'm a friend to every boy in uniform and every mother and father who has a boy in service. But I didn't need that bond to cement a friendship with Frank Martinelli of San Francisco. . . . I dropped into the Bal Tabarin to introduce myself to Frank because he knows some good friends of mine in Hollywood. And I spent one of the most interesting evenings of my life. It wasn't only the wonderful food and the show. It was more than the smiling faces and the friendly people who recognized me and wanted autographs. It was more, too, than meeting my little friend, Olive, the midget, who dances like a snowflake and looks like a fragment of porcelain. It was talking about this war and the peace to come with a man whose heart matches the city in which he lives. . . . Frank has a human investment in this war. He has a son, Frank Jr., seaman 1st class, somewhere on that ocean he can see from his front door. He also has four nephews at the front—one of them a hero, Ralph Chelli, now in a Japanese prison camp, holder of the congressional medal and other decorations. . . . As I talked with Frank, lads in uniform kept drifting by. They'd shake his hand and say, "Thanks, Frank," or they'd thank him for a buddy who is still out there. Some day a writer is going to tell the story of Frank Martinelli in World War II. Just now it can't be written, but when it can be I hope every man, woman, and child in this country reads of the greatest service ever given our boys by a single individual in the Pacific war theater.

Souvenir Hunting Soldiers

Just heard an amusing tale about our souvenir mad soldier boys. Because of dangers involved, souvenir hunting is forbidden at the front. But a captured Jap flag still brings a good price—$50—if it's just a plain one. If it has a lot of Jap writing on it, the price goes up and up. . . . Some of our fellows on furlough in Australia had a plain banzai flag worth 50 bucks. But the lad who owned it got a bright idea. He went to a nisei G. I. and had him put a lot of Jap writing on the flag. He sold it for 200 smackers to an Australian. The purchaser hurried to a translator. He wanted to know what inscription his battle souvenir carried. Well, among the more polite phrases was "Nerts to you!"

Thank You, Hollywood

When three broadcasts a week and this stint begin to get me down, I get another pat on the back from my friends at home, take a deep breath, and latch down to the job with fresh gumption. Wish I had time to thank every one in person—but "you understand how things is," as Eddie Goulding says. . . . Hear Joan Caulfield is consoling herself with Alan Curtis now that Bill Hollingsworth is on his way to New York. . . . Ruth Hussey is turning a Broadway offer over in her mind—it's for Eddie Goulding's play, "Last Sunday." . . . Paramount painted a gold oscar on Barry Fitzgerald's dressing room door. Barry busted the first oscar they gave him.

Just Camera Fatigue

I thought our Hollywood lens boys went overboard some times, but the fellows here at the conference just snap everything regardless. Opening day I saw one shooting a poor tired little messenger boy who'd dropped down on the curb to rest his aching feet. And when I saw Leslie Charteris, author of those "saint" mystery stories, prowling around the hotel looking sinister, I wasn't surprised to learn he's collecting local color for his next, "Murder of a Diplomat." Cheery thought, that. . . . Madman Earl Muns is one of my favorite characters. When his son recently told him he was studying algebra, daddy said, "Say hell in it for me, son."

SET DATES FOR TRIBUNE'S 13TH GOLF SCHOOL

BY ARCH WARD

JOHNNY BLOOD, the former Green Bay Packer star, and Mel Macesu, who played center for the Marquette football team, were in the lineup of the quintet which won the All-China army basketball championship. . . . One of baseball's unsolved mysteries is the booing Rudy York still receives from the Detroit fans. . . . The Tigers certainly wouldn't have been a pennant threat last season without Rudy's big bat. . . . Roy Cullenbine, who was traded to the Tigers by the Indians Sunday, excels at squash, tennis, basketball, and ice skating, in addition to baseball. . . . Oris Hockett, who is doing very well for the White Sox this season, was the chief target of Jim Dykes' raspberry barrage while with the Indians last season. . . . "I figured he would be so tickled to have me on his side that he should do us a lot of good," explains the White Sox skipper, who engineered the trade which brought Oris to Chicago for Eddie Carnett. . . . Honolulu boxing writers are blasting a promoter there for what the scribes call a series of phony fights. . . . Wrestling is the second favorite sport of Bob Higgins, Penn State football coach. . . . Bob, who wrestled as an undergraduate, says daily workouts on the mat are great conditioners for gridiron candidates. . . . Of the 54 men who received major athletic letters at Marquette university in the year prior to Pearl Harbor, only two were found unfit for military service. . . . Confirming an item in this column last week, Manager Leo Durocher has been given a role in a Broadway musical—titled "Belle Brody"—which will be produced next fall. . . . Leo will play himself in a cast which also will include Elsa Maxwell and possibly Martha Raye.

The broken leg which removed Joe Cronin of the Red Sox from competition leaves only Lou Boudreau of the Indians and Mel Ott of the Giants as active playing managers in the big leagues. . . . Lou, by the way, has led all American league shortstops in fielding for five straight seasons. . . . Golf's big four—Byron Nelson, Sammy Snead, Jug McSpaden, and Sammy Byrd—will play a 36 hole team match over Detroit's Plum Hollow course on June 24. . . . Nelson will team with McSpaden against Snead and Byrd. . . . Lt. Rae Schuessler, former sports publicity director at the University of Alabama, is dropping bombs on Japan from a B-29 these days. . . . Lt. Bart Avery, Alabama quarter back, was the fifth Crimson Tide football player coached by Frank Thomas to be killed in the second World war. . . . Lt. Avery fell with the 9th army in Germany. . . . The other four were Lt. Johnny Roberts, Tom Borders, Jimmy Walker, and Babs Roberts. . . . Augie Galan of the Dodgers made only one hit in his first six games of the season. . . . Jim Kirkwood Jr., son of the famous trick shot golfer, has had a varied career. . . . He started as a tennis player, became in turn a professional boxer, a pro golfer, an army private, a flight cadet in the royal Canadian air force, a pro golfer again, and now is acting in Hollywood movies. . . . Fans at a recent wrestling show in San Francisco purchased $175,687.50 worth of war bonds.

Share the Shoes

Two soldiers wounded in different legs,
I read in this morning's news,
Have caught the spirit of the times
And are sharing one pair of shoes.

And gay as the far-famed lark,
Off they both go, I want you to know,
For their daily turn in the park.

Now, sharing our rides or sharing our points
Really doesn't confuse,
But I must confess, it'll be quite a mess
If we have to start sharing our shoes.

But, on second thought, I truly believe
Even that won't reduce us to tears,
For I come from folks, who, barring all jokes,
Have been sharing their things for years.

BIG 9 SPORTS HEADS ENVISION GREATEST ERA

Directors Talk of Post-War Plans

[First of a series concerning wartime activities of Western conference schools and Notre Dame, the problems faced and conquered, and their post-war plans.]

BY EDWARD PRELL

There were dark days for the Western conference and its athletic structure shuddered from the impact of war. There were moments when it seemed that this strongest of all intercollegiate groups would have to suspend its schedules. But problems were met and solved. Today, with the guns still booming but the hope of peace drawing closer, the conference looks ahead to its greatest era.

E. G. Schroeder

Enlightening are the personal reports from the directors of athletics of the conference and Notre Dame. Of the obstacles they brushed away to keep sports going from Pearl Harbor day. Of the lessons they have learned operating under difficulties. Of the ambitious plans they have when peace comes.

It was a battle to keep athletics alive at the University of Iowa and E. G. [Dad] Schroeder, the Hawkeyes' athletic director, frankly tells of the struggle as a typical illustration.

Kept Interest Alive

"We might have given up. Sometimes it seemed we would have to do so," he declares. "But we maintained our program, even if on a reduced scale in some cases. We kept interest alive in the state and we aroused enthusiasm among the boys who could compete, if only for a short time."

Iowa's problem perhaps was more acute than that of its sister schools. It has had few men at the university because there were no service programs. The navy took over 90 per cent of the facilities for the Pre-Flight school. Eight Iowa coaches went into military service, including head men in football, basketball, and baseball. Only 17 year olds and 4-F's were left to man the teams. Yet Iowa carried on.

The Western conference is proud of having kept intercollegiate competition alive. It is proud of the athletes who marched off to war and is sorrowed by the deaths and injuries to hundreds who once competed on its sports fields.

This war truly marked the end of an athletic period. The war's finish, the survey shows, will usher in a new one. It will be another golden era, but different from the one which followed the first World war. Then the emphasis was on terrific spectator appeal. The best brains in the conference agree that the boom coming up will have an emphasis thru an increase in competitors.

Sports for the Masses

They see sports for the masses. They believe returning war veterans will want competitive athletics because of their sports indoctrination as part of military training. Now, even tho the end of the war is not in sight, many of the universities are sketching their peace time programs.

Relaxing of the freshman rule pumped life blood into conference athletics. Many of these beardless first year lads, in normal years denied the right to varsity competition, became stars and thereby helped maintain fan interest.

What of freshman participation after the war. At least one voice is raised to let frosh compete, but the majority want to restore the three year varsity plan, agreeing, tho, that there should be an established program of intercollegiate competition among the first year men.

Discuss Several Factors

This school-by-school series will deal with other factors brought on by the war. These, and others, will be discussed:

What plans are the athletic directors making for the post-war period?

Effect of the war on attendance in football and basketball.

Will the college athlete who has been off the campus for several years return to finish his education and take advantage of his eligibility in sports?

Tomorrow: Ohio State.

NORTHWESTERN WISHES WILSON SMOOTH FAIRWAYS

WPB PLANS TO REMOVE BAN ON NEW GOLF BALLS

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP)—Golf balls soon will return to production, courtesy of the war production board.

The WPB now is planning a revision of rubber regulations which will permit manufacture of new golf balls with neoprene synthetic rubber interiors. The covers will be of balta, the gum rubber now used for re-covering old balls.

W. James Sears, chairman of the WPB rubber requirements committee, acknowledged today that the release of neoprene was in prospect, but said he could not estimate how many balls could be produced until the allocations were made.

Only Reasonable Quantity Plan

Reports came from manufacturers that 5,000,000 would be produced, but Sears said only that reasonable quantities could be expected.

Neoprene is in reasonable plentiful supply, since it is not used in tires. Unless a hitch develops, officials said, the revised rubber order should be issued within 10 days or so. The present order prohibits golf ball manufacture except for the veterans' administration and the military services, which use the balls for rehabilitating veterans.

COST IS TERRIFIC

New York, April 30 (AP)—Golf balls have risen in value so much on the black market this spring that today one of pre-war vintage sells for as much as nine times its weight in silver.

A golf ball that sold for $1 before Pearl Harbor recently cost $10 when two members of a swank Long Island club attempted to settle their 19th hole argument on the links and visited a black market wholesaler before starting out.

By rule, a golf ball weighs 1.62 ounces, giving this particular pellet a value of $6.17 an ounce. Silver currently is priced at 71 cents an ounce.

Even Snead Feels Pinch

The same make of ball has sold on the same market for $60 a dozen altho the usual asking price is $50.

Despite the pleas of manufacturers, retailers, and club pros, all of whom are asking legitimate prices for their wares, that an old ball be turned in for reprocessing when a new one is purchased it is doubtful if supplies will last out the season.

Balls became so scarce during the recent winter pro tour that Sammy Snead once was required to play an entire 72 hole tournament with the same ball—rated no better than a pre-war practice ball at the start.

Autograph Comes in Handy

Fred Corcoran, tournament manager for the pros, said today that Snead probably got his biggest surprise of the southern tour when a galleryite offered to let the long-driving pro play one 18 hole round with a new pre-war ball in exchange for an autograph. Snead accepted.

Wilson Takes Commissioner Office Today

Today is official moving day for Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson, who will leave the Northwestern university campus to take over his duties as new athletic commissioner of the Western conference. Wilson was appointed successor to the late Maj. John L. Griffith on March 10 and since that time has been dividing his time in the commissioner's loop office and at Northwestern as athletic director.

This also is the day that Ted Payseur, Wilson's successor, takes over as the Wildcats' athletic chief.

Last night, in the North Shore hotel, members of Northwestern's athletic department and the school's athletic board entertained Wilson at a farewell dinner. They gave him a set of golf clubs, the new commissioner being an ardent golfer. They also extended Payseur their best wishes for success.

Wilson was voted a six year contract. This will insure his tenure into 1951 over a period when a tremendous expansion is expected in post-war athletics. Annual salary of the 49 year old executive, at the time of his appointment, was reported to be $15,000. The new commissioner has been athletic director at Northwestern since 1925.

At the time of his appointment Wilson said there would be no basic change in the conference athletic setup and that he in no way would be a czar or a dictator. He indicated, tho, that his office would have more authority than in the past, especially as to enforcement of the rules covering proselyting and subsidization of athletes.

COTTON, SMITH TO PLAY MAY 12 IN CHARITY GOLF

EDINBURGH, Scotland, April 30 [Reuters]—Horton Smith, one of America's leading professional golfers, and Henry Cotton, twice British open champion, are scheduled to play their first singles match over the Duddingston course here Saturday, May 12. The proceeds will go to charity.

Horton Smith finished nine strokes behind Cotton when the Englishman won his last open championship at Carnoustie in 1937.

PAUL DERRINGER TO SEEK NUMBER FOUR TOMORROW

BY EDWARD BURNS

Paul Derringer, who won seven games all last summer, will go after his fourth victory of this season tomorrow afternoon when he engages the Cincinnati Reds for the first time this year. Walter Beck will pitch for the Reds, who will be in Wrigley field for two singles games before the Cubs set out on their first eastern trips, via St. Louis.

Derringer was the winner of three of the Cubs' first six victories and if he beats the Reds tomorrow, as he figures to do, he will have won half of their first eight triumphs. No other pitcher has won two games, tho three others, Bob Chipman, Claude Passeau, and Hank Wyse, each has pitched a shutout for his one victory. Roy Prim won one as a reliever.

Passeau Wants Warm Weather

Passeau's victory, you may remember, was a 3 to 0 decision over the Reds in Cincinnati in which he scored the winning run with a homer and sent home the second, or insurance run, with a single. Claude has not pitched since and probably won't start until the weekend series in St. Louis. His calcified right elbow craves warm weather of the type not observable here on playing days thus far this season. Wyse, who held the Pirates to an eighth inning single in Wrigley field Saturday, will be instructed to repeat his stellar performance against the Reds in Thursday's game, according to Manager Charley Grimm. The days off yesterday and today enable Grimm to get his pitching program pretty well straightened out and there will be further rest on Friday which the Cubs will utilize for a daylight ride to St. Louis.

Just how serious Passeau's reaction is, appears to be something of a mystery, but otherwise the only pitching casualty is Eddie Hanyzewski, who has his pitching arm in a sling.

The latest scientific guess on Hanyzewski's trouble is that he has arthritis. The sling is said to be a possible cure. Eddie is of the type who will keep shopping until he has been given a complete set of diagnoses.

Giants Regain Lead

The series in St. Louis calls for only three games, a single contest Saturday and a double header Sunday. Then, except for an exhibition in Bainbridge, Md., a week from today, which will use up no first line pitching, the Cubs will have no work to do until the opening in Philadelphia a week from tomorrow. The Chicagoans will have three whacks at the chronic tail-enders in three single games, then will proceed to Boston for a single game and a double header with the Braves.

On May 14 they will open a series with the New York Giants.

Sox Risk 1st Place Against Detroit Today

Out for a Month

PITCHER BILL DIETRICH of the White Sox may be benched a month by an operation on his pitching elbow from which four bone chips were removed. Dr. John Clarridge said last night the surgery was "highly successful" and that the veteran right hander would be able to leave Mercy hospital in a day or two.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

St. Louis, Mo., April 30—The White Sox went from here this evening for Detroit, but not with that five game winning streak they brought to town a few days ago. Instead, they had a losing streak of two games, and whether this continues to grow depends on how well they handle their affairs against the Tigers in a three day series, starting tomorrow. It will be a matter of staying in or getting out of first place, a position the Tigers evidently plan on taking over without much delay.

Boss Jim Dykes has been talking right along about altering his lineup as soon as the spring splurge was broken up, as was done by the Browns yesterday. But the manager is going to go along a bit farther with the original combination, the excuse being that if it was good enough to win five in a row it might repeat. However, a thoro trimming or two at Detroit might cause him to change his mind again.

Nagel Still on First

The now delayed alteration had mainly to do with Bill Nagel, who has tried to carry the cleanup load and also play first base, with which he is not thoroly acquainted. Strangely enough, the fellow, while no Charley Grimm at the front door, has done fairly well in his own way. His hitting hasn't been even close to expecations, but he did bang a few pitches squarely yesterday, so it is possible that he is getting himself adjusted. Anyway, the hint of improvement at bat is why he is going to stay in there a bit longer, at least another 24 hours.

Altho he was trimmed in yesterday's first game Thornton Lee satisfied himself for the second time this season that he is a competent workman again despite an arm operation in 1943 and a broken forearm last summer. He never had more than a two run lead yesterday so didn't have a chance to ease up at any time but the pressure and the eight and one-third inning performance brought no ill effects. He'd have won the argument if his fielders hadn't decided to let him down after he had yielded only two hits in six innings.

Tigers to Face Haynes

Joe Haynes who won his season's first start and will be delegated to render the Tiger bats impotent in tomorrow's opener and for the second of the series Orval Grove will be available. By next Thursday when the series ends Ed Lopat who was bruised considerably here yesterday may be ready for another fling.

After finishing at Detroit the Sox will return to their home acres starting with a series against the Indians next Friday. Then four eastern clubs will take turns showing up in Comiskey park.

CHANDLER MEETS 2 MEMBERS OF BOARD TONIGHT

St. Louis, Mo., April 30 (AP)—Commissioner A. B. [Happy] Chandler will have his first meeting tomorrow night with the two western members of the major league advisory committee, President Will Harridge of the American league and Leslie M. O'Connor, secretary to the late K. M. Landis. All three are en route to St. Louis for the Browns' flag raising ceremony which will precede the night game with Cleveland.

DAWSON LOSES TO DORSEY LAY IN TEN ROUNDS

Philadelphia, Pa., April 30 (AP)—Dorsey Lay, speedy Philadelphia lightweight, won a 10 round decision tonight over Freddy Dawson of Chicago in the Arena feature bout.

Lay weighed in at 139½, three pounds heavier than his opponent.

Cochran Wins Two Sets from Hoppe; Trails by 23

Los Angeles, Cal., April 30 (AP)—Willie Hoppe tonight emerged with a 23 point lead over Title Holder Welker Cochran at the end of the second of eight blocks in their world championship three cushion billiard series. In their first set today, Cochran won, 60 to 59, in 41 innings. He also won the second, 60 to 31, in 32 innings.

Terry Moore Again Wins Canal Zone Bat Crown

HEADQUARTERS, PANAMA CANAL DEPARTMENT, April 30 (AP)—Sgt. Terry Moore of the 6th air force, center fielder for the Colon team in the Canal Zone baseball league, won the league batting title for the second straight year with a .364 average.

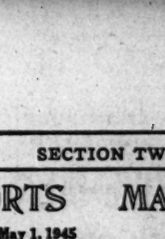
CLASSES BEGIN NEXT MONDAY ON 4 COURSES

Park District, P.G.A. Co-Operate Again

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

Fore!

The 12th annual free golf school conducted by THE TRIBUNE, largest system of group instruction in the history of the game, will open next Monday night on the four courses of the Chicago park district, with members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America again comprising the faculty.



Alex Cunningham

In the first 12 years of the school, 463,500 men, women, and children of the Chicago territory have benefited by these gratis instructions from the members of the Illinois P. G. A. Last year, the weather man, perennial foe of the classes, relented handsomely in his treatment of the school, with the result that nearly 50,000 free lessons were given on the park district courses. This more than trebled the number in the 1943 seminar, when three cold, rainy nights reduced the attendance.

They'll Be Ready.

Officials of the school and the Illinois section yesterday were making a great to-do about assembling their rough weather gear—raincoats, furlined galoshes, and sou'westers—in the hope that they may deceive that same contrary weather man into sending warm temperatures and fair skies for the four evenings of the 1945 session.

Those four nights are next Monday; Friday, May 11; Monday, May 14, and Friday, May 18. The only requirements for enrolling in the school are a golf club [if you don't own one, borrow it]; a desire to learn the fundamentals of golf from men who have spent their lives in the game, and prompt attendance at that park district course most convenient to your home or work.

Be a Prompt Pupil

All classes will begin at 7:15 p. m., and will last approximately one hour. Each student, however, is urged to appear at the course of his or her choice by 7 o'clock, if possible, in order to expedite the beginning of each lesson.

The four Chicago park district course locations at which the free lessons will be given by members of the Illinois P. G. A. follow:

COLUMBUS—Jackson blvd. and Central av.

DIVERSEY—In Lincoln park, foot of Diversey blvd., on Lake Michigan.

JACKSON—63d st. and Stony Island av.

MARQUETTE—Marquette rd. and Kedzie av.

Alex Cunningham of North Shore, president of the Illinois P. G. A., and his colleagues, indicated in their annual spring meeting on April 16 that they aim to make the 1945 school the most successful in the history of their plan. These professionals have volunteered their services as teachers in the school since its inception, appearing at the park district courses in all manner of weather.

Concentrate on Beginners

They have concentrated most of their activities on the real beginners in the game, altho golfers who have played the game for a number of years have found kinks in their swings straightened out by visits to the school. The number of novices probably has increased more in golf than any other sport since the war, with the greater proportion of the newcomers hailing from war industries.

In 1933, the first year the call to the school was sounded, there was a group of skeptics who thought this mass method of imparting the prime principles of golf to novices was not feasible. They argued that the plan was too unwieldy, overlooking the principal purpose of the school, which was, and still is, to develop confidence at the first tee. In the 12 years since it was founded these doubters have been convinced and the school has become a model for scores of similar classes thruout the country.

WILSON, WARD WILL ADDRESS ROTARY TODAY

Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson, new athletic commissioner of the Western conference, will address the Rotary club of Chicago at noon today in the grand ballroom of the Sherman hotel.

Other speakers will be Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, John Schommer, first 12 letter man in athletics at the University of Chicago, now athletic director at Illinois Tech; and Stuart McCutcheon, director of the Chicago USO centers.

EX-SERVICE MEN TAKE KEY SPOTS IN BIG LEAGUES

Benton, Livingston Among Most Conspicuous

New York, April 30 (AP)—Honorably discharged veterans held key positions in the 1945 pennant race today, altho the draft boards continue to take about eight men for every former athlete returned.

Detroit's Al Benton is one of the most conspicuous of the ex-servicemen able to step back into big league stride.

The 32 year old Oklahoma right hander shut out the St. Louis Browns in his first start after receiving his navy discharge and whipped Cleveland next. In 18 innings Benton has allowed only six hits to take his place as a valuable complement to the pitching team of Dizzy Trout and Hal Newhouser.

Livingston Helps Cubs

Catcher Mickey Livingston came out of the army in November and took control of the Chicago Cubs' receiving in spring training, working all but one of the games to date. The former Phil hit .273 against strong western pitching.

Harry [Peanuts] Lowrey, Cubs center fielder, shows promise with a .250 batting average. He came out of the service in midwinter.

Billy Southworth is banking heavily on another former G. I., Albert [Red] Schoendienst, who was heralded as a sensation before his minor league career was halted at Rochester last spring by the army.

Schoendienst opened the season in left field altho he always had played shortstop. He took over the infield job Saturday when Marty Marion suffered a sprained ankle.

Ferriss Beats Athletics

The Boston Red Sox pulled out of their alarming nose dive shortly after Jack Tobin recovered from a finger injury and was able to go to third base. A brother of the Braves' Jim Tobin, young Jack was discharged from the navy after two and a half years' service and created a mild sensation at the Atlantic City training camp.

Latest Red Sox surprise is Dave [Bo] Ferriss, discharged from the army air force in February, and who broke in yesterday with a 2 to 0 victory over Philadelphia.

Van Lingle Mungo wasn't able to win one of his first three starts for the New York Giants, but Mel Ott is counting heavily on the former soldier. He actually hasn't pitched a bad game. Little Vic Lombardi of Brooklyn stopped the Giants on relief after coming to the club from the service.

WILDCATS, IRISH MEET IN BOND BATTLE TODAY

Northwestern university's baseball team will meet Notre Dame at Dyche field in Evanston today in a game which will mark the opening of the 7th war bond drive on the Northwestern campus. The admission price is to be 50 cents worth of war stamps.

The war bond drive will be further augmented by the presence of nine Evanston merchants who will sponsor a Northwestern player and purchase a bond for every hit and every putout made by the Wildcats. Ted Payseur, Northwestern's newly appointed athletic director, will pitch the first ball.

Meet Again June 8

Today's game will be the first of a two game series between the two schools this spring. The return game will be played June 8 at South Bend. The Irish have won two games and lost two, while the Wildcats possess a record of two victories against five losses.

Don Glander, a freshman from West Bend, Wis., will be on the mound for the Wildcats, and Jack Barrett, a member of last year's nine, will pitch for the Irish. The only other letter man in the Irish lineup is Capt. Frank Gilhooley, center fielder. The Wildcat nine is made up entirely of newcomers.

Hedstrom Has No Fracture

Bert Hedstrom, Northwestern third baseman, who was hit in the head by a pitched ball in the second game of the double header with Western Michigan at Kalamazoo last Saturday, will be unable to play today. He suffered no fracture.

FOREMAN NINE SUFFERS FIRST DEFEAT

Fast plays and close decisions were the order yesterday as Kelvyn Park High school's baseball team handed Foreman its first defeat of the season, 5 to 4, in Hanson park. Such a play is the one above in which Stan Huber of Foreman reached first base safely thru the shortstop's error. Al Abraira, Kelvyn Park first baseman, has the ball in his glove, but Stan beat the belated throw. The victory advanced Kelvyn Park, coached by Phil Brownstein, to a tie with Steinmetz, idle yesterday, for the first place in the City league's west section.

Foreman Is 5-4 Victim of Kelvyn Park

Kelvyn Park's baseball team handed Foreman its first defeat in three west section starts in the City league race yesterday, winning, 5 to 4, in Hanson park. The triumph advanced Kelvyn Park to a first place tie with Steinmetz with two victories each. Steinmetz was idle yesterday.

Kelvyn Park scored three times in the fifth when Lindy Zichichi, third baseman, hit a home run with two on. Ed Olsen, winning hurler, fanned 10 men and curbed a Foreman threat in the seventh inning which produced two runs but which was choked off before the losers could tie the score.

Fenger Is Undefeated

In the south section Fenger remained undefeated and moved into first place by giving Morgan Park the short end of a 5 to 1 count in Fernwood park. It was the winners' third successive triumph.

A three-run Fenger uprising in the third was climaxed by Adolph Regelsky's double to score two runs. Regelsky later scored on Tim Madden's single. Madden also hit a double to account for two of Fenger's five hits. Ralph Johanson, who gained his third straight mound success for Fenger, fanned 10 men and yielded only two hits.

Ten Inning Game

In another south section battle in Bessemer park, Bowen had to go 10 innings to deal Calumet its first loss in four games as Dale Pickering, losing hurler, threw a wild pitch after two singles to produce the winning marker. Pickering struck out 14 Bowen batters, while Bob Kowalski fanned 18 Calumet hitters. Neither issued a base on balls.

In a South Suburban league game, Argo defeated Lockport, 17 to 6, on the latter's field.

RAFFENSBERGER NOT CALLED YET; MAY BE SHORTLY

Philadelphia, Pa., April 30 (AP)—Selective service board 54 said today that Kenneth D. [Lefty] Raffensberger, Philadelphia Phillies' pitcher, has not been called up for pre-induction examinations.

"He will be processed in the near future," a board spokesman said.

It previously had been reported that Raffensberger, native of York, Pa., had been sent to Harrisburg for induction. He is 27 years old and recently had been reclassified 1-A.

Hood Knocks Out Chaney in Fourth Round

Hubert Hood, Chicagoland Golden Gloves heavyweight champion of four years ago, knocked out Colion Chaney of Indianapolis in the fourth round of a scheduled eight round bout in Marigold Gardens last night before 1,466 spectators, who paid $2,850.12.

A left counter to the chin sent Chaney crashing to the canvas in 2 minutes 26 seconds. It was Hood's fourth straight victory.

The pair slugged on even terms in the second round and a barrage of rights had Hood's head bobbing in the third.

Tony Reno, Chicago welterweight, beat Jimmy Martin in a six round slugging match. Robert Weatherly, south side lightweight, and Sparky Reynolds, Indianapolis 145 pounder, scored knockouts, the former stopping Herman Mills in four rounds and Reynolds knocking out Ted Barnedoe in three.

Columbus Mitchell, Chicago heavyweight, held Frank Green to a draw in a four round opener.

BISHOP SHEIL ENTERS FIGHT ON ANTI-BOXING BILL

The Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago and founder of the Catholic Youth organization, will be represented by Lou Radzienda, C. Y. O. boxing director, at an anti-boxing hearing in Springfield, Ill., today.

It is the first time the C. Y. O. has entered the fight against a bill sponsored by Rep. Peter C. Granata [R., Chicago], which would bar boxing in Illinois until the end of the war.

Presiding at today's hearing will be Rep. Ragnar G. Nelson [R., Chicago], chairman of the house of representatives' miscellany and license committee. At a previous hearing in Chicago, Rep. James A. Adduci [R., Chicago], committee member, said the bill exempted amateur boxing, but at a recent session in Springfield Mr. Granata said his measure included this type fighting also.

MEISTERS BLANK LEAGUE LEADERS IN N.E. TRAVELING

The Meister Brau bowling team of the North End Traveling league, shooting an even 3300 score, took the full set from the leading Keeley Beers at Kaadland last night to cut their margin over the second place Thompson Restaurants to two games. The Thompsons failed to take fullest advantage of their opportunity, losing one to Edelweiss Beer at 20th Century.

The Meisters had games of 1165, 1055, and 1080. They were led by John Maslana with 683, while Matt Simmons paced Keeleys with 640. Edelweiss totaled 3100, tho they dropped two to the Thompsons, their big 1102 middle game being the highest game of the set. John Podmers had 679 for Edelweiss and Wally Genter 622 for Thompsons.

In other engagements Curtiss Baby Ruth, led by Ted Hjort's 683, took three from Marigold Arcade, paced by John Jinooki, at Bowling Lanes; Schamberger Schlitz, with Jim Sullivan getting the highest series of the evening, 730 on 266, 244, and 220, won a pair from Gold Crown Beer at De Luxe, and Chapin & Gore won the odd from Art Williams Jewelers at Faetz Recreation, George Sandberg rolling 203, 275, 249—727 for C. & G., and Jeff Davis shooting 624 for the losers. Scores:

Meister Brau	1165	1055	1080	3300

BAKSI AND LANE END DRILLS FOR COLISEUM BOUT

BY FRANK MASTRO

Joe Baksi, ex-coal miner from Kulpmont, Pa., and Larry Lane, Trenton, N. J., heavyweight, ended training yesterday in C. Y. O. center gymnasium for a 10 round bout in the Coliseum tomorrow night.

The 24 year old Baksi boxed four fast rounds with Tony Musto, Blue Island heavyweight, in his final workout, while Lane confined himself to light exercises.

Baksi, who weighs 211 pounds, was a difficult target because of his aggressive, bobbing style. However, he is slow and indications are he doesn't punch as hard or swift as Lane.

Baksi Keeps Busy

Nevertheless, Lane's only chance to score a victory appears to rest in his ability to knock out his husky Pennsylvania foe. Altho Joe has his shortcomings he is a busy mauler, everlastingly punching with either hand in close, a style which has a tendency to keep an opponent on the defensive most of the time.

Baksi never has been knocked out in his five years a professional. Another factor is that Joe has trained hard for tomorrow's appearance, just as hard as if he was preparing for a championship fight.

Lane tipped the beam at 190 pounds after yesterday's drill, 21 less than Joe. In his only Chicago sparring, Larry appeared in fine form in a three round workout with William Johnson, Ike Bernstein's middleweight protege, who is matched with Collins Brown in an eight round contest in Marigold Gardens next Monday.

When Musto finished with Baksi he boxed an additional round with Johnny Flanagan, 1944 Chicago Golden Gloves finalist, who faces Odell Reilly of Detroit in a six round preliminary tomorrow. Musto, who lasted nine rounds in a title fight with Joe Louis, will meet Charley Roth, also of Detroit in another six round event.

Petersen to Fight

Bill Petersen, Indiana Harbor 193 pounder, who suffered a cut right eye while working out with Baksi on Sunday, last night said he'd be able to go thru with a third six round supporting match against McKinley English, still another Detroiter.

Robert Satterfield, former city Golden Gloves welterweight title holder, now fighting as a light heavyweight, will conclude drills today for a six rounder against Nate Parshey, Detroit.

Postl Completes 37 Year Span as Body Builder

Charles Postl

Charley Postl will celebrate his 37th anniversary as proprietor of a physical culture establishment in Chicago's loop at an open house luncheon at 73 W. Monroe st. this afternoon.

The former wrestler, who retired in 1910, started his business in one room that contained a shower bath in one corner, a rubbing table, and a desk. That was in the old Adams Express building at 115 S. Dearborn st. He had one assistant—Joe Doyle, a pal of Joe Tinker's from Troy, N. Y.

Today the Postl staff includes a score of employes, among them 15 masseuses and trainers at his salon for women, which was opened 16 years ago at 600 S. Michigan av.

The main plant covers three floors of the Monroe Street building and the equipment includes everything from handball courts to light and heavy punching bags, sulphur and mineral baths to steam rooms and cold plunges, not to mention a battery of ultra-violet floodlamps.

REBORI LEADS DAD TO GI CLUB WORK FOR LOAN

Drops Architecture to Organize Groups

BY ORVILLE DWYER

Organization of the 400,000 Cook county fathers into "Dad to G. I. Joe" clubs for the 7th war loan drive opening May 14 was begun in earnest yesterday when Andrew N. Rebori, noted architect, was chosen over-all chairman.

"Andy" Revori is himself a "G. I. dad." His son, Maj. Andrew P. Rebori of the army air force, is now at Wright field on experimental work, after several years in command of light planes under the late heroic Maj. Gen. Wingate in the British Burma campaign.

The architect was lent for the campaign by DeLeuw, Cather & Co., engineers, dropping work on a score of buildings to take general charge of the "Dad to G. I. Joe club" organizing work.

Lining Up 144 Groups

In a letter sent to 144 community chairmen in the war finance organization—80 in the county suburbs and 64 in the city—Rebori said:

"'Dad to G. I. Joe clubs' are springing up all over the city and suburbs. As chairman of your community, we invite you to appoint team captains for the various districts under your jurisdiction.

"The fighting men and women always have looked up to their dads —now their dads will show by bond purchases for the fighting ones that dad looks up to them.

"'From Dad to G. I. Joe!' There's something beautiful about it.

Tribute to Men and Women

"This fitting tribute to the men and women who are fighting and dying for you and me, for us all, is being properly expressed by the purchase of a war bond in this 7th war loan as a token of the future greatness of America at peace."

Rebori said the whole Cook county war finance committee, with headquarters at 105 W. Monroe st., is coöperating with the organization he has undertaken to direct.

Meetings of the dads were scheduled in many large plants and business places as well as in communities, and it is expected that by the time the campaign opens the "Dad to G. I. Joe clubs" will be well under way.

UNION AMENDS ITS CHRYSLER PLAN FOR VETS

The United Automobile, Aircraft, and Agricultural Implement Workers' union [CIO] has amended its job provision for veterans of this war and will meet with the Chrysler corporation at the Highland Park, Mich., plant tomorrow to attempt to have the new proposal incorporated into its contract with the company.

The proposal provides that veterans now employed be immediately given seniority equal to their military service, and that the six month probationary period for workers be changed to 30 days.

One representative of each of the 15 locals of the union has been notified by R. J. Thomas, its president, to attend the meeting. Robert J. Kelter, president of the newly formed United Veterans of World War II, and chairman of the veterans' committee of local 274 at the Dodge Chicago plant, will be present.

2 CARPENTERS KILLED IN FALL FROM 3D FLOOR

Two men were killed yesterday when a rear stairway and porch at 1210 E. 55th st. collapsed, throwing them to the ground from the third floor landing where they were working.

The men, both carpenters, were repairing the structure, police said, as a result of a condemnation order recently issued by the city building commissioner.

The victims were James F. Stacey, 67, of 5401 Maryland av. and William Austin, 60, of 1231 W. 14th pl.

DEADLINE TODAY FOR PAYMENT OF 1944 TAXES

Today is the deadline for the payment of 1944 personal property taxes and the first half of real estate taxes. Penalties at the rate of 1 per cent a month will be added to delinquent bills, beginning tomorrow. County Treasurer Schlaeger said collections yesterday were about 15 million dollars; 40 millions had already been paid. The Illinois Bell Telephone company paid approximately $4,600,000 in one lump, nearly all for personalty tax.

U.S. QUITS TRYING TO DRAFT LABOR IN NEW BEDFORD

New Bedford, Mass., April 30 [Special]—The war man power commission today abandoned its burocratic crackdown attempt to draft labor from textile mills to tire cord plants, an action opposed by both management and labor and challenged by almost unanimous defiance.

Arthur C. Gernes, regional WMC director, said the decision was reached after the commission was informed of a heavy military demand for fine textiles which would require the employment in fine goods factories of all the help available there.

Gernes said WMC Chairman Paul McNutt agreed to dismiss without prejudice pending cases of New Bedford workers who appealed the forced transfer order.

The WMC's withdrawal ended a controversy that caused a tempestuous upheaval in this city. It began Feb. 19 when the WMC ordered 117 workers to quit their jobs in textile factories and work in cord plants. Only seven agreed to change, the others filing appeals.

CONTEMPT CASE OF 2 IN SEDITION TRIAL UPHELD

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP)—The Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia today upheld two convictions for contempt during the mass sedition trial and reversed a third.

Reversed was the conviction by the late Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher, presiding judge at the trial of Atty. Henry H. Klein of New York. Klein had been sentenced to 90 days in jail for quitting as defense counsel without the court's permission.

The court upheld convictions of Atty. James J. Laughlin, a defense lawyer, and of Ellis O. Jones, a defendant who represented himself at the trial. The court said Laughlin, a stormy figure of the eight month trial which ended in a mistrial with Justice Eicher's death, had filed with the court a "story so scandalous as to require the application of disciplinary proceedings." Laughlin had been fined $150. Jones had been fined $100 for persisting in arguing with the court after he was ordered to sit down.

1 KILLED, 6 HURT WHEN CAR HITS BRIDGE UPRIGHT

One man was killed and six relatives were injured last night when their automobile struck the center bridge abutment over the North Western railroad tracks in Dearborn st., just north of the Chicago river. The victim was Percy H. Kearns Jr., 29, of 2016 Kendall st., Madison, Wis., a salesman, son of the late Percy H. Kearns, veteran court reporter for the state's attorney's office, who died last Thursday.

Those injured are his wife, Evelyn, 26; his mother, Alice, 52; his sister, Evelyn, 24; his brother, Thomas, 11, all of 1222 Winnemac av.; and his aunts—sisters of his mother—Mrs. Marie Wilkins, 60 of 360 Broad st., Mobile, Ala., and Mrs. Jeanette Murray, 53, of 256 Dexter st., also of Mobile.

Eight persons were killed and 239 injured in March traffic accidents in Chicago park district boulevards and drives, Robert J. Dunham, park board president, said. Four hundred ninety-five accidents were recorded in the month.

POLICE SEIZE COMPANION OF GIRL SLUGGER

Miss Dorothy Fortier, 18, of 4428 Wallace st., yesterday identified Edmund Seeley, 17, of 5031 Princeton av., as a companion of the young man who slugged her early Sunday in 45th st. near Union av. Testimony of her brother, William Fortier, 17, recently resulted in the indictment of John Comise, former president of the Cafe Owners' association, on a charge that Comise beat him several weeks ago because he thought Fortier knew the whereabouts of Comise's son, John 17, who had run away from home.

Seeley was arrested with three 16 year old boys by Stockyards police. The others, Edward Fiene, 830 W. 47th pl.; George Cusimano, 636 W. 47th st., and Lawrence Goechen, 630 W. 47th pl., were turned over to Juvenile authorities after Miss Fortier said she had seen them in a restaurant at 47th st. and Union av. a short time before the assault. They denied knowledge of the assault.

TAXES UP $243,201 IN LAKE COUNTY; BILLS SENT OUT

The approximately 130,000 individual tax payers of Lake county will pay $243,201 more taxes this year than they did last, Walter Smith, head of the tax extension division in the office of County Clerk Jay B. Morse, said yesterday.

Smith said current taxes, payable before Sept. 1, are $5,555,075, compared with the previous year's $5,311,874. Tax bills were mailed out yesterday.

WHISTLER

Whistler said to one of his students: I am not arguing—I am telling you.

And in respect to the first newspaper in Washington, the attitude of the citizens of Washington is the same.

Why should an advertiser take exception to the judgment of the very people he wants to impress?

TREASURY TAX DRIVE STRIKES BLACK MARKET

2,500 Cases Listed in Broad Inquiry

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP)—The treasury announced tonight that 2,500 cases of reported income tax evasion by black marketers and others were under investigation. It said war contractors "figure in several large cases."

No indictments were announced, but criminal prosecutions and assessments of millions of dollars in taxes and penalties were expected from the anti-evasion drive conducted by 600 treasury agents.

Cases involving a manufacturer, a wholesaler, and a jewelry store were described without naming the companies. One was said to involve 2 million dollars in additional taxes and penalties.

Inquiry Starts Payments

The 2,500 cases are being screened with first attention being given to cases apparently involving large scale, flagrant violations."

Meantime, companies under investigation are making payments on supplemental tax returns filed after the inquiries began, said a treasury spokesman. One such payment was a half million dollars.

The spokesman said this investigation was the second phase of a drive against the black market which the treasury started late in 1943. The first involved black market liquor operations.

Indictments in the liquor black market had been returned against 724 persons or corporations to March 1, with 404 convictions. The present drive is much broader, he said. Altho still centered on black market operators, it involves many fields other than liquor.

Many Involve Liquor.

Analysis of a sample of 500 cases, the treasury said, showed that 173 involved liquor transactions, 69 large currency transactions "which probably include dealings in liquor and other commodities," 47 produce sales, 26 jewelry, 23 clothing and textiles, and 12 meat.

"A midwestern manufacturing concern is alleged to have diverted proceeds of sales directly to offices to escape record on the company books, which will result in assessment of additional taxes and penalties of more than 2 million dollars for the three year period 1941-'43," said the treasury.

"During 1943 a midwestern wholesaler in wines, liquors, and groceries appears to have made sales in excess of ceilings totaling $172,000, but as a result of carrying this investigation into preceding years taxes and penalties of more than $500,000 are now proposed against the firm and its offices."

Plans Criminal Charges.

The treasury made it clear criminal charges will be brought.

"Extra large denomination bills are not the only ones being used in an apparent effort to conceal income," it said. "A jewelry firm in a southern city is reported as having accumulated $250,000 in $20 bills which apparently has not been reported for income taxes."

Surveys of fur and jewelry firms indicated evasion of excise as well as income taxes.

The treasury said it was receiving active cooperation from other government agencies, such as the office of price administration and the department of justice.

Rayonier, Inc., Arranges Loan of 9 Million Dollars

New York, April 30 (AP)—Rayonier, Inc., has completed arrangements for a one to 15 year serial loan of 9 million dollars, it was announced today. Four banks will take the earlier maturities, and later ones will be taken by Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York.

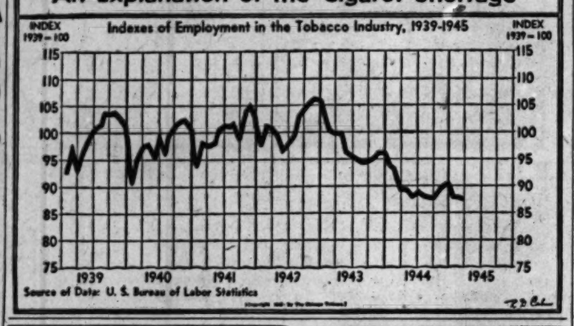
An Explanation of the Cigaret Shortage



Action Taken to Assist U. S. Foreign Trade

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 30—The state department has a definite policy to provide positive aid to American trade and industry in the middle east and is confident that eventually it will give Americans just as good service as that received by the business men of any other nation, a department spokesman said today.

He conceded that the British, with their many years of extensive trade in Egypt and adjacent territory, are better staffed in Cairo and able to provide better service for their nationals, but he said the state department intends to do everything possible to protect and promote American trade.

Question Raised in Cairo

The question of proper state department help for American business men in Cairo and the middle east arose when George Brandt of Asheville, N. C., representive in Cairo of 46 American manufacturers, told a Chicago Tribune correspondent American business men are not receiving coöperation from the commercial attache's office of the Cairo legation.

In Washington the state department spokesman said other complaints have been made, and that the department has taken steps to strengthen its Cairo staff. He said that men with sufficient economic background are being sought for such work. An economic counseler recently has been added to the Cairo staff and the senior commercial attache has been given two assistants. The department also has two men at Alexandria, Egypt, two at Beirut, Syria, and one at Damascus, Palestine, to aid American business men.

Laid to Shift in Needs

The spokesman said some of the difficulties undoubtedly resulted from the shift from war to peace needs, but he said the department is building along new lines and intends to establish service that will be both efficient and helpful to American trade.

Of Brandt's complaint that mail sent to the United States by diplomatic pouch had been returned, the spokesman said it was returned in accordance with international custom under which the diplomatic pouch may be used for official information only. He said Brandt had been misinformed if he was told he could use the pouch.

BROADEN LEND-LEASE AID TO NETHERLANDS AS NEED OF JAP WAR

Washington, D. C., April 29 (AP)—The government announced today a 242 million dollar lend-lease agreement with the Netherlands, extending existing arrangements for lend-lease and reverse lend-lease.

The announcement asserted that the Netherlands East Indies, still largely held by the Japanese, "are destined to be battlegrounds," and after liberation will be available as bases and supply sources in fighting Japan.

The announcement was made by Joseph C. Grew, acting secretary of state; Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, and Leo T. Crowley, foreign economic administrator.

Arms and munitions will continue to be furnished by the United States as straight lend-lease under previous terms. Supplies listed under the new agreement include raw materials for war use and essential civilian supply, including emergency repair of industrial and housing facilities, petroleum, food, agricultural supplies and equipment, clothing, footwear and shoe repair materials,

People and Events

Alfred B. Johnston, vice president of the First National Bank, retired yesterday. He began his banking career in 1897 in the Metropolitan National bank which was consolidated with the First National in 1902. Operations and personnel activities of the latter have been under his supervision for the last 24 years and he has been a vice president since 1927.

Alfred B. Johnston

Comdr. J. Roscoe Miller, dean of Northwestern university medical school, was appointed medical director of the North Western railway, said L. L. White, vice president in charge of operations. Comdr. Miller is in charge of the navy's section on internal medicine. He will assume his duties with the railroad upon completion of his navy assignment.

Elizabeth Kleindienst, of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, was elected president of the Association of Chicago Bank Women. Margaret M. Gansbergen of the First National Bank in Chicago Heights, was named vice president. Edith M. Woodward, Upper Avenue National bank, treasurer, and Audrey Behnke, Illinois Bankers association, secretary.

Carrol Marts was named assistant to Ade Hult, vice president in charge of midwest operations, of Mutual Broadcasting system, said Edgar Kobak, president. Marts had been western sales service supervisor since 1943.

65 LARGE CITIES' TOTAL DEBT SET AT 2½ BILLIONS

Sixty-five of the 92 American cities of 100,000 or more population have a total bond debt of 2 billion 505 million dollars against a legal debt limit of 4 billion 165 million dollars, leaving a margin for future bond issues of 1 billion 660 million dollars, the public administration clearing house said yesterday.

Chicago's bonded indebtedness, excluding school, park, county, sanitary, and forest preserve obligations was given as $52,524,000. The city's legal debt limit was reported as $241,345,000, leaving a margin for future bond issues of $188,821,000. Excluding subways bonds, New York City has a debt of $1,268,509,000, a limit of $1,613,485,000, and a margin of $344,976,000.

WPB INDICATES WAR NEED BARS LIQUOR HOLIDAY

Washington, D. C., April 30 [Special]—Production of industrial alcohol must be continued at maximum levels to meet requirements of the war program the WPB reported today, virtually shutting off the possibility of additional "liquor holidays" this year.

A spokesman said war alcohol needs were increasing and the output of all distilleries would be required to meet estimated demand. He said reserve stocks at the time of the last "holiday" were approximately 80 million gallons, but indications were they would be down to 36 million by the end of 1945.

Hoffman Rips FEPC Bill as Snooper Blind

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 30 — A new "snooping" agency with power to pry into the private lives of citizens without court authority is sought by the administration under guise of setting up a permanent fair employment practices commission, Rep. Hoffman [R., Mich.] charged today.

In a house speech he attacked the proposal as an attempt to seize "arbitrary power" for the executive branch.

The way to prevent employment discrimination because of race, color, or creed, he said, was not to establish an agency with powers of prosecutor and judge. Hoffman advocated as a substitute his own measure, forbidding job discrimination and granting aggrieved persons the right to seek remedy thru damage suits in federal courts.

Sets Up Five Man Commission

The administration bill, approved by the house labor committee and now pending in the rules committee, would set up a five man commission, appointed by the President, to prevent hiring discrimination. The present commission is operating under executive order without sanction of congress.

"This administration bill," Hoffman told the house, "could give the commission and all its agents snooping powers which include the right, without restrictions imposed on courts which issue search warrants, to search and examine the files of any person against whom any employe of the agency may have issued a complaint.

"The bill gives the commission and the horde of agents it may appoint authority to make 'technical studies' and, believe it or not, make the results available to non-governmental agencies.

Opportunity to Pry

"What a sweet opportunity is here given, if this bill becomes law, to this commission to pry into the business of an individual or corporation and give the results of its snooping to a competitor who may have the inclination and the money to pay for such information.

"To put the binding keystone in the arch of its arbitrary power, the bill provides that the commission shall have authority to 'issue such regulations as it deems necessary to carry out the act.'"

The bill empowers the proposed FEPC to subpena witnesses on its own initiative from any part of the United States or its territories, without provision for payment of their traveling expenses.

Orders of the proposed commission would not be subject to adequate judicial review, Hoffman charged.

OIL EQUIPMENT GOING TO CHINA OVER LEDO ROAD

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP)—Materials for drilling oil wells and increasing refinery capacity within China are moving over the Ledo-Burma road, the petroleum administration for war, said today. Some of the materials had been moved to ports in Asia in advance of the reopening of the road.

"The oil field materials and equipment will make possible more efficient, and possibly larger, crude oil production in China," Deputy PAW Administrator Ralph K. Davies said. "The refinery equipment will augment the present simple processing units that were made in China, will increase the quality and quantity of products being manufactured, and will also permit production of other petroleum products that cannot be made in existing units."

Aurora and Elgin Trustee in Bankruptcy Named

Federal District Judge Barnes yesterday entered a formal order placing the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad in bankruptcy and named as trustee Atty. Arthur L. Schwartz. Barnes gave Schwartz until May 31 to report on the condition of the railroad and the desirability of continuing its operation.

U.S. APPROVES SOFT COAL PAY, PRICE INCREASE

Extend Anthracite Contract: WLB

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP)—Economic Stabilizer Davis today approved John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers' union contract with the bituminous coal operators and granted producers price increases averaging 16 cents a ton to offset the increased costs.

The war labor board ordered anthracite miners and mine operators to continue production of coal under the present contract terms until settlement of a dispute between them. The case had been certified to the WLB by Secretary of Labor Perkins earlier.

In New York negotiations between the operators and the union had reached a deadlock. Under the WLB interim order, any wage adjustments finally granted the miners would be made retroactive to today. The WLB summoned the operators and representatives of the UMW to a hearing here in Washington tomorrow.

Processed in Record Time

Government processing of the bituminous contract was completed in record time. It was signed April 11 after 42 days of negotiation between the UMW and the operators. The war labor board approved the agreement a week ago, finding it would give the average miner 81 cents a day more in take-home pay by requiring full portal to portal payment.

The office of price administration will announce details of the price ceiling revisions, which will necessitate small percentage increases in retail coal prices.

The wage contract will add slightly more than 21 cents a ton on the average to producing costs, said Davis. The industry will absorb approximately 5 cents of the increase.

Some operators, apprehensive that the price increase allowed by Davis might fall below their estimated costs, went into conference to determine what action they may take later. The operators could go before OPA for additional increases, it was said.

UMW Joins in Price Plea

Price relief provisions of the contract were made subject to approval by government agencies. The UMW joined the operators in petitioning OPA for increased tonnage prices to offset the pay roll increases.

Davis explained that in determining how much of the cost increase should be absorbed by the industry and how much recovered thru price increases, he had approved OPA use of the principle adopted by War Mobilizer Vinson, his predecessor. Vinson granted coal price increases in November, 1943, ruling that the bituminous mines in each district be allowed a realized margin equal to that earned in 1942 or 15 cents a ton, whichever was larger.

Davis said mines subject to hardship under the new prices were authorized to apply for individual price adjustments.

CLOTHING WORKERS' UNION ASSETS MOUNT $517,827 IN 11 MONTHS

New York, April 30 (AP)—The Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America [CIO] today announced net assets of $4,847,940 as of Dec. 31. Included were United States government securities amounting to $3,342,000. In issuing its annual financial statement, the union said its net assets increased $517,827 in the 11 months covered by the report. It distributed $211,432 to war and community chests, exclusive of $507,000 contributed to the same causes by local unions and joint boards in various parts of the country.

Standard Oil (Ind.) to Spend 100 Million on New Refineries

New refinery construction to meet increased military demand for 100 octane gasoline and other war products coupled with the need for other building, drilling, and modernization will require an outlay of approximately 100 million dollars in 1945 by Standard Oil company [Ind.], Robert E. Wilson, chairman, and A. W. Peake, president, yesterday told stockholders.

A. W. Peake

"Important steps have been taken to prepare for the post-war period," they said. "Work toward construction of additional catalytic cracking units has begun. Whatever the requirements of post-war automobiles and other machines may be for improved petroleum products, we expect to be able to meet them fully."

Rising Demand Demonstrated

The growing demand for higher quality lubricants has been demonstrated during the war, they said. Manufacturing facilities will be expanded for heavy duty motor oils, transmission oils, circulating oils, synthetic oils, special greases, and other lubricants.

The marketing department's modernization program includes plans for reducing operating costs thru additional terminals and pipe lines by simplifying distribution to attain lower costs, and by adopting new types of service stations and new tank trucks.

Work on New Fuel Sources

Research last year cost $3,191,000 and employed 697 persons full time. Tho the company has "no fear of early exhaustion of crude supplies," it is at work on methods for possible future production of motor fuels from natural gas and coal, they said.

Earnings prospects for 1945 were termed "good." When European war demands slacken, the management will turn to supplying "on a more abundant scale" the civilian demands now restricted by rationing. Net income for 1944 as previously reported was $59,225,578, or $3.87 a share compared with 1943 profit of $50,591,371, or $3.31 a share.

LYTTON LEASES PROPSED STORE ON W. 63D SITE

Henry C. Lytton, president of the Hub-Henry C. Lytton & Co., yesterday signed a lease for a new $500,000 branch store to be built at 818 W. 63d st. as soon as war restrictions permit. This will be the company's second Chicago store [its main store is at State and Jackson] and its fifth Chicago area unit. It has branch stores in Gary, Evanston, and Oak Park. It also has merchandising arrangements in five stores of Block & Kuhl in Peoria, Moline, Rockford, Quincy, and Galesburg.

The new Chicago store will be built and owned by the L. Fish Furniture company. Architects Alfred Alschuler and R. N. Friedman, with Fugard, Burt & Wilkinson, associated, will design a four story and basement building.

Lytton's has leased the proposed building for 20 years at an annual guaranteed minimum rental of $20,000 plus a percentage of gross profits.

SEARS QUARTER SALES UP 12 PCT. TO NEW RECORD

Arthur S. Barrows, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., said at the annual meeting yesterday in New York City that sales in the first quarter were about 12 per cent above record figures a year earlier. He said fall business was unpredictable, but that inventory policy would play an important role in 1945.

"Most merchants normally try to clean house once or twice a year," Barrows said. "But we are trying to clean house at least once a month." In placing commitments for goods the management was being "ultra-conservative," he added.

He said profits before taxes were about 20 per cent larger than in the first 1944 quarter, but that 85 per cent of the increase went to the government as excess profits. Lack of goods and man power is the major problem, Barrows added.

Chevrolet Names Dean Manufacturing Manager

Detroit, Mich., April 30 (AP)—Retirement of Charles E. Wetherald as general manufacturing manager of the Chevrolet Motor division of General Motors corporation and appointment of Hugh Dean to succeed him were announced today. Wetherald was one of the incorporators in 1911 of Mason Motor company, which later was merged with Chevrolet.

EDISON 1ST QUARTER EARNINGS INCREASE TO 48 CENTS A SHARE

Commonwealth Edison company net earnings in the first quarter of 1945 were $6,153,988, or 48 cents a share, compared with $5,864,484, or 46 cents a share on a smaller number outstanding in the 1944 March quarter, Charles Y. Freeman, chairman, reported yesterday.

Electricity sales totaled 2,800,160,516 kilowatt hours in the first quarter, up 3.5 per cent from a year ago. Total electric revenues increased 3.8 per cent. Tho gas sales declined 0.7 per cent to 85,714,179 therms, total gas revenues rose 3.9 per cent.

E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. reported first quarter net income was $18,796,997, or $1.52 a share, against $17,242,862, or $1.38, a year ago. Net income before federal taxes included 7½ million dollars in dividends from General Motors common stock, the same as a year earlier. Sales, excluding volume in government owned plants, rose to $162,294,839 from $150,921,772.

TEMPORARY BAN PUT ON DRILLING IN HUGOTON AREA

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP)—The petroleum administration for war today announced that it had declared the Hugoton gas field in Oklahoma and Kansas a "restricted area" and banned drilling operations. The ban was temporary, brought on by a shortage of drilling materials, PAW said.

The agency said more wells than necessary were being drilled.

United, Eastern Air Line Fare Cuts Effective Today

Reductions in fares by United Air Lines and Eastern Air Lines will be effective today, officials of the lines said yesterday. United will cut rates 10 per cent on its coast to coast lines and the Pacific coast system and reëstablish 5 per cent discounts on round trips. Eastern's reduction will be about 6⅓ per cent, plus a 5 per cent round trip reduction.

PEACE STOCKS, MOTORS LEAD MARKET HIGHER

Rails, Aircrafts Dip on Profit Sales

New York, April 30 (AP)—A burst of buying on the stock market today pushed up motors and other peace benefitted issues as much as 4 points or more to a new average peak since Aug. 31, 1937, but rails, aircrafts, and many pivotals declined on profit cashing.

Demand again was based mainly on the belief victory in Europe was virtually accomplished and that vast amounts of idle money would come out for automobiles and assorted civilian goods when factories return to normal production. Stocks of companies with serious transition problems had to contend with liquidation.

Average Closes Higher

The list was hesitant after the opening, but bidders then appeared and, altho minus signs were plentiful at the close, advances were well distributed. Dealings quickened at intervals and transfers were 1,500,000 shares, compared with 1,360,000 Friday.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was up 0.2 at 65.2. Of 948 issues traded, 416 were up, 317 down, and 215 unchanged.

Chrysler was in the forefront of the upswing with an advance of 4⅛ points at 112¾.

RAIL BONDS CLIMB

New York, April 30 (AP)—A strong rally by a sizable group of secondary railroad issues led the bond market higher today. Among favorites advances ranged from major fractions to 3 points and in a few cases more.

Because of heavy turnover in carrier loans, it was among the busiest days of the year and sales were $17,300,000, compared with $16,150,000 Friday.

CHICAGO LIST ADVANCES

Prices closed higher on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Turnover was 50,000 shares. Active issues included Admiral corporation, which reached a new 1945 high of 14⅞, up ⅝.

One Stands Out

There's no question about the value of hospitalization insurance. But the kind of plan and where to buy it are worth your study.

In this field, one company stands out. Continental protects more people with a wider variety of hospital, medical, surgical coverages than any other company. Continental also is the only company which has never needed to restrict its coverage or increase its rates since introducing its original Hospital plan nearly a decade ago. Only 50 years of specialization in Accident and Sickness insurance permits this pioneering of new coverages on such a sound, permanent basis.

Whether you need accident, sickness, hospital protection for yourself, your family, or your employees . . . ask your agent or broker to explain Continental contracts. Convenient home office location . . . the only multiple-line institution with home offices in the middlewest . . . is your assurance of fast, efficient, personal service.

Virginia Electric Makes 59 Million Award

Offering will be made today at 100½ of 35 million dollars of B. F. Goodrich company 2¾ per cent first mortgage bonds of 1945 thru a syndicate headed by Goldman, Sachs & Co. Proceeds will be used to redeem $21,049,000 of first mortgage 4¼s of 1956 and $4,700,000 of first mortgage 3s of 1956, and for future expansion plans.

Stone & Webster and Blodgett was awarded 59 million of Virginia Electric and Power company bonds on a bid of 100.8229 with a 2¾ per cent interest rate. The only other bidder, Halsey, Stuart & Co., offered 100.3913 for the same coupon. Offering of the bonds, due in 1975, was expected at 101½ subject to approval of the securities and exchange commission.

A banking group headed by Blyth & Co. submitted the winning bid of $21.16 a share for 133,500 shares of Lake Superior District Power company common stock sold under competitive bidding by North West Utilities company. Reoffering was expected later this week at $22.50.

Offer Rail Supplier's Stock

Blair & Co. and associated investment bankers will offer today 50,000 shares of 5 per cent $50 par cumulative preferred stock and 45,000 shares of $5 par common stock of H. K. Porter company, locomotive and railway supplies manufacturer.

The preferred, with nondetachable warrants, will be offered at $50 and the common at $9.50. The warrants entitle the holder of each preferred share to purchase two common shares at $11 a share on or before Nov. 1, 1947, and at $13 until May 1, 1950.

Proceeds from the preferred sale will be used to redeem the 4 per cent preferred stock, reduce debt, replenish working capital, and further other corporate purposes. The common stock will be sold on behalf of T. M. Evans, president.

C. & E. I. Bond Issue Approved

The interstate commerce commission authorized the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad to issue $10,644,000 of 3¾ per cent first mortgage bonds of 1985 to refund $9,400,000 of 4 per cent bonds owned by the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The remaining $1,244,000 of the new issue will replace a like amount of series A bonds now pledged with RFC as collateral. The sale price was set at 98¼.

Revere Copper and Brass registered with the SEC 150,000 shares of no par common stock to be sold by General Cable corporation, thru Blyth & Co. The price will be set in an amendment. Proceeds will increase cash resources.

National Tea company called for redemption today its 200,000 shares of outstanding 5½ per cent cumulative preferred stock at $10 a share plus a cash adjustment. Proceeds from the previous sale of 1½ million dollars of bank serial notes will be used to finance the redemption.

CATTLE PRICES LOWER DESPITE DIP IN RECEIPTS

Prices for cattle, the average for which last week set a new April high, came under pressure at the Chicago stock yards yesterday, despite country-wide reduction of volume. Steers and heifers were steady to 25 cents a hundred pound lower and most grades closed at the low. Top loads sold at $17.80, or 10 cents under last week's high. Price reductions of 25 cents were general for beef cows, canners, cutters, and bulls. Calves slumped 25 to 50 cents.

Prices for lambs and sheep were mostly steady, but some sales were as much as 25 cents lower and others 25 cents higher. The best loads sold at $16.65, and Colorado spring lambs averaging 83 pounds at $17.50. Hogs held at ceiling prices.

OAK MANUFACTURING

I should like information on the capitalization and earnings of Oak Manufacturing company which recently arranged for public financing.—T. O.

Securities of the company offered publicly by an underwriting group a week ago consisted of 1 million dollars of 5 per cent convertible debentures, due in 1955, and 350,000 common shares of $1 par value.

Of the latter, Oak Manufacturing supplied 50,000 shares, and five stockholders the remainder. On delivery of the new stock, there will be outstanding 450,000 shares, all of one class, of which 400,000 shares were issued earlier this year in exchange for the 227,800 old shares. The debentures will be the only funded debt, altho the prospectus said that the company may later apply for a "T" [contract termination] loan.

Organized in 1932, the company manufactures radio parts, principally switches, condensers, vibrators, and manual and electrical tuners. Information available on its pre-war earnings is confined to the three fiscal years ended May 21, 1938, when profits averaged 47 cents a share a year on the present stock. The public offering price of $10 a share is 21 times such earnings, a high ratio for this industry if the profits can be assumed to represent approximate normal earning power.

War time earnings have ranged from 91 cents a share in 1940 to $1.50 in 1942, with an annual average of $1.11. The 1944 profit, after estimated renegotiation refund, was equal to $1.07. Oak's sales increased from $1,420,930 in 1938 to $14,095,221 in 1944.

The company's current assets as of Jan. 31, 1945, prior to the new financing, totaled $6,033,595, and current liabilities $5,387,811. Giving effect to the financing, the tangible book value of the stock on that date was $2.73 a share. Conversion of the new debentures and exercise of outstanding stock purchase warrants, all on the basis of $12.50 a share, would increase the outstanding stock by 155,000 shares.

MOST GRAINS TURN HIGHER ON SHORT COVERING

Grain futures were mostly higher yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Peace talk caused speculators to act with increased caution. Prices moved erratically with short covering developing in wheat futures.

Wheat shifted in a range of 2 cents and closed ⅛ to 1¼ cents a bushel higher. Rye was ⅛ to 1 higher, the latter on May; corn ¼ to ⅜ higher; oats ⅛ lower to ⅜ higher, and barley unchanged to ⅝ higher.

A report that the government expects to take 20 per cent or more of the flour produced by American mills was said by brokers to indicate mills would continue indefinitely to purchase large quantities of wheat. Some buying of wheat futures was based on a report of poorer southwestern crop conditions by the Santa Fe railway.

SAYS SLUM IDEA ADDS $6 TO TAX ON $6,000 HOME

What the average small home owner will see added to his tax bill every time a sizeable parcel of property is removed from the tax rolls was calculated yesterday as a concrete argument against the tax exemption feature of the Kelly-Green public housing program before the state legislature.

Charles E. Fox, chairman of the taxation and legislation committee of the Chicago real estate board, said he made the calculation because of Gov. Green's statement of Sunday in which the governor said tax exemption was the only way to share in federal housing funds but deplored the principle as "economically and morally unfair" to "the vast majority of small home and farm owners."

"Small home owners are not inclined to think of this tax exemption they hear about as anything affecting them directly," said Fox. "It may be a shock to some of them to learn that granting tax immunity to 120 million dollars of assessed valuation adds $6 a year to the taxes on a $6,000 home."

Fox said he took 120 millions as being slightly under the 100 millions plus a fair valuation on the present tax exempt public housing projects in Chicago contemplated for slum clearance and rebuilding in the Kelly-Green bills. Relieving this valuation from taxation would increase the 1944 rate of $3.97 on $100 valuation to $4.07, or $1 on each $1,000.

"But this is just a starter; there are 22 square miles in Chicago that may be rebuilt with tax exempt houses under the bills at Springfield," said Fox. "Every time we grant tax exemption, which is included also in the Kelly-Green traction authority plan, the burden on real estate that continues to pay will be increased by the same rate.

"Chicago real estate already is paying 6 million dollars a year for poor relief. That amounts to 12 cents on $100, or $7.20 a year on the $6,000 home. Now, that home owner is asked to take on another $6 a year to give low rent housing to other men, many of whom are as able as he is to pay their share of taxes.

"Gov. Green talks of injustice. Somewhere along the line there has got to be a terminal on injustice."

UNION PRESIDENT GOES INTO ARMY AS STRIKE ENDS

John Nechistak, 29, president of local 264 of the International Drop Forgers, Blacksmiths, and Helpers' union [AFL], entered the army yesterday. His fellow unionists and coworkers struck at midnight April 20, because they charged he was being railroaded into the army by the management of Pettibone Mulliken corporation, 4710 Division st.

Nechistak, an X-ray welder in the plant, did not protest his reclassification to 1-A from 2-B [essential war worker]. In fact, he pleaded with his fellow workers to terminate their strike. They heeded his pleas and returned to work at midnight Sunday.

Fellow unionists and A. J. Eberhardy, international representative of the AFL union, charged that the company had railroaded Nechistak into the army because he was president of the local. Altho he was a top-flight welder, they said, the company listed him 89th in a list of 96 workers essential to the company. Nechistak is married and has two children.

Two other strikes continued yesterday.

A strike of 125 men and three women, members of local 2,942 of the United Steel Workers' union [CIO], continued to paralyze war production at the Bucyrus Monaghan company. They struck Friday to obtain incentive pay for nonproduction workers.

A second strike has been in effect at the Western Foundry company, 3700 S. Kedzie av., since April 17, when 400 of 425 workers employed there left their jobs in protest against the company's alleged refusal to sign a contract with their union, local 2,674 of the USU-CIO. It is tying up production of gray iron and steel castings needed by the army and navy.

Cafe Manager Is Robbed of $2,580 in Receipts

Driscoll Jackson, Negro, manager of Ella Mae's Chicken shack, 407 E. 43d st., was overpowered yesterday by a Negro bandit near the restaurant and robbed of $2,580 receipts he was taking to a bank.

G. I. JILL GIVES SAMPLE OF SHOW ON AIR TONIGHT

Perhaps you've never heard of her, but she's known to millions of American service men overseas. She's a radio sweetheart of many of them—a sort of kid sister to others. They know her as G. I. Jill. Her broadcasts by way of the armed forces radio service thru hundreds of American expeditionary stations draw the biggest bundles of fan mail tening.

Jill runs a musical request program called "AEF Jukebox" designed exclusively for overseas listening.

But unless you've eavesdropped on short wave overseas broadcasts, you've never heard her. Tonight you may. Jill—or rather Martha Wilkerson—has come to Chicago from her home in Los Angeles, Cal., to appear on Service to the Front at 9 p. m. over WBBM-CBS. The program will be devoted to the work of the AFRS tonight and Jill will give the home folks a sample of the show she beams overseas.

Miss Wilkerson is married to an army man, Pvt. Mort Werner. They have a 4 year old daughter, Carole.

RADIO STOLEN FROM HOME

Theft of a radio, a duffle bag, and a typewriter, valued at $105, from his home, was reported to police yesterday by Jack Dinschel, 5029 North av.
